Harbor City Woman Charges Mental Domination

Held Under Spell for Two Victim Declares

Mann Act Case Presents Odd Puzzle for Officers

That he had held her under hypnotic influence for more than a year was the story told by Mrs. Myrtle Bilstrom, 23 years of age, police said, to cause the arrest of A. L. Grant, 35 years of age, a roomer of 2335-A Two Hundred and Fifty-fourth street, Harbor City. Grant is being detained at the San Pedro Police Station on a charge of violating the Mann Act.

Police officers declared Grant said he "could play with her as a man plays a violin." Mrs. Bilstrom, working at the Union Oil refinery when Officers Vignean and Wessel of the San Pedro division arrested him.

According to Mrs. Margaret Curley, policewoman, Mrs. Bilstrom was at Tampico, Mex., with her husband, Augustus Bilstrom, when she became ill with malaria. Bilstrom wired for Mrs. Grant to send her expenses back to California. The money was sent, it was declared by Grant.

Mrs. Bilstrom told the police woman, the latter says, Grant held her in subjection, putting her into a trance whenever she wished to leave the house. The woman further declared that Grant told her that Canadian mounted police were coming here to arrest criminals, and prohibited a large revolver with fourteen notches as proof of Grant's prowess. Officers Vignean and Wessel say Grant told them he was born in Wisconsin and that his father was the Canadian mounted man, and that the notches were cut by him.

Mrs. Bilstrom was released to take care of her daughter, 3 years of age, and was directed to appear today before investigators from the Department of Justice.

TRADE ZONE ON WILSHIRE WINS FAVOR

Improvement Association Indorse Proposed Change

Workman Tells Council

Numerous indorsements of the campaign of the West Wilshire Development Association in favor of Proposition No. 4 on the coming inst. ballot, which concerns the widening Wilshire Boulevard from Fifty-fourth street westward to the Pit for business, have been received by the organization, it was announced yesterday. The petition has been indorsed by the Greater Larchmont Association, Pasadena-avenue Improvement association, South Side Civic and German-American League, Wilshington-Pico Heights Taxpayers association, and favored by the commercial Board of Los Angeles in a straw vote, it was stated.

President Workman of the Council yesterday lauded the movement saying the Council had decided to change the zone of Wilshire Boulevard to allow development for business purposes after a long and careful consideration by a majority of property-owners along the thoroughfare, desire the change, he said.

"The tremendous traffic on Wilshire Boulevard by day and night has robbed it of some of its residence street," he said. "Many business structures, in the form of apartment houses, have been erected along many of its blocks, so that it ultimately must become a business street is apparent to all concerned.

"I believe the voters should retain the City Council by voting 'yes' on both Propositions No. 3 and 4, and by so doing defeat the referendum directed against action of the City Council."

Mass Meeting Unanimous on Proposal No

At a meeting attended by more than 1200 people in the auditorium of the Franklin high school last night, the West Hollywood Improvement Association adopted a resolution unanimously indorsing Proposition No. 2 on the coming ballot, which calls for increases in the police and fire department salary schedule, for the Fourteenth District Police Station, which recently went into operation, and for the construction of a new fire station in West Hollywood. The meeting was addressed by Joy Morgan, publisher of the Record, who urged the people to vote for Herrin and against the measure on the ground that the proposed increases in salaries were unchecked by any provision for the collection of additional revenue. Following the meeting, which involved an exchange of several hundred shots, Sunday became another day for Herrin and Wednesday was the first part of the afternoon, when more trouble flared.

One bloodshed was near the Little Church around the Corner, where two carloads of armed gangsters got out of cars and opened fire on each other. The man who is asserted to have fired the first shot was killed on the street.

Others were wounded on the street. According to John Smith, Herrin saloon and garage owner, the man who is first shot by him by the police is identified as Peter Jones. He states that he was standing in front of his garage with about 250 persons talking with him when a car, a coupe, came by and drove up. According to the man in it opened fire with a rifle. MAUNA LOA CAUSES NEW TEMBLORS

Island of Hawaii Shaken Again as Volcano Belches Out Vast Smoke Clouds

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

HILO (T. H.) April 13.—Mauna Loa, which burst into activity with streams of lava Saturday, sent down billows of smoke today.

Whether the mountain was belching fire could not be seen, for the peak, 13,675 feet above sea level, was hidden by clouds that reached far down its slopes.

The island was shaken today by numerous earthquakes. Residents of Wood Valley in the Kau district, south of Mauna Loa, became frightened as the quakes continued and began moving out.

Dwight Man Ahead About 5 to 4 for Nomination on Republican Ticket

Democratic Slate Led by Brennan Easily Victorious; Bauer Vote Uncertain

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, April 13.—Early returns from several hundred city wards and many points through the down-State section give Col. Frank L. Smith of Dwight a lead over Senator William B. McKinley of Champaign for the Republican nomination for United States Senator. For a time the Dwight man was running ahead more than two to one, but this lead was later cut down. The figures available early tonight gave Smith a total of 20,770 and McKinley 16,765.

The McKinley vote was swelled by returns from a large city ward controlled by Senator Deneen, who has indorsed McKinley. Moore, Smith manager, declared that Smith will carry Cook county by 50,000. Both candidates have been indorsed by the Anti-Saloon League. While Col. Smith has not been considered as dry as Senator McKinley, neither candidate said a word on the prohibition issue during their flight up and down the State.

At the ratio Col. Smith is now running in the city he will carry Cook county by 50,000.

The regular Democratic ticket led by George E. Brennan for United States Senator, Samuel L. Nelson, State Treasurer, Charles A. Karch and Frank J. Wise, Congressman-at-large, won easily throughout the State. The regular Democratic county ticket found little opposition and won in all the city wards and county districts. This ticket is led by P. J. Carr, Sheriff, Edmund K. Jarecki, county judge, and Robert M. Sweitzer, county clerk.

But few returns are in from the Ninth District where Bertha Bauer Republican of the Gold Coast social circles is battling Representative Fred A. Britten, Republican, for a seat in the House. Mrs. Bauer is the only woman candidate for Congress in the State.

Vessels Sunk in Turkish Waters to be Salvaged

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 13.—The salvaging of ships sunk in Turkish waters during the World War is to be undertaken this spring. An Italian salvaging concern has contracted with the Turkish government for the raising of the thirty-nine ships which were sunk in the Dardanelles, the Marmora and the Black seas.

Twenty-three of these boats are Turkish, including three cruisers, twelve destroyers, six submarines, one transport and one auxiliary. Nine of the wrecks are English, chiefly destroyers, and seven are French.

It is believed that none of the ships can be repaired for use, but the value of the materials they contain is considered sufficient to make salvaging worth while. The Turkish government will receive 50 per cent of the value of the salvaged material, while the Italian company expects to make a considerable profit out of the remaining 10 per cent.

ELEVATED HELD CURSE TO PROGRESS OF CHICAGO

KEEP THE "L" OUT OF LOS ANGELES

The Railroad Commission, Interstate Commerce Commission, the people's engineers have declared in favor of grade crossing elimination in Los Angeles by means of a union depot in the Plaza area.

The railroads propose to eliminate grade crossings by building more than four miles of elevated ("L") structures in our downtown area.

Vote "Yes" at April 30 special city election on union depot and Plaza site (Propositions 8 and 9) and keep the "L" out of Los Angeles.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, April 13.—Chicago, second largest city in the United States with a population of more than 3,000,000, is the only really big city in the world that has no subway. As a consequence it depends for its method of so-called rapid transportation on the archaic elevated railroads. And the story this great city is telling the world daily is that elevated railroads are a curse to any community in which they have been erected.

Chicago more than any other city has felt their deadly constriction, has suffered from their darkening shadows and their depressive gloom, their dirt and dust, their interminable ear-splitting screeching and their myriad dangers directly and indirectly.

The trail of the elevated road through the downtown area of Chicago has left row after row of dilapidated and antiquated buildings, for wherever "L" structures go up, property values go down. No one can live, work or think within hearing of its constant rumbling over rail joints, its endless din and its continuous nerve-wracking grinding and squealing.

SYSTEM FORTY YEARS OLD

The elevated system of transportation in Chicago came into being nearly forty years ago. Its competitors were horse-drawn street cars. As electricity was not in use for motive power, steam engines ran on the trestles. There were two terminals in the business district at that time, one for the North Side road and one for the South Side lines. These terminals were situated at the outskirts of the downtown section.

Following the World's Fair year of 1893 came agitation for transportation right into the business district, and also a new elevated structure stretching out over the west side of the city. This brought forward the question of ways and means of bringing all trains to one central spot—a kind of union station.

There was in Chicago then a traction genius, Charles T. Yerkes, a capable and energetic man. Backed by local capital, he set about to solve the transportation dilemma. Yerkes's proposal was not a union station, but a union loop encircling the entire business area, thus permitting the trains to run from their terminals out onto the loop structure, around it and through their terminals again for the return trip.

The suggestion of such a loop precipitated a bitter controversy between merchants, business men and citizens. Those who would profit by the proximity of such MOSCOW, April 13.—The government and the Russian Academy of Sciences are keenly interesting themselves in the expected visit here of the dirigible Norge of the Amundsen-Ellsworth Arctic expedition. The Academy of Sciences has suggested that the commander of the Norge, if he should meet with difficulty while over the Arctic and be forced to come down on the water, to arrange for a tremendous explosion, which would affect the academy's seismic stations and thereby permit aid to be sent to the distressed airship.

WILKINS TO SEARCH FOR MAN ON ICE

Flight Leader Gets Appeal to Keep Watch in Arctic for Fred Maurer

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
[Protected by the North American Newspaper Alliance]

FAIRBANKS (Alaska) April 13. Capt. Wilkins, commander of the Detroit Arctic expedition, has received a request from John Maurer of New Philadelphia, O., to keep a lookout when on flights over unexplored areas of the Arctic for his brother, Fred Maurer, generally believed to have died near Wrangell Island in 1922, while attempting to cross to Siberia on the ice.

John Maurer said: "It has never been proved that Fred is dead, and while I believe it is improbable, it is possible that he was carried off on an ice floe and is now living in some unexplored land."

Capt. Wilkins will comply with the request, but it is generally regarded here as extremely unlikely that Fred Maurer is alive.

A. Malcolm Smith, leading the overland division of the expedition by dog team from Fairbanks to Point Barrow, resumed the journey this morning from the camp on the Anakuvuk River. The party had been held up two weeks by shortage of dog feed.

Smith is counting on obtaining additional reindeer meat from the natives at Beechy Point, thirty-five miles away. His relief supply was furnished by Eskimo hunters he encountered on the Etikiepan River while foraging for food.

He has 140 miles of mushing between the river camp and Barrow.

The single-engined monoplane Alaskan will not resume its ferrying trips to the advance Base at Barrow for two or three days because of Capt. Wilkins's sprained arm. The commander believes the three-engined Detroiter will be ready for trial flights in another day or two, and he hopes to have the entire expedition moved to its Arctic base within two or three weeks.

Chihuahua Bank Closed by Rush, Reopens Doors

JUAREZ (Mex.) April 13. — The Chihuahua Investment Company Bank, the largest in Chihuahua City, Mex., reopened today and two other banks closed yesterday are expected to open soon, it is stated in a telegram received here by Elias Acosta, Jr., Juarez banker.

The banks were closed yesterday when depositors became frightened upon seeing soldiers and police stationed in the institutions and started a run. The telegram stated that the depositors had been calmed and that withdrawals had stopped.

The soldiers and police were stationed in the banks to enforce a court order forbidding the melting of Mexican gold coins.

Reports here said practically all business houses in Chihuahua City had closed their doors in protest against the order and that considerable excitement prevailed. No copy of the order has been received here.

WILLIAMS' COUNSEL HINT INTIMIDATION BY BUTLER

Witness's Statement Favorable to Defense Challenged as Not in Line With First Report

BY FLOYD J. HEALEY
"Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MARINE BASE, SAN DIEGO, April 13.—The court-martial of that Coronado cocktail developed its most sensational titbit today when intimation was made in court that Brig.-Gen. Butler intimidated inferior officers into statements prejudicial to Col. Alexander S. Williams, who is accused by Gen. Butler of being drunk. The charge was not made directly but defense counsel clearly showed in the questioning of one of their principal witnesses that they felt he had made a statement to Gen. Butler "under duress."

Capt. George F. Stokes of the Marine Corps and one of those at the Williams reception in honor of Butler was on the stand at the time.

He testified that Col. Williams did not have to be barried from the hotel, as was contended yesterday, that he had none of the symptoms of an intoxicated man that he noticed and in general gave the defendant colonel a clean bill of health.

Capt. Leo D. Hermle, judge-advocate on cross-examination, asked:

"Did you not make a statement to the commanding general about this case prior to your testimony at this hearing?"

"I did."

The defense immediately objected to any further questioning along that line on the ground that regulations do not look with favor upon the introduction of such statements at a later hearing.

HINT IMPEACHMENT

Capt. Hermle had no hesitancy in revealing his position. He stated immediately that the line intended, if possible, to impeach the witness by showing that in his written statements to the commanding general (meaning Butler) Capt. Stokes had "made remarks inconsistent with his testimony on the witness stand."

Legal pyrotechnics filled the rooms for the next fifteen minutes. In order to clear up the situation, Capt. Stokes was asked to tell the circumstances surrounding the submission of his original statement to Butler. Immediately after the so-called cocktail party, he said, he, in common with several other officers, was instructed to submit in writing a statement covering individual knowledge of Col. Williams's condition at the Coronado Hotel.

His statement was submitted, he said. Later, he declared, he was called to the office of the commanding general and told:

"You boys know what is wanted; now go back and write new statements."

He was told there was too much equivocating in the statement, he averred.

Capt. Hermle objected to the entry of the matter into the record of the proceedings, which drew from Capt. Cates of defense, the contention that trial regulations specifically frown upon the introduction of statements made "under duress."

Capt. Hermle turned to the witness and demanded:

"Did the commanding general use any duress upon you?"

"I do not feel qualified to say," Capt. Stokes replied.

"As a matter of fact then, you do not know whether duress was used or not?"

"No."

NEW PHASE OF CASE

Introduction of this asserted phase of the case featured an entirely new version of the events which gave birth to the Coronado cocktail.

Defense testimony occupied the entire session today and it was a different story that began to unfold itself to the members the trial board.

Eight witnesses were heard. The burden of it was that Col. Williams was not drunk either at his home or at the Coronado Hotel on the night which has caused all this excitement and that he did not stagger in an unseemly fashion, that he was not carried out of the hotel because he couldn't walk, that he did not have the "staggers" as was charged by Gen. Butler yesterday and that no alcohol was served in the Coronado cocktails.

In brief, testimony leaned to the opinion that Gen. Butler, an acknowledged "dry," was "all wet." One witness testified it was a very quiet party. Witnesses heard were Dr. Erroll Willett, navy dentist, Walter Poor, Coronado representative of the bond department of the National City Company of New York, an attendant at the party, Private Ferdinand Bergman of the Marine Corps, who drew some maps of the hotel, Capt. George F. Stokes of the Marine Corps, Maj. Russell H. Davis of the Marine Corps, Maj. John L. Doxsey, Dr. L. T. Condit, navy dentist and Dr. Frank S. Tichy of the navy medical corps, dentist in general charge of such work at the naval hospital where Gen. Butler was treated for infected teeth.

A lengthy argument over testimony to be introduced as res gestae arose during the day and until the implication of duress entered the proceedings, was the most interesting morsel vouchsafed the spectators.

RES GESTAE FIGHT

The argument over the res gestae, which are the facts that form the environment of a litigated issue, had the entire proceedings in deep water for an hour.

Mr. Poor was on the stand and was the unwitting cause of it all. He testified that he went to the Coronado Hotel to attend a dance on the night of the Coronado cocktail party. He was sitting in a reception hall just off the ballroom, he said, when Col. Williams looked in.

"Good evening, colonel," Mr.

WETS CITE MORALITY

Witnesses Tell Dry Evils

Priest Paints Picture of Carousals in Coal Mine Regions

Bad Effects on Children of Tenements Reviewed by Court Official

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Three more witnesses called by the wets told the Senate Prohibition Committee today that moral conditions had grown worse under the Volstead Act.

One of them, Father Francis Kasmerun of Sugar Notch, Pa., painted for the committee a graphic picture of wide-open saloons, wild carousals by young people, drunkenness in homes and intoxication among school children in the anthracite towns of Pennsylvania.

Police statistics from many cities were submitted by Stanley Shirk of the Moderation League to support his assertions that arrests for drunkenness, particularly among automobile drivers, has taken an enormous upward swing since the dry regime.

CASES INCREASE

The last witness of the day, Mrs. Viola Anglim, deputy chief prohibition officer in the New York City Family Court, declared cases before that court have increased since prohibition, because the wives and children are suffering more than before.

"The probation officers under my direction tell me that in their districts you can find 150 to, 200 stills," she said. "These not only are operated in cigar and other stores, but also in the home.

"Tenements are the homes of stills; you open a door and instantly get a whiff of the stuff they make. The children are there and must know all about it."

She added that while "the material condition" of the wives and children has improved under prohibition, their "moral condition" has not.

WOMEN URGE MORAL AID FOR ENFORCEMENT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Having in no uncertain terms informed the Senate Prohibition Committee of their uncompromising opposition to the modification of the Volstead Act, the Women's National Committee for Law Enforcement today issued a challenge to the American people to "uphold the Constitution," and listened to the advice of speakers who asked them to pound at the job of building up sentiment for law observance.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, who is in charge of the Department of Justice liquor prosecution forces, said "watchful units of women" can keep public officials delivering their best efforts, even though such officials at times be the kind that, "unwatched, would slight the task in hand."

Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in a statement read to the conference, asked, "Why not be honest with ourselves and admit that our children will not be the high-minded, fine people that we want and expect them to be unless we—their parents—set them an example of being just and law-abiding citizens."

The political assets and liabilities commission of the conference, headed by Mrs. William Harrison Cole of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, brought in the challenge for enforcement. It was contained in a report which listed the assets and liabilities of the nation as they relate to observance. Among the assets were good citizens, intelligent voters and citizens of character willing to stand for office.

LIST LIABILITIES

Liabilities were listed as corrupt politicians, the instinct to hide party sins, indifferent citizens, the system of political patronage, political machines, timidity or cowardice in fighting well-known evils and yielding to "enemy propaganda."

"We have a full knowledge that many of the vital laws of this country are being flagrantly violated," said an appended resolution. "Our Poor said. Happy this evening?"

"As happy as a hog may be who hasn't been feeling well for several days," was the colonel's reply, according to the witness.

Judge-Advocate Hermle was on his feet at once, asking that the words " . . . who hasn't been feeling well for several days" be stricken from the record.

Attorney Kirby took up the burden of argument for the defense, and the next half-hour was devoted to a free-for-all discussion of the merits of the answer, the objection to it and the grounds for its retention.

The judge-advocate contended the answer was "self-serving" and drove for a couple of tomes to show what that meant and why.

THOROUGHLY INVOLVED

Kirby and Capt. Cates of defense submerged for a few more volumes of navy courts and boards—the pivot of service regulations covering the legal phases of court-martials—and came up with the argument that if some foundation for Col. Williams's condition other than intoxication was prohibited, the defense would have no case and might as well quit right then and there.

After the argument had become so thoroughly involved that no one had the least idea what it was all about and res gestae was figuratively bobbing up and down looking desperately for a life saver, Rear-Admiral Washington, as president of the board, valiantly jumped into the sea of contention and brought res gestae to some semblance of consciousness by asking:

"Now, let us understand this objection clearly. Is the objection made on the ground that the answer is not a proper part of the res gestae or is the objection made on the ground that the answer is inadmissible conversation?"

They were off again, but not for long. Finally, it was straightened out that the judge-advocate objected on both grounds so the board retired to resuscitate res gestae without outside interference.

DELICATE DECISION

Judge-Advocate Hermle confided to the press row as the members of the board filed out that res gestae is Latin "and not one lawyer in a hundred knows what it means." The press row was willing to agree to that, at least, without argument.

The court-martial board settled the matter in delicate fashion. Admiral Washington announced the board was agreed that Mr. Poor's answer, which by this time had been completely forgotten, was really not admissible as res gestae. However, it seemed to the court that unless some means were taken to get at the real facts of Col. Williams's condition, there wasn't much need of proceeding, so held that, as conversation, the answer was pertinent and could stand in the record.

So, although res gestae was allowed to sink peacefully to a technical grave, the board kept it from doing any further damage in the channels of legal shipping by salvaging the hull and the machinery and everyone seemed satisfied.

Fortunately, some one remembered what the question had been, it was asked and answered again, and the hearing proceeded.

LOOKED SICK AND BORED

"Did you notice anything unusual in regard to the actions of the accused?"

"How was his gait?"

"His gait was feeble. He was not staggering, though, like a drunken man."

"In your opinion, was he drunk?"

"In my opinion, he was not."

Capt. Hermle contented himself on cross-examination to establishing that Poor based his observations on the length of time in which he spoke the words of greeting to Col. Williams.

Dr. Errol W. Willett of the navy medical detachment and Private Ferdinand Bergman of the Marine Corps were the other two witnesses at the morning session. Private Bergman testified he had drawn floor plans of the hotel and Col. Williams's home at the request of Capt. Cates. They were submitted in evidence.

Dr. Willet was asked if he had seen Col. Williams at the hotel that night. He replied that he had.

Col. Williams, after standing with a group for some time, passed him, he said.

"Good evening, colonel," Dr. Willett said.

NO SMELL OF LIQUOR

At that time, Dr. Willett testified, he noticed "nothing about the colonel's appearance which would lead him to believe he was drunk. "He was, however," the witness testified, "pale when he spoke."

"Did he show any symptoms of intoxication?" Capt. Cates asked.

"Not that I noticed."

"Did you smell any liquor on his breath?"

"I did not."

"Who else did you talk to?"

"Capt. Rice and Capt. Stokes."

"Did you smell any liquor on their breaths?"

Capt. Hermle objected on the ground that the question was entirely irrelevant and the answer had no bearing on Col. Williams's condition. The defense contended that Capt. Hermle had brought in the same kind of testimony and they considered the matter "vital."

Another conference was held. The board decided that Dr. Willett could tell about Capt. Rice and Capt. Stokes.

He smelled no liquor on them, he said.

"How close were you?" he was asked.

"Closer than Capt. Hermle."

This answer later was amplified to mean a distance close enough for Dr. Willett to have touched Col. Williams as he passed.

HARD TO DISTINGUISH

Dr. Willett said his impression of the colonel was that he was a man who might have been "intoxicated, under the influence of dope or sick" and added:

"I believe it would be very hard for anyone to distinguish just what was the matter—that is, whether he was drunk or sick—on casual observation."

"Do you believe he was drunk?"

"I do not."

"Did he stagger?"

"I did not see him."

"Was there any appearance that he was being carried out when he left?"

"I saw nothing to make me believe he was being carried."

"Did you observe Gen. Butler?"

"I did."

"How far from Col. Williams was he?"

"Not closer than ten or fifteen feet."

"Were there any persons between him and Col. Williams?"

"Quite a number."

DENTAL DIVERSION

In all questions to defense witnesses, it was plain that Col. Williams will contend that he was not feeling well on the night of the Butler reception, and that it would be impossible for a layman who saw him only a few minutes to distinguish between illness and intoxication. They also seek to show that Gen. Butler was not close enough to Cal. Williams at any time during the affair at the Coronado Hotel to diagnose his real condition. With the inauguration of dental testimony they revealed an attempt to prove that Gen. Buler was so irritated by a mouthful of infected teeth that he himself was in no condition to give unbiased judgment to the physical condition of another man.

Capt. Stokes testified that Gen. Butler was fifteen or twenty feet from Col. Williams at the hotel, and that several persons, perhaps as many as forty, were in the space between the two officers.

It developed in the testimony of Capt. Stokes that Col. Williams has several hobbies, among them being radio, antique firearms, and the building of a ship for his son. Maj. Davis verified this contention when he took the stand. The point was brought out that on those particular subjects, Col. Williams is a loquacious individual. The inference plainly was designed as refutation of a point upon which Capt. Hermle laid some stress yesterday. He had extracted the colonel's tendency to loquaciousness from some of the witnesses as part of the circumstances to show that Williams was intoxicated.

JUST GRAPEFRUIT

Maj. Davis was positive also about the Coronado cocktail. He said it was sweet grapefruit juice. In his opinion, it contained no alcoholic content. As a matter of fact, it was "a very quiet party," he declared.

Maj Doxsey, executive officer of the marine recruit depot, was impressed with the fact that Col Williams was not drinking or eating anything and felt that he was probably ill, but never had any occasion to think he was drunk, he testified.

Butler's molars and incisors began to cut some figure when the dentists took the stand Judging from their testimony, the general has had a good deal of trouble. After getting one tooth pulled, X-ray plates revealed a series of abscesses and in all twelve teeth eventually were removed, according to Dr Tichy.

The fact that medical and dental science recognizes that infected teeth impair the maximum efficiency of other parts of the physical, mental and nervous system, was added by hypothetical line of reasoning. It was directed against Gen. Butler.

About that time, Rear-Admiral Washington, president of the board, wanted to know if any infected series of teeth could impair the vision of an individual. Dr. Tichy replied there are many such cases of record.

On cross-examination, however, Judge Advocate Hermle impressed upon Dr. Tichy that he need not speak hypothetically, but specifically, on the question.

PERFECTLY NORMAL

"You have testified," reminded Capt. Hermle, "that you personally had charge of Gen. Butler's teeth. Now, confine yourself to your professional opinion of Gen. Butler's condition on Saturday, March 6."

"One tooth had been extracted the day before. He came to me on March 6 highly elated and said the pain had been entirely relieved."

"Then on March 6 he was perfectly normal, in your opinion?"

"Oh, yes."

Just Dr. Tichy was about to leave the stand, Lieutenant-Commander H. Garrison stopped him. The latter has been sitting with defense counsel throughout the trial, but had taken no active part in the case until technical medical testimony began.

Gen. Butler yesterday had testified that there was a mix-up as to what tooth to pull. Commander Garrison halted Dr. Tichy as he rose in the witness chair and demanded:

"Did you or did you not pull the wrong tooth?"

In answer to a question by Admiral Washington, Capt. Cates announced that seven mode defense witnesses will be called and that a couple of them will have lengthy testimony.

POLITICIANS IN PANIC AS BUTLER SHIFTS POLICE

(Copyright, 1926, by Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

April, May and June. Three active months. Police activity continued. Efforts to hamper and hinder continued to increase. Month by month the task became more difficult. As police efficiency increased and progress was made, in that same direct proportion politicians hampered and hindered. The Civil Service Commission issued a public announcement that it would co-operate by dismissing policemen found guilty of intoxication. But it didn't mean it, as the statistics of the two years show.

An increase in pay for the policemen had been sought for some time. The Mayor and Council had half-promised it. I agreed to fight for an increase, provided the police would reduce crime. They did. During this three-month period crime of all sorts was reduced by fully 20 per cent over the same period the previous year.

New drives were ordered and carried out, more or less successfully. Promotion and demotions, suspensions and transfers continued. Before the first six months were over most of the lieutenants on duty when I assumed office either had been demoted or transferred. New faces appeared—police whose work had impressed and who had been rewarded by promotion.

GIVEN REBUFF

It was decided to have a legal adviser to guide the police in their work. The City Solicitor6 who had volunteered to aid in that work, found he hadn't the time. I appealed to Dimitry, Roberts, a man who had held that office for eighteen years by virtue of his affiliation with one wing of the "gang."

Curtly and discourteously he refused to assign one member of his large staff to aid the police.

"I won't assume any responsibility for that rotten police force," the man charged with the responsibility of prosecuting offenders told me.

We asked the City Council to appropriate $5000 a year to pay for the services of a legal adviser. Council quibbled, the bill was delayed and shelved for weeks and months, but finally was passed, after the man selected for the post, Edwin M. Abbott, had agreed to serve without pay.

Magistrates continued to discharge prisoners brought in following raids, regardless of the evidence.

When offenders, after much effort on the part of the police, finally reached the courts for trial, the judges showed that they were opposed to dry enforcement, by their ridiculous instructions to juries and their interpretations of the laws of the commonwealth.

FIGHT OVER GAMBLING

Several thousand gambling slot machines, seized by the police, in a sensational sweep through the city, were ordered returned by the Municipal Court. While the case was being fought out in the courts for weeks and weeks, the machines continued in operation, earning a daily profit of $15,000 for their owners. The court finally directed that the machines, being gambling devices, should be removed from the city. They were not confiscated as they should have been, but the operators were given ample time to get out, with tremendous profits.

Thus, every step for enforcement was hampered, every move was delayed; every plan was hindered.

Every once in a while the politicians would spread the rumor that I was about to be ousted, and the lid would be lifted, and vice and rum returned to its own. This always meant renewed drives and raids.

But all the efforts were not in vain.

Poison liquor, which had flowed freely during the previous administration, and weekly exacted a toll of many lives, had been entirely eliminated. More than 200 dives, masquerading as restaurants, cider saloons and cigar shops, which had openly sold what was known as "block and fall" whisky (walk a block and fall dead) were closed before the end of the first six months. Deaths from that cause ceased.

In the meantime, I was drawn into the traffic muddle. Traffic conditions were horrible. Some New York expert offered to sell to the city blueprints of a plan that would solve the problem. He wanted $50,000 for the plan.

The Mayor and the president of Council asked me to take over the problem and solve it—to save the city $50,000.

WORK ALL IN VAIN

I agreed and went to work. Intensive studies of conditions followed. Plans were formulated and tried out. Some were found to be wanting, but finally we hit upon a plan that we believed would solve the problem of economical and efficient regulation; $35,000 was required for equipment—an insignificant sum, particularly when it is considered that $50,000 had been saved in the obtaining of the plan.

But the politicians saw an opportunity to discredit me through the traffic problem. The plan was attacked in City Council. The money was refused. The Mayor, who had urged me to take up this work and who had promised to obtain the appropriation after he had studied the plan and approved it, failed to do so. I immediately dropped the traffic problem and asked the Mayor to appoint a commission to work out a solution.

In the meantime, I had worked out a plan to remove the police from under the thumbs of the politicians, and, at the same time, increase police efficiency by placing more men on the streets.

It must be remembered that out of the entire force of 4300 men, but half were available for actual police street patrol—2100 men to police 3500 miles of streets and alleys. Manhattan, in New York, with 2300 miles of streets, has almost four times as many men doing patrol duty. These 2100 men worked in three shifts of eight hours each, so that actually there were never more than 700 men on the streets at any one time.

We abolished the office sinecures and put 200 extra men on the streets. We eliminated several antiquated police boats and put sixty extra men on beat-pounding duty.

HARD BLOW DEALT

Then we dealt the death knell, for the time being at least, to complete control of the police by politicians. As previously explained virtually each ward had a police station. There were forty-two police stations. A study revealed that the elimination of eighteen of these stations would save the city hundreds of thousands of dollars annually in upkeep, would enable us to put sufficient commanders in each district so that a lieutenant or captain would always be present and in charge, would release about 140 extra men for street duty and would make it difficult for politicians to control the police.

By a system of "gerrymandering," we so divided up the districts, that each police station covered two or more wards. This would naturally bring two or more ward leaders into conflict for favors in each district. They would fight each other.

Then, instead of one lieutenant in each district, we would put two lieutenants and a captain; each of the officials would be selected from different sections of the city and with different political affiliations. How could three ward leaders control three different police officials? We believed it would be virtually impossible.

By such an arrangement special details, required in each station, clerks, turnkeys and others, could be eliminated, and all the extra "overhead" put at police work.

We studied the plan carefully, worked it out on a map and put it up to the Mayor. Previously, however, I had taken the matter up with the City Solicitor and in a lengthy written opinion he decided that the redistricting could be put into operation by the Director of Public Safety, without any act of legislation, ordinance of Council, or approval of the Mayor.

PROVES BOMBSHELL

I nevertheless placed the suggestion before the Mayor, explained that it would aid materially in my carrying out his pledge to divorce the police from politics, and, at the same time, increase police efficiency so that crime could be kept down.

The Mayor initialed the plan and map and approved it.

I made it public and announced my intention of putting it into immediate effect.

It served as a bombshell. The native Philadelphia politicians are a shrewd lot and they immediately realized the significance of the move. They realized that it would take the police from their control.

Redistricting also helped us to overcome some of the obstacles placed in the path of the police by magistrates. Under the law, police are required to take prisoners arrested on the streets before magistrates of that district. There were more magistrates than there would be districts. Under the new plan, some of the important districts downtown would have two and sometimes three magistrates. Thus, we were enabled to select the magistrate who was least hostile and least under the thumb of the local leader.

In this manner, by adopting a "dog-eat-dog" policy, we could obtain warrants that would have been impossible to obtain under any other plan.

Let us say that Vare and Hall were on the "outs" as they were. Each controlled a magistrate in the same district. Hall's magistrate would issue warrants for places controlled by Vare's friends and followers and Vare's magistrate would issue warrants for places in Hall's bailiwick.

Politicians began to growl and grumble again.

TURN ON MAYOR

They realised it would be futile to growl to me, so they turned on the Mayor and made life miserable for him. In droves they rushed into his office to insist he "call me off." They harrassed him almst to death. "Bill" Vare raised a terrible racket. Charley Hall did likewise, when he found out that the station-house in his ward was to be eliminated entirely. Every ward leader who was to "lose a police station" demanded that the Mayor halt the plan or dismiss me. Politicians brought huge delegations of citizens to protest to me and I always convinced the delegations that the move was a proper one.

The Mayor didn't know what to do. He was in a terrible predicament, for he didn't want to offend the politicians—in fact, he wanted their good will for he had his eyes on the Governorship—and yet he had personally approved the plan in order that his pledges and promises to the people might be carried out by me—his subordinate.

What was he to do?

(Tomorrow Gen. Butler will tell of the first seriously strained feeling between the Mayor and himself, brought on by the harassment to which politicians subjected him because of the redistricting plan.)

OREGON TO ACT ON INCOME TAX

Initiative to Put Issue Up to Electorate

Project Sponsored by Grange and Farm Body

Rural Areas Favor Levy, But Cities Oppose It

PORTLAND (Or.) April 13.—Oregon is in the throes of another fight over a State income tax, an agitation that is unusually persistent. Oregon repealed a State income tax law in 1924 after it had been in force but a single year, but the backers of the plan have been eagerly awaiting another opportunity to insist upon enactment of a similar measure.

The present bill, which is to be submitted under the initiative next November, is sponsored by the Oregon State Grange and the Farmer's union. It is similar to the law which was repealed by the voters two years ago, except in the important particular that it increases the amount of individual income that is exempt, a change by which the proponents hope to win the votes of many who were taxed under the former measure but would escape under the more liberal provisions of the latter.

If the measure is passed it will be only after one of the hardest fights that any piece of proposed legislation could face. Business men in Oregon, almost as a unit, are against the bill. It is almost certain that the cities will vote against the plan and probably equally certain that the country districts will vote for it. That was the experience with the last income tax law and there is every reason to believe that it will be repeated.

The Greater Oregon Association, an organization of leading citizens, has branded the effort to re-enact the income tax here as most untimely. The association believes that such a law would but increase the tax burden and will lead to further official extravagance without bringing any compensating benefits.

"We need investment capital, we need the co-operation of the outside world to prosper in industry, but we will never get them if we continue to discourage investors with such fiscal policies as our grange friends would like to have adopted and which our politicians, for votes or political credit, are using for campaign purposes," reads a statement from the association.

It is added that the farmer is following a very short-sighted policy when he advocates a taxation system which, admittedly, will tend to cripple industry.

As no other Pacific Coast State has an income tax, the association and many others feel that Oregon would be under a decided handicap with such a system in effect here. The one year that the tax was enforced here saw a considerable number of individuals and corporations moving from the State. It is feared that this will be repeated. Already, it is reported, certain firms are preparing to leave Oregon if the income tax becomes a reality.

LONDON, April 13.—Gloom sits heavy on the hearts of London husbands.

With the new craze for pleating of women's gowns there has been a drastic increase in the yardage of my lady's garments, and the cost has risen correspondingly.

The women will not be denied however, for not only are pleats smart but, curiously enough, the more material used the slimmer the figure appears. Some creations have as much as fifty yards of pleated trimmings.

Unlike the husbands, cloth manufacturers are jubilant, for it gives them a chance to get some of their own back after being hard hit by the vogue of short skirts.

Actress Announces Miami Real-Estate Op... Next Man She Will Lead to Alta...

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MIAMI (Fla.) April 13.—Peggy Hopkins Joyce [illegible] her engagement to Stanford E. Comstock, wealthy Miami operator and member of a prominent Chicago family. The announcement was made to intimate friends and newspaper men of a group of friends here.

Miss Joyce did not announce the date of the intended wedding, but intimated it might be before she sails for Europe, May 1, to make her next picture.

As she told of the engagement Mr. Comstock stood by her side and nodded assent.

"Yes, I'm engaged," she said, jamming her hands deep down in the pockets of her red slicker, but not before a brilliant diamond flashed on the engagement finger. "And here's my fiance, 'Stan' Comstock. I don't see why my engagement should be of any interest to the public, but we have managed to keep it secret up to now, haven't we, Stan?"

Comstock blushed and nodded, but continued to allow his fiancee to do the talking.

Comstock is a veteran Florida real-estate man. He is 35 years of age. The bride-to-be is said to be about 30.

The couple will make their home at Miami, Miss Joyce said, and while motion-picture activities will require her presence on the Pacific Coast part of the time, she said, she expected to spend the greater part of her time here.

A few years ago Miss Joyce came to Miami as the bride of James Stanley Joyce, to whom she was married shortly after procuring a divorce from Philbrick Hopkins. She was given a $250,000 home here as a wedding present, but lost it later when she was divorced from Joyce.

Later she was married to the Count Gosta Morner De Moreland, a Swedish nobleman, severing her relations with him recently.

Miss Joyce began life as Marguerite Upton, daughter of a Virginia barber. At 16 she married Everett A. Archibald after an elopement. The marriage was annulled six months later.

She next married Philbrick Hopkins, an attorney representing Mexican oil and mining interests. She was divorced from him to become the bride of Stanley Joyce.

Chief of Police Griffith stated about noon that he did not expect to ask for troops, but when Lieut.-Col. Robert M. Davis arrived from Carbondale he immediately got in touch with various citizens and it is understood had a formal request from State Senator William J. Sneed, one of the United Mineworkers' officials, for troops. The request was made at approximately 3 o'clock and at 4:05 the small headquarters detachment from Carbondale arrived on the scene and proceeded to the Smith garage.

MOB DISPERSES

They had just arrived in Herrin when the third shooting occurred about five blocks from the scene of the first and second shootings.

The second shooting occurred when armed men surrounded the Smith garage on two sides. They fired about five hundred shots into the garage, but no one was injured then. Reports that Smith had fled from a rear door caused the mob to disperse at that time.

Col. Robert Davis of Carbondale, in command of the troops here, has requested two more companies of militia from Cairo and has announced that they will arrive in motor cars. They were already mobilized and ready to come at the time of the outbreak. Two more companies are reported to be mobilized.

The situation apparently is now well in hand, but due to the tense feeling there is no telling when trouble will commence and it is feared other outbreaks will occur as the handful of militia here is unable to do more than patrol the places where the shooting already has taken place.

"L" IN CHICAGO PROVES CURSE

Business District Growth Retarded by Elevated

Experts Declare Progress Set Back Fifteen Years

High Structure Source of Frequent Accidents

transportation were naturally for it. Those who would be situated close to the noise, the dirt and the darkness fought the proposal tooth and nail.

FRANCHISE PUT THROUGH

At that time, however, the notorious "gray wolves" were in control of the Chicago City Council and Yerkes and his cohorts succeeded in getting a franchise jammed through. This franchise permitted Yerkes to build "L" structures on the north and west sides of the business district only. But in spite of the combined howl of Wabash-avenue and Van Buren-street merchants and business men, Yerkes was able to build structures on all four sides. When certain merchants yelled too hard the master manipulator of Chicago transportation bought them off.

Thus it was that the union loop atrocity, an iron band of gloom and darkness, illegally fastened itself around the torso of Chicago. This iron band, supported in the air by unsightly stilts, and emitting almost constantly all the racket of a boiler factory in full blast, soon proved to be what its antagonists predicted: a steel corset retarding the natural growth of a great city.

Despite sustained organized protest against its dangers, its noise, its obstruction to light, its unsightly appearance and its devastating effect on property values, those first "L" structures have stood for thirty years defying everything and everybody, and the sad part of it is that they bid fair to stand for many years to come.

PROGRESS RETARDED

City plan experts have contended for years that were it not for the elevated railway loop, the downtown section of Chicago would have tripled in size and value more than fifteen years ago. At it stands now the "L" structures encircle a business district of less than a mile square valued at a billion dollars!

Recently, however, due to the city's natural position geographically and the growth of the nation generally, Chicago began to burst out of its iron jacket. The business district is gradually spreading beyond the environs of the "loop" but the spread is taking place something like twenty-one years late. In other words, parts of the city now being added to the downtown section would have been such long ago and the consequent realty values of today would have been reached almost a generation ago.

The present movement to enlarge the downtown section beyond the confines of the elevated "loop" is a slow process, and only an actual choking, a literal "blow-up" from congestion has given the pioneers of the movement confidence to invest millions of dollars elsewhere. Had the construction of the first "L" structure in the loop been defeated at the beginning, the welfare of Chicago would have been advanced in a score of ways.

The first "L" structure built in the downtown section of Chicago certainly did just what its proponents intended it should do: enhance the value of business property within a block or two of the road by forcing the population through this mode of transportation to patronize their well-located place of business. But while certain merchants and owners of office buildings are reaping large profits through the limitation of the business district, the owners of property abutting the elevated structure have another tale to tell.

VALUES DEPRESSED

The buildings on Lake street, Wells street, Van Buren street and Wabash avenue, over which the "L's" run, for the most part are not more than five stories high. The floors beneath the level of the structure must be artificially lighted even on the brightest days. The noise from the passing trains is not only deafening, but highly disconcerting. Conversation on a telephone must be carried on between trains. Business conferences are almost out of the question. These facts are the principal ones in depressing the value of buildings close to the structures. And it is because of these facts that hundreds of merchants and business men are doing all that is humanly possible to get a subway started so that the "L" structures may be torn down, the natural light of day restored and the noise eliminated.

From an esthetic point of view, "L" structures that stretch across a city like huge snakes, are to say the least, hideous. The huge black uprights are as unsightly as the "L" itself. Civic pride alone seems to have been sufficient reason for the banning of elevated lines in the European cities. London, Berlin, Paris, Glasgow and Madrid prefer tubes or subways. Tokio is to have a subway instead of the antiquated "L" system.

FREQUENT ACCIDENTS

Accidents are frequent and serious both on the elevated trestles and beneath them. On the trestles the sun expands the rails, and cool, damp weather contracts them. Contraction and expansion of rails have been the cause of most of the grewsome catastrophes in the history of elevated transportation. Then, too, there is a certain awful reaction to a smash-up of two or more vehicles in the air. Persons who have been through such accidents say the feeling of falling to earth with the possibility of being pinioned under one of the huge cars or a set of trucks is a terrible one. Most persons get such a reaction from the photographs of elevated wrecks.

Beneath the trestles the uprights are a constant menace to pedestrian and vehicular traffic, particularly in damp weather when the rain turns the dust into mud and slime, which, because of the lack of sunlight to dry it up, remains for days a slippery, dangerous mess.

ARROWSMITH

by Sinclair Lewis

WHO'S WHO:

MARTIN ARROWSMITH, a young man of ideals and a passion for investigative research, who is studying medicine at the University of Winnemac; idolizing Prof. Max Gottlieb, instructor in bacteriology, he has resolved to carry on the work which has made his tutor famous on two continents. Martin is engaged to Leora Tozer, undergraduate nurse.

LEORA TOZER, honey-haired daughter of a North Dakota banker, delightfully bizarre in dress, speech and manners, and a student nurse at Zenith General Hospital, has entranced Martin with her silliness and intrinsic beauty. They are engaged; she calls him "Sandy."

PROF. MAX GOTTLIEB, instructor in bacteriology, and considered one of the world's most expert scientists; known to his fellow-professors as a recluse, but who has taken a liking to Martin, his star pupil.

DR. T. J. H. (Dad) SILVA, very-poky, red-faced dean of the medical school.

BENONI CARR, born Rasmo Markovski, a fake physician, introduced as a famous scientist by Clawson at a faculty banquet.

The persistent yammer of a motor horn drew Martin to the window of the laboratory, a late afternoon in February. He looked down on a startling roadster, all streamlines and cream paint, with enormous headlights. He slowly made out that the driver, a young man in coffee-colored loose motor coat and hectic checked cap and intense neckwear, was Clif Clawson, and that Clif was beckoning.

He hastened down and Clif cried:

"Oh, boy! How do you like the boat? Do you diagnose this suit? Scotch heather—honest! Uncle Clif has nabbed off a twenty-five-buck a-week job with commission, selling autos. Boy, I was lost in your old medic school. I can sell anything to anybody. In a year I'll be making eighty a week. Jump in, old son. I'm going to take you to the Grand and blow you to the handsomest feed you ever stuffed into your skinny organism."

The thirty-eight miles an hour at which Clif drove into Zenith was, in 1908, dismaying speed. Martin discovered a new Clif. He was as noisy as ever, but more sure, glowing with schemes for immediately acquiring large sums of money. His hair, once bushy and greasy in front, tending to stick out jaggedly behind, was sleek now and his face had the pinkness of massage. He stopped at the fabulous Grand Hotel with a jar of brakes; before he left the car he changed his violent yellow driving gauntlets for a pair of gray gloves with black stitching, which he immediately removed as he paraded through the lobby. He talked the coat-girl "Sweetie," and at the dining-room door he addressed the head waiter:

"Ah, Gus, how's the boy, how's the boy feeling tonight? How's the mucho famoso maljordomoso? Gus, want to make you 'quainted with Dr. Arrowsmith. Any time the doc comes here I want you to shake a leg and hand him out that well-known service, my boy, and give him anything he wants, and if he's broke, you charge it to me. Now, Gus, I want a nice little table for two, with garage and hot and cold water, and wouldst fain have thy advice, Gustavus, on the oysters and hore duffers and all the ingredients fair of a Maecenan feast."

Clif whispered to Martin, "I've got him like that in two weeks! You watch my smoke!"

While Clif was ordering a man stopped beside their table. He resembled an earnest traveling man who liked to get back to his suburban bungalow every Saturday evening. He was beginning to grow slightly bald, slightly plump. His rimless eye-glasses, in the midst of a round smooth face, made him seem innocent. He stared about as though he wished he had some one with whom to dine. Clif darted up, patted the man's elbow and bawled:

"Ah, there, Babski, old boy. Feeding with anybody? Come join the Sporting Gents' Association."

"All right, be glad to. Wife's out of town," said the man.

"Shake hands with Dr. Arrowsmith. Mart, meet George F. Babbitt, the hoch-gecelebrated Zenith real-estate king. Mr. Babbitt has just adorned his thirty-fourth birthday by buying his first benzine buggy from yours truly and beg to remain as always."

It was, at least on the part of Clif and Mr. Babbitt, a mirthful affair, and when Martin had joined them in cocktails, St. Louis beer and highballs, he saw that Clif was the most generous person now living, and Mr. George F. Babbitt a companion of charm.

Clif explained how certain he was—apparently his distinguished medical training had something to do with it—to be president of a motor factory, and Mr. Babbitt confided:

"You fellows are a lot younger than I am, eight-ten years, and you haven't learned yet, like I have, that where the big pleasure is, is in Ideals and Service and a Public Career. Now just between you and me and the gate-post, my vogue doesn't lie in real estate but in oratory. Fact, one time I planned to study law and go right in for politics. Just between ourselves, and I don't want this to go any farther, I've been making some pretty good affiliations lately—been meeting some of the young Republican politicians. Of course a fellow has got to start in modestly, but I may say, sotto voce, that I expect to run for Alderman next fall. It's practically only a step from that to Mayor and then to Governor of the State, and if I find the career suits me, there's no reason why in ten or twelve year, say in 1918 or 1920, I shouldn't have the honor of representing the great State of Winnemac in Washington, D. C.!

In the presence of a Napoleon like Clif and a Gladstone like George F. Babbitt, Martin perceived his own lack of power and business skill, and when he had returned to Mohalis he was restless. Of his poverty he had rarely thought, but now, in contrast to Clif's rich ease, his own shabby clothes and his pinched room seemed shameful.

A long letter from Leora, hinting that she might not be able to return to Zenith, left him the more lonely. Nothing seemed worth doing. In that listless state he was mooning about the laboratory during elementary bacteriology demonstration hour, when Gottlieb sent him to the basement to bring up six male rabbits for inoculation.

Gottlieb was working eighteen hours a day on new experiments; he was jumpy and testy; he gave orders like insults. When Martin came dreamily back with six females instead of males, Gottlieb shrieked at him, "You are the worst fool that was ever in this lab!"

The groundlings, second-year men who were not unmindful of Martin's own scoldings, tittered like small animals, and jarred him into raging, "Well, I couldn't make out what you said. And it's the first time I ever fell down. I won't stand your talking to me like that!"

"You will stand anything I say! Clumsy! You can take your hat and get out!"

"You mean I'm fired as assistant?"

"I am glad you haf enough intelligence to understand that, no matter how wretched I talk!"

Martin flung away. Gottlieb suddenly looked bewildered and took a step toward Martin's retreating back. But the class, the small giggling animals, they stood delighted, hoping for more and Gottlieb shrugged, glared them into terror, sent the least awkward of them for the rabbits, and went on, curiously quiet.

And Martin, at Barney's dive, was hotly drinking the first of the whiskys which sent him wandering all night by himself. With each drink he admitted that he had an excellent chance to become a drunkard, and with each he boasted that he did not care. Had Leora been nearer than Wheatsylvania, 1200 miles away, he would have fled to her for salvation. He was still shaky next morning, and he had already taken a drink to make it possible to live through the morning when he received the note from Dean Silva bidding him report to the office at once.

The dean lectured:

"Arrowsmith, you've been discussed a good deal by the faculty council of late. Except in one or two courses—in my own I have no fault to find—you have been very inattentive. Your marks have been all right, but you could do still better. Recently you have also been drinking. You have been seen in places of very low repute, and you have been intimate with a man who took it upon himself to insult me, the founder, our guests and the university.

"Various faculty members have complained of your superior attitude—making fun of our courses right out in class! But Dr. Gottlieb has always warmly defended you. He insisted that you have a real flair for investigative science. Last night, however, he admitted that you had recently been impertinent to him.

"Now, unless you immediately turn over a new leaf, young man, I shall have to suspend you for the rest of the year and, if that doesn't do the work, I shall have to ask for your resignation. And I think it might be a good thing for your humility—you seem to have the pride of the devil, young man!—it might be a good idea for you to see Dr. Gottlieb and start off your reformation by apologizing—"

It was the whisky spoke, not Martin:

"I'm damned if I will! He can go to the devil! I've given him my life, and then he tattles on me—"

"That's absolutely unfair to Dr. Gottlieb. He merely—"

"Sure. He merely let me down. I'll see him in hell before I'll apologize, after the way I've worked for him. And as for Clif Clawson that you were hinting at—him 'take it on himself to insult anybody'? He just played a joke, and you went after his scalp. I'm glad he did it!"

The little man, the rosy, pudgy, good little man, he stared and hummed and spoke softly:

"Arrowsmith, I could fire you right now, of course, but I believe you have good stuff in you. I decline to let you go. Naturally, you're suspended, at least till you come to your senses and apologize to me and to Gottlieb." He was fatherly; almost he made Martin repent; but he concluded, "and as for Clawson, his 'joke' regarding this Benoni Carr person—and why I never looked the fellow up is beyond me, I suppose I was too busy—his 'joke,' as you call it, was the action either of an idiot or a blackguard, and until you are able to perceive that fact I don't think you will be ready to come back to us."

AERONAUTICAL TROPHY DEPOSITED IN MUSEUM

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Albert S. Reed, winner of the Collier Aeronautical Trophy for 1925, has deposited the trophy in the Smithsonian Institution for the year that he is entitled to retain it. It will be on exhibit in the Aircraft Building of the National Museum, adding one more to the remarkable collection of exhibits renowned in the history of aviation which has been gathered together by the Smithsonian. These exhibits now include the contributions of its former secretary, S. P. Langley, to aviation, the flag ship of the round-the-world flight, and the diary thereof kept by Lieut. Arnold, the T-2 transcontinental flyer, Col. William Mitchell's warplane used by him in France, Berliner's helicopter, and many other historical aircraft and accessories.

The trophy was the gift of Robert J. Collier in 1911, "to be awarded annually by a committee of aeronautical experts for the greatest achievement in aviation in America, the value of which has been thoroughly demonstrated by use during the preceding year." A committee consisting of Orville Wright, Godfrey L. Cabot, George W. Lewis, Porter H. Adams and B. Russell Shaw, recently selected Mr. Reed's invention of a duralumin propellor as best fulfilling the conditions for the year 1925.

PUBLIC SCHOOL WEEK PLANNED

State-wide Observance Will Start 26th Inst.

Notable Speakers on Programs in Various Cities

Several Angelenos Are on General Committee

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 13.—Between 500 and 600 meetings will be conducted over the State during the observance of the seventh annual public schools week in California, the 26th inst., to May 1, next, according to reports made public here by Vaughan MacCaughey, secretary of the State committee having the week's activities in charge. The State committee has called attention to the co-operation that has been given to the movement by the press of the State. The clippings being returned to the headquarters of the Masonic Grand Lodge show a much wider distribution than was received last year.

The week originally was celebrated in Masonic lodge rooms, but owing to the increased public interest last year meetings were conducted in public halls and school auditoriums, with the public in general invited. The same procedure is being carried out this year, Charles Albert Adams, former grand master of Masons of California, being chairman of the general State committee.

During the week there will be a notable listing of speakers in different parts of the State, among others Dr. Rufus B. Von Kleinsmidt, president of the University of Southern California, Dr. A. R. Anderson, president of the State Teachers' College at San Francisco; Dr. Tully C. Knoles, president of the College of the Pacific; State Superintendent of Public Instruction Will C. Wood; Superintendent of Schools Roy M. Cloud of San Mateo county; Superintendent Fred M. Hunter of Oakland; A. R. Heron, former assistant superintendent of schools of California; and hundreds of other speakers selected in different localities.

The general problem of the public school will be a theme during the week, the activities being especially directed toward bringing the parents into closer touch with the work of the public schools.

Special activities for large community meetings are being carried out in San Francisco, Oakland, Bakersfield, Fresno, Modesto, Stockton, Lodi, Paso Robles, and the large centers in the South, such as Los Angeles, San Diego, Long Beach and Santa Barbara.

The general State committee in charge of the week is as follows: Charles Albert Adams, chairman; Vaughan MacCaughey, secretary; Arthur Chamberlain, Wesley W. Kergan, Elias Ellison of San Francisco; Robert A. Odell, Vierling Kersey, Harry S. Lasker, Lee T. Mullen, A. Gaylord Beaman, of Los Angeles; Arthur M. Brown, Pasadena; Fred M. Hunter, Oakland, and Roy Cloud, Redwood City.

TEXAS BOND PURCHASERS FOUND WARY

Dealers Say All Classes Will be Unsalable Unless Validation Comes Soon

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

AUSTIN (Tex.) April 13.—Unless early action is taken to validate the outstanding road-district bonds of Texas, all classes of Texas bonds will be unmarketable, according to bond dealers of various parts of the United States. The situation is regarded as serious and perhaps without any means of remedying it until the Legislature meets in regular session next January. It is improbable that Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson will call a special session to validate the bonds, which aggregate approximately $100,000,000 and are for the most part in the hands of private investors scattered over the country. The situation is described by Allen H. Little, chairman of the committee on municipal securities of the Investment Bankers' Association of America, in a letter to William T. Wheeler, secretary of the Texas Highway Association, as follows:

"An examination of recent sales of city bonds in your State indicates that the larger dealers of the country have entirely withdrawn from the Texas market. I have discussed the matter with many of them and find that they are determined to buy no Texas bonds of any kind until your road-district bonds have been returned to their former standing. On questioning the various dealers as to the reasons for their action I find that it is owing to the fact that their customers are refusing to buy any Texas bonds whatever. This is a deplorable situation, but, after all, no one can make an investor invest his money in anything he does not care for.

"Public credit is very sensitive, and if a community or a State for any reason receives a bad name it only takes a short while before investors all over the country believe that all securities issued by such a community or State are in bad repute. In order words, they do not distinguish between the facts involved in the different characters of issues, but go on the theory that if one class of bonds in the State has been seriously jeopardized by a court decision, that there is no use in taking chances on any other types of bonds in the same community.

"Investors always run on the slightest suspicion of trouble, and if the trouble is so serious that default result it takes investors a long time to forget their prejudices and fears."

AGE LIMIT CITED

Barrister Contends Magistrate is too Old

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) April 13. C. S. Arnold, barrister, has challenged the right of Alexander Phillips to sit as magistrate in North Vancouver on the ground that the Municipal Act specifies the age limit as 75 years, while Mr. Phillips is 77 years of age.

If this technicality is upheld by the Supreme Court, Magistrate Phillips decisions for the past two years will be ultra vires.

GUBANS COVET SUGAR CONTROL

Smoot Charges Isle Seeks World Monopoly

Declares Money Troubles Due to Buying Lands

Holds Duty Lifting Will Only Enrich Refiners

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Cuba's financial troubles were attributed today by Chairman Smoot of the Senate Finance Committee to the investment of many millions of dollars in "buying up lands with the avowed purpose of controlling the sugar industry of the world."

Only the large sugar crop of the world has prevented the coup being successful, he asserted in a Senate speech. The movement will succeed, he added, unless sugar producers elsewhere interfere, and then the sugar industry of the United States will be destroyed.

"God help the people," he said, "should it succeed."

Senator Smoot read to the Senate a cable dispatch from Cuba in which an appeal was made to the United States to help Cuba by lightening the duty here on Cuban sugar.

He said removal of duty on Cuban sugar would give the people of the island no relief as long as the refiners control the price of sugar in Cuba, and read a statement declaring the American Sugar Refining Company would make a profit of $12,000,000 a year if it could get the tariff on Cuban sugar removed.

DEMOCRATS CLASSIFY SELVES

Definition Offered by New Mexico County Health Officer Wins First Place in Competition of 30,000 for Best Way to Particularize Party's Purposes

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The answer to the question "What is a Democrat?" has been found.

The Pathfinder, published here, announced today the findings of Senator Robinson, Arkansas; Morrison, Mississippi, and Edwards, New Jersey, as judges of a contest in which 30,000 participated. First prize went to Dr. M. D. Taylor, county health officer of Aztec, N. M., who submitted this definition:

"A Democrat is one who believes in the fullest freedom of speech, press and religion; the separation of church and state; laws that bear equally upon all classes without special privilege or monopolistic advantage; rights of States guaranteed by the Constitution, and less national paternalism."

"A Democrat is one who votes to adhere to the principles of the party as expounded by Jefferson, Cleveland and Wilson, which assure personal liberty, freedom of religion, speech and press; equal justice, industry, frugality and happiness; abhorring corruption and privilege, and preserving inviolate the republic in vigor and union."

SENATOR RAILS AT MUSSOLINI

McKellar Launches Attack in Debt Discussion

Declares Leader of Fascisti Despot and Briber

Reed Protests Outburst as Insult to Italians

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Another storm of debate about Premier Mussolini broke today in the Senate as the Italian debt settlement again was pressed to the front.

An address opposing the settlement and bristling with attacks on the Italian Prime Minister was delivered by Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee. It brought protests from both sides of the chamber.

Characterizing Mussolini as a "despot," Senator McKellar said he was "the greatest evil that has befallen the Italian people in a hundred years," adding that the kind was "puttyin his hands' and that the royal household has been "bought off" by large appropriations for their use.

Then bringing fifteen specific indictments against the Fascisti leader, the Tennessee Senator declared he had destroyed constitutional government in Italy; abolished free speech; muzzled the newspapers; in effect had abolished both houses of Parliament, and had established an "autocratic rule" as complete as that of the Bolsheviats in Russia.

A protest against the speech was voiced by Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, who declared no Senator should make such an address about a friendly government. He added that one reading the Senator's remarks might conclude that they were preparatory to a declaration of war.

"I want it understood that the Senator is speaking for himself and not for the first of the Senate," declared Senator Reed. "His statements are bound to wound the feelings of the Italian people."

Senator Copeland, Democrat of New York, added his voice in protest declaring that if the people of Italy want a dictatorship by Mussolini "thats their business."

Strife in Church Caused by "Money Making" Tour of Pastor Considered Ended by Action

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 13.—Resignation last night of four trustees of the Calvary Baptist Church, of which Rev. John Roach Straton is pastor, today was considered as marking the end of a year's internal strife.

The four trustees protested against "the recent borrowing of $3000, a large portion of which was used to pay Dr. Straton's salary while he was making money and seeking personal publicity in Florida."

During February and March Dr. Straton filled the pulpit of the First Baptist Church at West Palm Beach, for which they said he received a "substantial salary," while drawing $1500 from the Calvary Baptist Church.

The resigning trustees also protested against what they termed "hippodrome stunts" by their former pastor. The four opposed a plan to raze the present church and build in its place a modern skyscraper to house a hotel and a separate unit for the church. They asked an injunction and a receivership, but the court declined to intervene.

William A. M. Martin, former treasurer, Robert B. Buxbee, former attorney, for the church, and Albinus B. Miller and Benjamin J. Miller, brothers, are the trustees who resigned.

BISHOP SAYS MEN RETAIN UPPER HAND

Blames Males for Any Low Standards of Morals for Both Sexes

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CORVALLIS, April 13.—"Although women have demanded and received political freedom, man still dominates the sexes," declared Dr. Walter Taylor Sumner, bishop of Oregon, who addressed the student body of Oregon Agricultural College in the men's gymnasium.

"Where there are low standards in morals it is due to the men. Where there are petting parties it is due to the men. Any man who will give a girl a drink is a lounge lizard and has no place in decent society.

"Character is founded on some sort of a religious conviction," continued Dr. Sumner. "Have a religious motive and build your character upon it. The college cannot make a wise man out of a fool—a great man out of a small one—a good man out of a bad one, but it gives an opportunity to develop the best that is in one. You have an opportunity here to perfect yourself for life in the world later."

The youth of today is under discussion and is being challenged, said Bishop Sumner. He declared that he had no sympathy with those who say that the youth of today is inferior in any respect to the youth of yesterday.

"This is a day of unconventionality," he said, "but that does not mean what it did in the older day. This is a day of informality, but informality does not mean immorality."

Personal conferences with students are being conducted by Bishop Sumner. He will be on the Campus several days, making his annual visit.

Order Pry into Books of Baking Industry Chief

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 13.—Charging that W. B. Ward and his personal company, the Ward Securities Corporation, has used more than $8,000,000 of the General Baking Corporation's funds to finance stock deals, a group of General Baking stockholders announced today the formation of a special committee to investigate the legality of these transactions, and to take possible action against the corporation's officers and directors.

William Deininger, who was recently succeeded as chairman of the General Baking Corporation by Fred H. Frazier, heads the committee which is investigating the activities of Mr. Ward, who organized the corporation last October. Although he holds no place on its roster of officers or directors, Ward also is head of the Ward Baking Corporation, and one of the leading figures in the baking industry.

More than 10½ per cent of the total amount paid was spent for the army of occupation and administration expenses.

CLARK COUNTY AT LAST TO ELIMINATE FINAL 'E'

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PORTLAND (Or.) April 13.—The required ninety days since adjournment of the special session of the Legislature having elapsed, the "e" was officially dropped off "Clarke" county, Washington, under terms of a bill passed at the late session. Clark county, of which old Fort Vancouver is the hub, was named for William Clark of Lewis and Clark fame in 1825. How the "e" became annexed to the name no one knows, but everyone who knows history has been trying to have it officially dropped for the past ten years. Now that the name has been officially shortened it has been ascertained that every corporation in the county using the old name will have to be reincorporated.

Trial Discloses Teuton Problem of Bootlegging

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BERLIN, April 13.—Although Germany has no prohibition laws the government has its bootlegging problems, as is shown by the trial involving internal-revenue collectors, high police officials and illicit-booze manufacturers and sellers. In this case alone it is believed that at least 2,500,000 liters of denatured alcohol were withdrawn from government bond, purified and sold.

Since Herman Weber, who engineered the entire business, was able to purchase alcohol for one-fifth its regular sale price, because he obtained certificates stating that it was for industrial purposes, the profits of the bootleggers have been running into many millions of marks. Seven lawyers will take turns in defending the accused in the trial, which will last at least two months, during which time 150 witnesses will be examined.

COLLECTOR RETURNS WITH CHINESE JADE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) April 13. Probably the largest and most valuable collection of Chinese jade that has ever crossed the Pacific was carried off the S.S. Empress of Russia at Victoria, B. C., by A. W. Bahr, collector, of New York. The collection is the result of nine months' excavation in the central and northwest provinces of China from ancient bouders. Each piece of jade has been used symbolically in dressing the dead, a sacred custom in the Shang, Chou and Han dynasties, and dates from 1900 B. C. to 300 A. D. These dressings have proved an art revelation to the world, Mr. Bahr said.

AIRSHIP LOS ANGELES IN AIR

Craft Goes on Trial Trip After Accident at Mooring Mast When Broken Cable Lashes About

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

LAKEHURST (N. J.) April 13.—The Navy dirigible Los Angeles took the air this afternoon for the first time since June 8, 1925, on a short trial flight in the vicinity of the Naval Air Station here. Capt. George W. Steele Jr., was in command. His executive officer was Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, senior survivor of the ill-fated Shenandoah.

The dirigible was taken from her hangar this morning.

The main cable attaching the dirigible to her mooring mast broke as the craft was being pulled into the steel tower.

Several hundred feet of cable whipped around the mast, striking a motion-picture cameraman and inflicting severe lacerations.

The dirigible was drawn to the ground by two other cables and Lieut. Roland Mayer, construction officer, made an inspection of the break.

A ground crew of 200 had walked the craft a mile across the landing-field to the mast, and had released their ground ropes when the accident occurred.

A number of officers were on the mooring mast when the broken cable began lashing about, but all escaped injury.

CHANG ASSERTS HE FIGHTS REDS

Dictator Says Whole Aim to Wipe Out Bolshevism

Manchurian to Keep Out of Politics in Nation

Marshal Calls Whole Task Restoring North

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

MUKDEN, April 13.—Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, dictator of Manchuria, interviewed by representatives of the press today, stated:

"My whole object in this war (referring to the struggle between Chang and Wu Pei-Fu on the one hand and Feng Yu-Hsiang on the other) is to eradicate Bolshevism from China. As soon as that is accomplished I will withdraw to my own territory north of the Great Wall and my entire attention henceforth will be devoted to the reconstruction and development of Manchuria along the lines of industry and peace."

Chang seems to be embittered against Feng Yu-Hsiang. He declared he is not interested in who will be the next President of China, although he declared a big man is needed.

"I shall keep out of politics in China, my business being entirely in Manchuria," he said.

TUAN IN REFUGE FOLLOWNIG REMOVAL

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PEKING, April 13.—It has been definitely established that Tuan Chi-Jui has been in refuge in a business building in the Foreign Legation quarter since he was removed as Chief Executive of China in last Saturday's coup d'etat.

Tuan has issued a warning saying that he will not be responsible for any mandates issued during his absence from office.

Chi Teh-Yao, the former Premier, who is in refuge with Tuan Chi-Jui, has notified the dean of the Diplomatic Corps that the Chief Executive did not resign, but was forcibly ejected. Tuan Chi-Jui has instructed the provinces to maintain order and disregard instructions purporting to come from the central government, saying he expects action will be taken to check the movement.

Gen. Tien Wi-Chin, one of the lieutenants of Gen. Wu Pei-Fu, who was invited to take charge of affairs in Peking, has arrived in the capital.

The arrival of many of Tien Wi-Chin's soldiers seems to indicate that an agreement has been reached between his leader, Wu Pei-Fu, and the Kuominchun, or National Army.

American Girls Continue Work Despite Danger

Two of the Near East Relief workers, Miss Agnes Evon of Pittsfield, Mass., and Miss Belle Bass of New York, narrowly escaped death a short time ago when their train was stopped by a Druse attack. The rebels opened fire on the train, many bullets passing through the windows and wounding several passengers. A few days later, a man was killed beside them in a Damascus street.

No More Cloudy Teeth
Restore Whiteness Now

Gain gleaming, sparkling whiteness

Please accept full 10-day tube free. Note the amazing difference in the color of your teeth and firmness of your gums when dingy film is cleared off as leading dentists urge.

MODERN dental science has discovered a new way in tooth and gum care. Off-color teeth thus are quickly whitened, restored to sparkling clearness. Tender gums are firmed, given healthy coral color.

One's whole appearance thus is often amazingly changed in this way. Famous movie stars use it before going on a scene as an essential part of their "make-up." That's largely why movies' smiles are so glistening.

Leading dental authorities now widely urge it. For it marks a new era in tooth and gum protection. Please accept a full 10-day tube to test. You'll find your teeth are not naturally off color . . . simply coated with a dingy film that clouds them.

Just a film hiding them
And imperiling your gums

Dental science now traces scores of tooth and gum troubles to a germ-laden film that forms on your teeth.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you will feel it—a slippery, viscous coating.

That film absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc. And that is why your teeth look "off color" and dingy.

It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It lays your gums open to bacterial attack. Germs by the millions breed in it. And they, with tartar, are a chief cause of pyorrhea and decay.

Old ways won't clear it off

Ordinary dentifrices and cleansing won't fight film successfully. Feel for it now with your tongue. Note how your present cleansing method is failing in its duty.

Now new methods are being used. A dentifrice called Pepsodent—different in formula, action and effect from any other known.

Largely on dental advice, the world has turned to this method.

Clears film off
Firms the Gums

It accomplishes two important things at once: Removes that film, then firms the gums.

A few days' use will prove its power beyond all doubt.

Send the coupon. Clip it now before you forget.

SIGNS COURT'S DECREE

Decision of Judge Becomes Effective in Tulare County's Famous Water Suit

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VISALIA, April 13.—California's most famous water suit, that of the Tulare Irrigation District against the Lindsay-Strathmore Irrigation District, over waters of the Keweah River delta, in litigation for more than nine years, was definitely settled so far as the Superior Court is concerned. In about five minutes of very formal court here this afternoon Superior Judge Albert Lee Stephens of Los Angeles signed a permanent injunction forbidding operation of pumps of the defendant district.

This injunction was entirely in keeping with findings of fact and conclusions of law recorded last May 16. It was signed about 3:06 p.m. in open court, only about thirty interested spectators being present in the courtroom in contrast with the hundreds from both districts who yesterday crowded the chamber and Courthouse corridors when word was spread that the permanent injunction would be signed at that time.

The injunction prohibits pumping operations at the Rancho De Kaweah, plant of the Lindsay-Strathmore Irrigation District, until the plaintiff district has secured the first 2000 cubic feet per second in the summer and 1000 cubic feet per second in the winter, which, except in excessive flood periods, represents maximum flow of the Kaweah River.

Also he states that the riparian landowners who entered the case are entitled to a permanent injunction restraining operation of the pumps to detriment of the underground supply at all times. But, the judge holds, the defendants are entitled to surplus waters accruing in high flood periods, providing such water can be stored without injury to anyone.

Concurrent with the signing of the permanent injunction he signed an order staying execution of the judgment pending appeal of the case, with certain provisions providing protection to the plaintiff district from possible damage done through pumping of the defendant pumps during that appeal.

Certain provisions of the order state this appeal must be made within a period of ninety days. Protective provisions for the plaintiff district are: That within thirty days the Lindsay-Strathmore Irrigation District must place a surety bond of $50,000 and in addition thereto each month during the six month period of the summer they must place cash bond in the amount of $1500 with the County Clerk of Tulare to guarantee against damage to the Tulare Irrigation District.

Arriving here early yesterday morning, Judge Stephens spent the entire time until a late hour last night in secret conference with attorneys from both sides in his rooms at the Hotel Johnson. This private council was resumed this morning, continuing until shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon when he affixed his signature to the famed document.

Throughout the years of litigation, evidence secured, manuscripts compiled, findings and other papers filled a large truck when occasion rose for sessions in courts of Los Angeles and San Francisco. A number of judges served on the case, some being disqualified, others dropping out for various reasons.

It is interesting to note at this time that the findings of Judge Stephens practically coincided with those of Superior Judge W. B. Wallace of Tulare county, first trial judge in the case, who was disqualified because of asserted semi-interests in the Tulare Irrigation District.

Although this suit is now ended so far as the Superior Court is concerned, it has been stated that the defendant district will appeal in the near future. Entirely aside from this lengthy litigation a number of lesser suits brought by ditch companies and water users of the Kaweah delta have already been filed against the Lindsay-Strathmore Irrigation District. These have developed from the larger case. Cross complaints have also been filed and in spite of the signing of the permanent injunction today many consider this but another important chapter in a lengthy water fight and in no sense the "finale."

BURNS MAY RESULT IN BOY'S DEATH

Employee of Garage in Ontario Throws Match Into Cleaning Pit

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ONTARIO, April 13.—Lloyd Phelps, 18 years of age, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Phelps, 552 West Emporia avenue, is believed dying tonight at the San Antonio Community Hospital as a result of burns sustained today in a distillate explosion at a garage owned by J. S. Pearson & Sons at 326 East A street. Four-fifths of the youth's body is reported to have been burned.

Phelps, who was employed in the garage, had been working in a pit in the rear, cleaning a car. Having completed the job he stopped to light a c'garette, according to other employees, and thoughtlessly tossed the match into the pit, in which much distillate had been spilled. The resultant explosion shot flames to the roof and enveloped the young man's clothing in fire.

Phelps was dragged from the pit by G. W. Davison, 317 East A street, who sustained a badly burned left hand in the act. Glenn Pearson, one of the garage owners, put out the flames in the youth's clothing with a fire extinguisher, but not until he had been severely burned. Another member of the firm summoned the fire department, but little damage was done to the garage.

The young man was rushed to the hospital by ambulance. Dr. Calvery Emmons rendered first aid and the boy is also attended by Dr. Geoffry Fleming, his family physician. The boy is said to have inhaled the flames, which makes his condition more grave.

TOWN TO CELEBRATE PAVING OF HIGHWAY

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

MISSION ACRES, April 13.—The paving of Parthenia street, the highway that links up Zelzah to the Mission Acres section, for a distance of several miles, has just been completed. Formal dedication ceremonies in observance of the event are now being planned to be conducted as soon as all arrangements may be made. The celebration will be under the auspices of the Mission Acres Chamber of Commerce, the Woman's Club and other civic organizations. Guests will be invited from all over San Fernando Valley. The completion of Parthenia street is most important to this section, as it gives a direct connection with Zelzah and Reseda and other points in the western part of the valley eight to ten miles distant.

SHOOTING FOLLOWS LIQUOR DELIVERY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, April 13. — Charles Bettis, colored, is dead, and Joe Musachio is being held as his slayer as the result of what the police declare to be a mix-up of jealousy and bootleg liquor.

Bettis and the other man asked Musachio to get them some wine, and when he returned to Bettis's home with it an argument ensued, which led to the shooting, about 3 a.m. today. Mrs. Bettis and the others present declared to the police today. Musachio denies the charge, stating to the police that he called to see Mrs. Bettis and was set upon by four men.

Grape Growers Happy Because Increased Demand Has Consumed All Their Raisins and Assures Them Prosperity for Coming Year

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, April 13.—Tomorrow first Raisin Day in five years without a "carryover," as the unconsumed balance of the previous year's crop is called in California. A "Pageant of Gold" will be witnessed by a hundred thousand persons and is as much a tribute to newspaper, magazine and other advertising which has established new markets sufficient to take all the growers' raisins, as to the raisin itself.

It is reported that more than 1,400,000,000 pounds of raisins have been disposed of by Sun-Maid, the co-operative association owned by 17,000 California raisin growers, since its reorganization three years ago. The celebration centers about the fact that every man, woman and child in the United States is eating a pound and a half more raisins per year than they ate three years ago and that this extra hundred and fifty million pounds of business has removed the danger of surpluses.

The Sun-Maid Association is paying to growers this week $1,350,000 as a progress payment on the 1925 crop. This payment is five months earlier than the second payment last year and although it is only the second payment on the 1925 crop it is said to bring the growers returns up to the totals received to date on the 1924 crop.

Fresno, producing more than half of the world crop of raisins claims the distinction of being not only the Raisin Capital of the world, but the leader in the new co-operative marketing movement.

WILL UNVEIL STATUE

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

GLENDALE, April 13.—The unveiling of the replica of Michel Angelo's famous masterpiece, Moses, which has been brought from Italy and erected in Forest Lawn Memorial Park, is scheduled for Sunday, the 18th inst., at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when representatives of the leading art circles in Southern California will be present to participate in the ceremonies.

The program for the occasion has been arranged under the direction of Mrs. James Birney Lorbeer, president of the Los Angeles district of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, and the ceremony has been indorsed by the Glendale Community Service, the municipal art commission of Los Angeles, the California Art Club, the Southwest Museum, the art department of the Los Angeles city schools, the California Eisteddfod Association, and by many of the leading artists of the Southland.

Among the speakers who have been given place on the program is Dr. Rufus B. von KleinSmid, president of the University of Southern California, who will speak on behalf of the California Federation of Wome's Clubs, and John Steven McGroarty, poet and philosopher, who will speak of the work of Michel Angelo, with special reference to the original of Moses, the statue that is to be unveiled. Count C. Buzzi Gradenigo, representing the Italian government, also will speak.

A musical program of appropriate numbers is being prepared under the direction of Mrs. Burney Starkson, chairman of music of the Los Angeles district of the California Federation of Women's Clubs.

The statue of Moses, which is to be unveiled next Sunday, is the only replica of Michel Angelo's famous sculpture that has ever been made directly from the original, and it was only after prolonged negotiations with the Ietilian government that permission was obtained to have this replica carved from a huge block of Carara marble by Prof. Armando Vene, chief architect of the Ministry of Arts at Rome. The statue and its pedestal are approximately twenty-five feet in height, and the sculptor has portrayed Moses, grasping the tables of stone after he had come down from Mount Sinai to find the Israelites worshiping the golden calf. Hubert Eaton, chairman of Forest Lawn Association, conducted the negotiations that led to the work of carving the statue that was erected recently in the park, and that is only one of the works of art that the association will place in Forest Lawn to enhance the beauty of the cemetery.

SAYS UNITED STATES WANES IN INDIA

RAJARATNAM ISAAC, HINDU SPEAKER, TELLS OF NATIVES' ATTITUDE

"The greatest difficulty we meet in trying to convert the Hindu to Christianity is explaining away the actions and mode of life of great Christian nations like the United States," Rajaratnam Isaac, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A. at Bangalore, India, said recently. He is in Kansas City studying the work and methods of the organization here.

The secretary, who was educated in a Christian college at Madras, told how until a few years ago the United States held a position of great respect in the minds of the Indian people.

"It appeared to them the one great democracy of the world," he said. "American missionaries and travelers won them completely with their good nature and spirit of helpfulness.

"But lately, with communication facilities improved, we are hearing more and more of the mad pursuit of money and pleasure, the lynchings, and, worst of all to the Hindus, the Asiatic exclusion bill. The question arises: 'Is this Christianity?'"

Mr. Isaac made it clear this was the attitude of the people of India generally, and did not represent his own opinion.

Mr. Isaac is a follower of Gandhi, the great liberal leader of India.

He said the Gandhi party was opposed to the growth of industrialism in India because it believed its effects, as demonstrated in England and the rest of Europe, were harmful to the welfare of the working classes. The party believed, rather, in dividing the land into small farms and giving every man a share for cultivation, on the theory that the pursuit of agriculture rather than city life made for more real contentment among the masses.

Mr. Isaac was dressed in the latest cut of English tweeds, but in India he retains the native dress. He said that with the growth of a national feeling in the last few years, the Hindus resented any adoption of foreign customs, or clothing, by their own people.—[Kansas City Times.

A QUEER LOOK

Commissioner McLaughlin of New York was talking about certain investigations.

"Some of it has a queer look," he said. "Yes, in its queerness some of it reminds me of the Maori millionaire.

"The Maoris are great gamblers and very fond of horse racing. Well, this millionaire set up a racing stable and did well. One day, though, just after a horse of his had won a race, he rushed up to the judges' stand and yelled:

"'I protest! I protest!'

"'But your horse won,' said the judges.

"'I know,' said the Maori millionaire. 'That's why I protest. I didn't want him to win!'"

Immigration Officers Fail to Heed Warning That Woman Was Smallpox Victim

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, April 13.—Teresa Estaville, said to have been engaged in aiding a smuggling deal recently, has provided the immigration officers with a new idea in alibis. According to the officer's story, Teresa was riding in the front seat of a car driven by Pablo C. Astelum near Alpine during the recent storm. Inspectors Nuckols and Wood became curious and flashed a light on the occupants as the car came to their inspection point.

"Keep away from this car. I have smallpox," the woman cried. The inspectors failed to heed the warning and insisted on examining the machine. The light disclosed a rash on the woman's face, but it also revealed Luigi Valli and Luigi Cominetti, alleged Italian aliens, in the rear seat. The group was arrested.

Later it was learned that the rash was not smallpox, but it is pointed out that this does not detract from credit due the officers, who did not know it at the time.

Smuggling complaints in the case were filed this afternoon with United States Commissioner Henry Ryan.

SERVICES FOR OLD PIONEER

City Honors Memory of Woman Who Came to Ventura in 1862

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VENTURA, April 13.—Funeral services for Mrs. Christina Wilhelmina Dubbers, aged 90 years, a resident of Ventura since 1862, were held here this afternoon from the home of her grandson, Harry Waud, former City Engineer, Rev. Henry Fisk, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, presiding.

Mrs. Dubbers, a native of Germany, came to California in her young womanhood, marrying in Monterey. Her husband, a rancher, came to Ventura county in 1862, where he owned one of the largest ranches in the Santa Ana Valley. They also maintained a town place near Ventura River, on the Main street, the old adobe house being demolished by floods thirteen years ago, after which she made her home with her daughter, in the east part of town.

Her memory unfailing, Mrs. Dubbers often recalled the days when Ventura was a cluster of dingy shacks around the old mission. But of one incident that for which she became best known she did not tell. That was of how she, single-handed, vaccinated the entire population of the Indian village in the early seventies, checking an epidemic of black smallpox which was killing both red and white men.

Although she and her husband lost heavily during the dry years of the late seventies, Mrs. Dubbers, who survived her husband by thirty-five years, lived in comfortable means. Her health was good, and her disposition sunny and charming to a wide circle of friends. Able to be about the city up to two months prior to her death, Mrs. Dubbers commented enthusiastically upon the growth of her home town from a cluster of adobe huts to a thriving city.

SPEAKERS TO SUPPORT SUNDAY DANCING

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

VENICE, April 13.—Formation of a flying squadron of four-minute speakers has just been completed by the Venice Business Men's Association to be present at meetings of all civic, industrial, social and commercial organizations between now and April 30, and explain the need for Sunday dancing in the Venice zone of Los Angeles.

Their arguments will be based on the contention that Venice is the playground section of Los Angeles, and that as Sunday is the only playtime of the masses, dancing should be permitted under proper regulations on that afternoon and evening in the Venice ballrooms.

Prominent citizens who already have functioned as speakers include Wyllis Abbott, Venice pioneer resident; John B. Daniell, publisher, Venice Vanguard; Floyd S. Sisk, attorney; D. J. Davis, Sr., president, Venice Amusement Men's Association; Mrs. Ursula March Langer, prominent club woman, and Mrs. A. G. Mahan, a leading real estate woman.

REDLANDS CLUB TO ENLARGE GOLF LINKS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

REDLANDS, April 13.—The directors of the Redlands Country Club have definitely decided to enlarge the golf course from the present nine holes to eighteen holes and work has been started on the improvement. This will give Redlands one of the sportiest grounds in the south for the Redlands course has always been known as an excellent one, the only drawback being the size.

Additional acreage has been planted and golf architects are now at work making the extra nine holes and laying out the greens. There are natural bunkers and traps and the nine holes to be built will require better playing than the nine now in use. The club expects to greatly increase its membership when the nine additional holes are completed.

NOVELISTS' METAPHOR

The late Henry Holt, the New York publisher, was a learned man and a great reader. He said one day in an interview:

"I can't read our new school of novelists—the school that attacks everything American. These young men's thoughts are too illogical and confused for me. They're worse than the old Red Hoss editor.

"The editor of the Red Hoss Gazette was always writing sentences such as 'Chickens, like two-edged swords, oftimes come home to roost.'

"Once, praising up the domestic fireside, the old editor got off this gem:

"In the 'personal' column the old editor printed one day:

"'Our cow has been milked in the pasture for three mornings running before we got around to it. We know who the miscreant is, and if he does it again we shall print the name, let the chips fall where they may.'

"After he was dead the beginnings of a last editorial were found on the old editor's desk.

"'We feel,' he wrote, 'that our race is almost fought and, like a tired runner, we shall soon swim the harbor bar, and, casting aside the harness, lie down upon that bourne whose maw barks furiously. "All hope abandon, ye who enter here."'"

RAIL COMBINE BILL REPORTED

Outlook for Passage This Session Dubious

Consolidation of Systems Declared Necessary

Great Saving in Reduction of Rates Possible

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The Cummins bill to enforce railroad consolidation after an experimental period was reported favorably today by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee. The outlook for passage at this session is dubious.

The compulsory clauses of the bill would apply to those roads which fail to consolidate within five years. At the end of that time the Interstate Commerce Commission would proceed to unify the roads into a limited number of systems to be established in accordance with the public interest.

"Without taking into account the economies that may be obtained through consolidation," said the committee report, "it is submitted as an inevitable conclusion that if a process of wise consolidation is not soon entered upon and rapidly carried forward, not less than 60,000 miles, and it may reach 80,000 miles, of our rail transportation system must either be abandoned or, at the best, be rendering the most unsatisfactory and inefficient service.

"These facts present the chief reason for the passage of the bill. If the facts are fully understood consolidation in some form is a foregone conclusion.

"It has been estimated that with the service now being rendered there could be a saving of from $300,000,000 to $500,000,000 annually, all of which could be utilized in a reduction of freight and passenger rates.

"The committee has not had in mind increasing profits for railway companies. Its attention has been directed solely to the highest efficiency in service and the lowest rates at which service can be rendered."

MELLON APPROVES REFUNDING OF RAIL DEBTS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Legislation to authorize the refunding of the $320,000,000 owed the government by railroads as the result of war-period loans was approved today by Secretary Mellon in a letter to the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

The Secretary said, however, that the roads should be given thirty years to liquidate the debt instead of forty years as provided in a bill pending in Congress. He also recommended that the interest rate be reduced from 6 per cent to 4 1-4 instead of to 4 per cent as proposed in the measure.

NATION'S CHIEF STARTS JOURNALISTS' BUILDING

Photo shows President Coolidge pushing the corner-stone of the new National Press Club at Washington, D. C., into place last week during the ceremonies which officially marked the start of building operations. The building will be the largest press club quarters in the world and will cost approximately $10,000,000 to complete. The President in his dedication address dedicated the building to "the republic," calling upon the press at the same time to exert its influence in the preservation and guidance of that republic. BOYS PROFIT BY MONTHS IN TRAINING

Military Camps Beneficial in Reducing Stouts and Adding Weight to Others

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The thirty odd thousand youngsters who attended army Civilian Military Training Camps last year are credited with an average gain of several pounds in weight and almost an inch in chest measurement as a result of their month's experience in the "school of the soldier."

Official reports from corps area commanders, compiled in the Surgeon-General's office, note that there was great loss of weight among the stout lads who turned out for intensive drill and a corresponding upward jump for undernourished boys, "whose appetites were stimulated by the beneficial results of exercise in the open."

The Plattsburg Barracks camp had the prize fat specimen and trimmed him down twenty-nine pounds. It also built up an undernourished lad eighteen pounds. The highest average gain in weight was reported from Camp Lewis, Washington, with five pounds per man in 644 boys, while the smallest average gain was at Fort Douglas, Utah, with 0.7 pounds.

Congressional committees have been told by army experts that there is little difficulty with disOregon.

Divorce Trade of Reno Shows Serious Slump

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RENO (Nev.) April 13.—With exclusive apartment-houses advertising for tenants and resorts reporting poor business, the divorce industry of Reno has fallen on evil days. Attorneys and business men sadly admit the superior attractions of Paris and Mexico have captured the wealthy seekers of single blessedness, and are recommending amendment of the State laws to permit establishment of a second Monte Carlo in this city.

It is assumed such a gambling resort would bring to Reno much of the wealthy divorce trade formerly attracted here. The "wide-open" plan is meeting strong opposition from the Good Laws Committee, an organization of leading citizens and church workers, which is forming clubs throughout the State and preparing to wage a political battle to enforce the anti-gambling and reform laws.

ASSYRIAN PRINCESS COMING TO AMERICA

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 13.—Lady Surma Mar Shimun, Princess Regent of Assyria, has gone to the United States to appeal for help for 30,000 Assyrian refugees now stranded in Mesopotamia. Lady Surma is a very old-fashioned Princess—a slight, white-haired woman, 60 years of age, wearing eyeglasses, who travels without any pomp or attendants, although her royal line is perhaps the most ancient in the world today. For her trip to the New World she wears a small back hat and a plain suit such as she has worn for years in her work with the Near East Relief. The throne of which she is the official Regent is that of the patriarch of the Assyrians, whose occupant, Mar Ishai Shimun, is a boy of 16, who received his elementary education in the American school in Persia and is now completing his school in England. He is an ardent devotee of baseball.

CURRENT OF NERVE CAUGHT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 13.—Scientists here and abroad are beginning to piece out the baffling puzzle of the human storage battery. In one laboratory the current of a nerve of the body has been caught on a wireless receiving apparatus. In another laboratory electric fish are studied for the light they may throw on the human mystery.

Dr. E. D. Adrian, fellow of the Royal Society, in London, has reported the analysis of the electrical impulse from a single nerve fiber with wireless receiving apparatus.

NEEDS OXYGEN

Shiro Tashiro, a Japanese scientist at the University of Cincinnati, has demonstrated that the nerve will not conduct impulses unless surrounded by an ample supply of oxygen. This suggests why some persons think and react more rapidly than others whose blood supply might be deficient in oxygen.

An impulse passing along a nerve fiber is accompanied by electrical changes not unlike the passage of an electric current along a wire. Unlike the wire current, however, the nerve current does not appear to lose in intensity.

Scientists suspect that the nerves have a way of regenerating the current analogous to the vacuum cup amplifiers of the long-distance telephone.

In some of the human nerves the speed of message transmission is as high as 100 meters a second. In the nerves of the sympathetic nervous system, however, the rate is much slower. This might mean, scientists say, that if it were not for the time lost in execution, we should be able voluntarily to move a hand faster than we would involuntarily snatch it from a hot stove.

FISH STUDIED

The origin of nerve currents is being studied in electrical fish by Dr. Ulrich Dahlgren, professor of biology at Princeton University. In these fish the organs which produce the electric charges, capable of giving severe shocks, are membranes upon each side of which are chemicals of different composition.

Work is being done in a number of laboratories to learn whether the sense organs of the human system produce similar charges, through which the brain is signaled when the organ is irritated.

Not so long ago a prominent scientist placed himself on record among the poets by stating that a kiss carried an electric charge, transmitted in the moisture of the lips.

MASTERPIECE OF WIT FOUND IN OLD HOUSE

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

RICHMOND (Eng.) April 13.—A picture which is supposed to be the combined work of Rubens and Van Dyck has been found in an old house here. On the back of the canvas is pasted a letter said by experts to be about 150 years old, which states that the picture is the work of these two masters. The title of the painting is given as "Time Leadong on the Young Artist," and the letters says that "Time" is a portrait of Rubens's father.

ARIZONA MEN PLAN HIGH COURT APPEAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TUCSON (Ariz.) April 13.—Appeal to the Supreme Court is to be taken of the case of Tom and Syd Fulcher, convicted in the United States Court of train robbery in Greenlee county in May, 1922. The case, involving a feud between two factions in Southwestern New Mexico, brought about 100 witnesses to Tucson, creating a condition met by employment of six special armed court guards. The defendants were found guilty on each of six charges.

SEARCH IS ABANDONED FOR MISSING TEACHER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

GREAT FALLS (Mont.) April 13.—Efforts to find Glenn Waldo, principal of the grade schools at Belt, who disappeared some days ago, have been abandoned. It was at first feared Waldo had met with foul play. Later developments convinced the school trustees that Waldo had planned to depart and they have employed a successor. Posses were searching for the man for some days.

Whites Plan Legal Battle With Indians

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

GREAT FALLS (Mont.) April 13.—The Indians and the white men are about to go to war again, in this section, but legal tomes will replace tomahawks as weapons. The city objects to the presence of a band of Crees on its borders but thus far has been unable to oust them legally, because they leased the land on which they live, long ago, from the Great Falls townsite Company. Near-by residents complain that the cows and horses of the aborigines overrun their lands and that sanitation is not strictly observed by the redman, who boast a village, part shacks, part tepees and all primitive in disposition of garbage, etc.

Thus far the Indians have checkmated all efforts to oust them.

COPS CHASE KING OF SWAT

BOSTON, April 13.—Warrants for the arrest of George Herman (Babe) Ruth, New York Yankees' baseball player, are held by the Massachusetts State income tax authorities. This was learned today when Ruth visited the State House and the income tax collection headquarters. After a conference, service of the warrants was postponed one week.

Ruth is charged with failure to pay his State income taxes for 1923 and 1924. Officials declined to reveal the exact amount of the taxes. The ball player contended that he had no legal residence in Massachusetts, it was said.

The State, it was said, contends that Ruth had a legal residence in Sudbury, Mass., where his wife and child lived.

The delay of one week was granted to enable Ruth to file a statement in support of his contention that he is not a Massachusetts resident.

OXY SHUTS OUT TROJANS

Morse's Homer in Third Gives Tigers 1-to-0 Win Over U.S.C. Nine for Second Time in Season

The Occidental College baseball team revived from their slump long enough yesterday to defeat the U.S.C. nine for the second time this season and incidentally to shut them out for the second time, the score being this time 1 to 0, the only run coming from the bat of "Hitless" Morse, Tiger second baseman, when he slammed a home run into the center-field bleachers in the third inning.

Coach Clark has picked Morse as a good man, but the Oxy second-sacker has failed to come through until he saved the day yesterday when he more than made up for lost time.

The feature of the game was the fielding of the Tigers and the hurling of Bud Teachout, who struck out ten men and allowed but four hits, while his team-mates negotiated two double plays and handled numerous hard-hit balls for good outs.

Morse came to bat in the third after Deaver had been out when he flied to Manlove. Morse essayed a bunt and fouled, cut a fly down the right-field line and then clouted the ball into that territory in the bleachers that allows a home run by the ground rules.

Oxy had one other great opportunity to score when with two out Cherrie clouted a ball against center-field fence and was safe at second when Haseltine sacrificed. Godet fouled out to Manlove and Mishkin came up and drove a hard-hit ball between short and third, just where Cherrie happened to be on his way down to third on the hit and run. The ball hit Cherrie and the side was out.

U.S.C. apparently was sure of a

Suds' Opening Spoiled When Portland Wins

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SEATTLE, April 13.—Approximately 14,000 persons saw Seattle lose a ten-inning baseball game to Portland here today, 2 to 1. It was the Indians' first 1926 home contest.

After Seattle had led, 1 to 0, until the ninth inning, E. Smith, Beaver right fielder, smashed a home run over the right field fence to tie the score. The Indians obtained their lone tally in the first frame on a double steal with William Lane crossing the plate. Portland made the winning run in the extra inning when Elsh scored on a sacrifice fly. Score:

Three Marks Fall in Great City Meet Tryouts

Polytechnic Rules Favorite to Cop on Saturday

Hailed as one of the greatest prep track prospects turned out by the City League in the past few years, Clifford Gnatt, Polytechnic High School quarter miler cut a niche in the hall of fame, when he ran the one lap event in 49.8 to shatter Junio Hanford's City League mark of 51 1-10s. Gantt's great race was the outstanding event of the City Meet tryouts held in the Coliseum yesterday afternoon. Manual Arts surprised by placing sixteen athletes in the finals. Poly was second with fourteen, Hollywood third with twelve and Los Angeles fourth with eleven. Lincoln which threatened to be a dark horse was only able to get nine men in the finals. Jefferson was close behind with eight, while Franklin placed but one man.

Nip to be outdone by Gantt's record smashing, Eddie Sullivan Los Angeles erased Rhewalt's old broad jump record of 22ft ½in. with a leap of 22 ft., 5¼ in. Al LeFebvre also broke the old mark in finishing second to Sullivan with a jump of 22 ft., 1½ in. Duncan Powers of Polytechnic established the third new record, when he ran the 220 year low hurdles in 25s flat. Jimmy Meaks of Hollywood equaled the old record to win his heat. Regua of Manual Arts held the previous mark of 25.2s.

Gantt's showing gives him unconditional possession of first place in Southern California's 440 ranks. Sauers of U. S. C. is his closest rival, while he stands pre-eminent in prep circles. There are only four men on the Coast either in high school or colleges who figure to beat him, and they are all at Stanford. Richey of Hollywood who was figured a good chance to beat the Poly flash never had a chance although he ran under 51s.

GANTT STEPS OUT

It is evident that Gantt is not aware of his own speed. Coach Eddie Leahy, who has been bringing Gantt along slowly cautioned him against running too fast. Once ahead, however, Gantt's long, powerful stride ate up the ground at an astonishing speed. Ritchey who finished ten yards behind him walked the last few yards with the rest of te field bunced ten yards behind him.

Not content with smashing one record, Guatt won his heat in the hundred in the fast time of 10.1s. Since 1907, the Poly mark of 10.2 has stood against all comers, which gives Gantt another flower for his already topheavy wreath.

One of the big upsets of the day was furnished by Frank Lombardi, who failed to finish in the 220 and placed a poor third in the hundred. Any chance the Romans had of copping Saturday's meet were practically nullified as Lom-

THREE STARS---BUT NOT HENNESSY

Bill Lane's Hollywood Stars, who are at present present leading the Coast League race, celebrated their local opening of the season yesterday at Wrigley Field by trouncing the Angels, much to the delight of a few thousand Movie City fans who turned out for the occasion. There were both movie stars and flowers provided for the Hollywood Stars, and if you don't believe it, look at the picture below. It shows Marian Aye, screen star, and Oscar Vitt, manager of the Hollywood Stars, playing peek-a-boo around a floral star made out of forget-me-nots or geraniums or something.

BOXING WINS IN CHICAGO

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, April 13. — Early election returns tonight indicated that the Illinois boxing bill has been carried safely to victory by more than 3-to-1 vote. This means that boxing under commission rule becomes legal in Chicago and a dozen other cities in the State.

The law provides for bouts of ten rounds, which will go to a decision or be no-decision affairs, subject to the ruling of the State Athletic Commission already provided. The commission will be made up of three commissioners, with a secretary, to be appointed by the Governor. Each commissioner will receive a salary of $4500 and the secretary, $3500.

This commission will have entire control of boxing and wrestling, having the power to revoke licenses and suspend boxers for violation of rules. It may refuse to grant permits for contests which it may consider one-sided.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, April 13.—Unhappily I cannot report a victory for my own club, but I think everybody in baseball should be happy over the unusual enthusiasm at the several openings throughout the country. Despite bitterly cold weather they turned out in flocks. I am not sure, but I believe that the Polo Grounds came near to establishing a record. The stands, with a capacity of over 50,000, appeared to be filled. The big crowd stayed right to the finish.

Early reports indicate that the baseball enthusiasm swept the whole country. When 250,000 people turn out to see eight ball games in chilly weather we can know that our sport has not lost its hold on the public. I had just as big a thrill when I walked across the field with Joe McGinnity, Joe Kelly, Wilbert Robinson and Roger Bresnahan as when we all were in the line of players years ago eager to get a crack at the ball. It is an interesting coincidence that all of these old-timers were formerly members of the Orioles.

It was noticeable here and in other cities as best we can judge from the telegraphic details that the pitchers had a field day. As a rule they seem to be nearer to midseason form than the batters and they certainly took advantage of it.

PHILS HIT BALL

The Phillies hit the ball hard and so did the Yanks. Otherwise it appears to have been a battle of pitchers. That duel down at Washington ought to give any baseball man a thrill. Here were Johnson and Rommel, both veterans, hooked up. At the end of the fourteen innings they had gone

DETROIT, April 13.—George Uhle put Cleveland through a 2-to-1 victory over Detroit before 36,565 persons who paid to see the Tigers and Indians inaugurate the 1926 American League season here today.

Detroit threatened several times but only in the sixth when Tavender doubled after Blue had walked, did they score. In the eighth inning Manush, pinch-hitting for Bassler, doubled with one out, but Cobb, batting for Whitehill, lined into Uhle's hand and Manush was doubled at second. In the last inning Detroit filled the bases on two walks and a single by Fothergill, but Blue popped out to end the game.

WHITE SOX, 5; BROWNS, 1

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, April 13. — The Chicago White Sox opened the American League season here today by defeating St. Louis, 5 to 1, before a crowd estimated at 34,000. Lyons, White Sox ace, pitched in fine form.

Bunching hits off Gaston, the Sox led off with a two-run lead. Gaston settled down and pitched well until he retired in favor of a pinch hitter after the sixth. Ballou, his successor, was driven from the mound after yielding five hits which brought three runs. Lyons, although touched for ten safeties, tightened up in the pinches and was given perfect support.

to an 0-to-0 tie and Johnson won out, 1 to 0, in the fifteenth.

When we realize that Johnson has pitched seventeen years and was a big-leaguer when his own manager wore short pants, it is not difficult to interpret the lesson it points our young boys in clean living.

A month ago I called attention to the perfect condition of Johnson down south and was fortunate enough to predict that the great old star would have one of his best years. In fact, I think he has a good chance of equaling, if not surpassing, the great record of old Cy Young. Our young pitchers can profit a lot by studying the career and methods of Johnson. He is a genuine physical marvel.

The St. Louis-Pittsburgh game and that fight between the Reds and the Cubs were of particular interest to our bench. Our game was over before we got the final result but there was constant talk of the way the Reds appeared to be hitting the ball. All along they have been reputed to be lacking in punch, but you never can tell what a ball club will do when it comes to a real scrap. Their pitching was all that everybody has claimed but the batters when brought to a showdown backed them up. That uncertainty and that element of surprise is what makes baseball what it is. Can you imagine what baseball would amount to if we could sit down in the winter time and figure out on paper how the teams would finish? The human equation is a big thing in baseball, and yet nobody has been able to figure that. Here you have the secret of the hold our game has on all Americans.

Look at the Robins, for example, after being beaten many times in the spring, referred to as a weak club with no chance, they stepped right up to the mark against us and showed the old fighting spirit. They beat us cleanly.

PRAISES PETTY

In our local game, the credit must be given to Jess Petty, the Robin pitcher. He was in a tough spot, having to take the place of Vance, who was laid up with a boil. He stepped in Vance's shoes and delivered the goods. It was not what we call a good ball game, but Petty was able to keep his stuff all the way through. Our players were not.

A feature of our game was the brilliant fielding of Rabbit Maranville. Time has not dampened that boy's fighting spirit nor has it changed his poise. Maranville is a smart player of the old school, and can be counted on to do the right thing at the right time. He will be a big help to the Robins this year.

Now that the big openings are over we will get down to business. It will be a week at least before the clubs begin to hit anything like their natural stride.

GANTT SMASHES 440 DASH MARK

hardi was figured for at least eight points.

Maurry Lauterman of Poly, who has been an in and out performer in the shot all season seems to have hit his stride at last. He won the event from Edelson of Jefferson, who was favored, with a prodigious heave of 46ft. 7¼in. If he goes at the same rate in the city meet Poly will be a big favorite to win. Edelson was close behind with a toss of 46ft. 5in., while Moses of Los Angeles was only able to throw the pellet 45ft. 11¾in.

CRIMSON SET BACK

Hollywood received a severe setback when Chapman was disqualified in the 440 after he had won his heat. Chapman was a sure point getter. In taking the turn, Chapman was guilty of attempting to take the pole before he was two strides in the lead. As a result he pushed Stock of Los Angeles over, while Fernandes of Lincoln fell over him. Flint of Jefferson stumbled, but kept his feet and finished sixth. As a result of the mixup, Fernandes and Stock will be allowed to run Saturday. In a meeting held after the tryouts, it was also decided that Flint should also run.

As a result of yesterday's meet Poly is a ruling favorite, with Hollywood still in the running. Manual Arts, although qualifying the greatest number has two few firsts to make much of a bid for the title.

HUGE CROWD SEEKS TROUT AT RAINBOW

A regular summer day's sized crowd fished at the Rainbow Angling Club last Sunday, the fishermen making up for time lost during the rainy days. Over seventy-five anglers were along the stream during the day. The stream is clear and cold and fishing is excellent, the Rainbow members declare.

In word from Leigh Garnsey, club manager, a crew of men working day and night last week resulted in the stormy weather passing with no damage suffered by the club.

Eighty airplanes, seaplanes and other aircrafts made in this country were shipped abroad last year.

HOLLYWOODERS ANNEX OPENER

Frank Zoellers, speedy Hollywood center fielder, started the ball rolling for the Stars by punching one of Yarrison's offerings to the right-center-field bleachers for a double. Hillis's attempts to sacrifice resulted in a foul fly that Ray Jacobs caught after a sprint, but Skipper Vitt drew a walk. O'Doul promptly rammed one into the bleachers for a homer, Zoellers and Vitt trotting in ahead of the big right fielder.

Brazill and Hood got singles in the Seraph second, but McCabe saw to it that they didn't get near the rubber. However, in the Angel fifth, the Krugmen managed to get a counter. Yarrison was ticked on the shirt to get a pass to first, but Statz forced him at second. Johnny Mitchell singled "Digger" to second and Ray Jacobs clouted Statz home with a long single to left. Brazill and Weis, though, fell victims of the pitching wiles of McCabe so that ended that splurge, which was accompanied by a little thunder put on by Angel rooters or angels themselves.

STARS ICE CONTEST

Just to ice the contest, the Stars clouted home three more markers in the seventh. After O'Doul had been retired, Roy Leslie started the trouble with a one-base shot to left. Frederick also singled and then Johnny Kerr doubled to the bleachers, scoring both runners. Kerr swiped third and was squeezed over on Peters's bunt.

The Seraphs made their final run in the eighth inning after two were out when Ray Jacobs walloped a healthy circuit clout clear over the trees outside of the left-field wall.

Young Les Holmes pitched the eighth inning for the Angels and retired the Stars scoreless. There will be another today with Frankshellenbac k and "Doc" Wright slated to do the twirling. Score:

CINCINNATI (O.) April 13.—The Cincinnati Reds took the opening game from Chicago, 7 to 6, here today in a ten-inning exhibition marked by rather free hitting with poor fielding by the Cubs.

Donahue was knocked out of the box in the eighth inning after keeping the hits well scattered until that period. Luque, who replaced him, pitched to two men, and May took the mound in the ninth. Pinch registered the first homer of the season in the fifth inning and Freigau duplicated with a homer for Chicago in the eighth.

ANTIOQUIA GOLD BONDS OFFERED

South American Securities on Market Today

Proceeds to Provide Funds for Rail Extension

Important Coffee Section of Colombia Republic

An issue of $6,000,000 Department of Antioquia 7 per cent twenty-year external secured sinking fund gold bonds, series B, due July 1, 1945, will be offered today by Blair & Co., Inc., and E. H. Rollins & Sons at 91½, to yield more than 7.87 per cent.

Since its creation in 1886 the Department of Antioquia has never defaulted in the payment of principal, interest or sinking fund of any of its indebtedness, or in the payment of its bonds when due. The bonds are the direct obligation of the Department of Antioquia, and are secured by a lien ocula, and are secured by a partial lien on certain revenues and on the properties and earnings of the Antioquia Railway.

The average annual proceeds for the three years, 1923 to 1925, from the revenues assigned for the security of the bonds were equal to approximately 2.11 times the annual interest and sinking fund requirements on the external gold bonds now outstanding, including this issue.

CURRENCY STABLE

The total debt of the Department of Antioquia, including the present issue and the issue of $3,000,000 internal bonds, which were offered last year, amounts to $12,452,000, equal to about $16 per capita. The banking system of the Republic of Colombia follows that of the United States, the Bank of the Republic being modeled after the Federal Reserve Bank of this country.

The proceeds of the present issue of bonds will be used to provide funds for the construction of an addition to the Antioquia Railway, of approximately thirty-eight miles, extending through the coffee-producing zona, and for additions and betterments to the existing lines of the Antioquia Railway.

COFFEE SECTION

The Department of Antioquia, situated in the north central part of the Republic of Colombia, is the largest of the departments of the republic, having an area of 25,000 square miles, and a population of more than 800,000. It contains thirty-five towns of 16,000 persons or more, and the whole commercial territory tributary to Medellin, the capital, reaches over 2,000,000 persons out of a population of 6,000,000 in the entire republic.

The greatest industrial development in Colombia, according to the bankers, is found in the Department of Antioquia. Agriculture, stock raising, mining and manufacturing are the principal industries. The department is the largest producer of gold in the republic. Antioquia produces approximately one-fourth of the coffee grown in the Republic of Colombia, which is the second largest producer of coffee in the world. There are more than 60,000,000 coffee trees in Antioquia, and the value of the 1925 production of coffee in the department is calculated at approximately $17,000,000.

INTENSIVE OIL SURVEY UNDER WAY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ARTESIA (N. M.) April 13.—Believing that large oil production will be obtained in southeastern New Mexico, the Marland Oil Company has started to erect a large camp on the Carlsbad-Lovington highway, thirty-five miles east of Carlsbad, and from that base twenty geologists and engineers are now working to the west of the caprock, detailing southeastern Eddy and western Lea counties.

More geological work has been done by Marland than all of the other companies combined. A party of five geologists under Grant Blanchard has been working this section of New Mexico and Western Texas for the last sixteen months.

Other companies now carrying on geological reconnoissance work are the Gypsy, Carter, Texas, Ohio, Empire, Humble, Skelly and Continental. H. P. Ferree, director and secretary of the latter, and his party from Denver, has been here for a week.

L. T. McCutcheon of the Formax Oil Company Angeles, and Bob Henderson and associates, all of Los Angeles, have located here and have closed deals for considerable acreage.

Bankers Offer Financing for Paper Company

An extensive expansion and building program is announced by the Minnesota and Ontario Paper Company, simultaneously with the statement that it has sold $7,500,000 in bonds and notes to Halsey, Stuart & Co., and the Minnesota Loan and Trust Company. The securities consist of $4,000,000 first mortgage sinking fund 6 per cent bonds, series "B," and $3,500,000 five-year 6 per cent notes. Public offering of the issues will be made shortly.

Three new hydroelectric stations are now under construction on the La Seine River in Canada, near International Falls, Minn., and Fort Frances, Ont., where a number of the company's mills are located. The new stations will add 27,000 electric horsepower to the company's present power supply of 65,000 horsepower, all of which it generates itself.

The Minnesota and Ontario Paper Company operates mills at Kenora, Ont., as well as at Fort Frances and, International Falls is one of the largest manufacturers of newsprint. It also manufactures Kraft pulp, rough and finished lumber, crating, box shooks and other forest products, and a patented building insulation widely marketed under the trade name "insulite."

'Own-Your-Own' Realty Bonds Underwritten

An issue of $385,000 first mortgage bonds, secured by the Los Altos own-your-own apartment-house building and site, at the corner of Wilshire Boulevard and Bronson avenue, has been underwritten by the Security Company. The issue will be known as the Mayo-Wright Properties, Inc., first mortgage 6½ per cent serial gold bonds.

The Los Altos, a five-story apartment building, will be formally opened today. The site and building have been appraised at $800,000.

The bonds are dated April 1, 1926, and mature serially, semi-annually, April 1, 1929, to October 1, 1943, inclusive. They are guaranteed as to principal and interest by Luther T. Mayo and Preston S. Wright, and are callable at any interest-payment date at 103. They are free from personal-property taxes in California and the Federal income tax up to 2 per cent will be paid by the corporation. Application has been made to have the bonds certified by the State Superintendent of Banks, as legal investments for savings banks in California.

Morris Guest of Investment Bankers Here

Ray Morris, president of the Investment Bankers' Association of America, and a member of the international banking house of Brown Brothers & Co., New York, was the guest of honor last evening at a banquet given by the Los Angeles chapter of the association at the California Club. Approximately fifty local members attended the meeting.

Mr. Morris arrived in Los Angeles yesterday, following a motor trip from San Bernardino, where he was met by a committee of Los Angeles investment bankers. He will be the guest of the Bond Club of Southern California this evening at a banquet at the Biltmore and will be principal speaker.

Tomorrow Mr. Morris will leave for San Francisco and other points north, completing his first tour of the Pacific Coast chapters since he was elected president of the national association at the convention last winter.

PICTURE INDUSTRY WIDENS

Expansion Into Theater Ownership Stabilizes Operations; Large Sums Expended

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Following the examples set by the banks and the oil companies, the motion-picture companies are rapidly welding together impressive chains of theaters throughout the country. Only in the last year or two have the motion-picture people become interested in the exhibition end of the business to any extent, but now the progress along this line has all the indications of overhauling the expansion records established by the branch banks and the petroleum marketing companies.

The tendency of the motion-picture industry to control under one organization the production, distribution and exhibition of pictures is a development characteristic of any new business. From production they expanded into distribution as wholesalers, and then the next step is to control the retail business. It is all part of the trend of modern business to obtain volume of production and volume of sales at a minimum of cost for operating and management expenses.

STABILIZES BUSINESS

As a rule, the expansion into all three phases of an industry signals the passing of the particular company from the speculative to the stabilized, investment class. Fixed investments mount up to large totals through the purchase or lease of real estate and buildings, and a large percentage of earnings is necessarily plowed back into the property account. Earnings available for dividend distribution are not generally as large as formerly, when production was the chief activity, but the margin is generally more constant.

As with the banks and the oil companies, the expansion into the retail end of the business brings with it a certain degree of rivalry among the competing companies. Contests for the most advantageous locations and for the facilities of independent operators involve stiff competition in bidding, as took place in the Pacific Northwest recently, when the North American Theater interests bought a large chain of theaters over the bids of several rival groups.

BIDDING ACTIVE

Much of the contest for strategic advantage has been staged along the Pacific Coast. The West Coast Theaters, Inc., has just completed an alliance with important banking and other theater interests by which the funds are available for an intensive expansion program west of the Mississippi, which will ultimately increase the size of the theater strings to around 1000 houses. Certain large theater companies in some of the larger cities of the country become affiliated with West Coast as a result of this financing, and the related groups as a whole form a valuable outlet for First National Pictures. The First National and the West Coast interests are inter-related by stock ownership.

Through this arrangement, the West Coast-First National group assumes a leading position in the industry along the lines already well developed by Famous Players-Lasky, Universal Pictures, and Loew's, Inc. Each of these systems is now engaged in further fortifying its facilities in the way of theater expansion, for which large sums of money are being expended.

Universal Pictures, through its subsidiary, Universal Chain Theaters Corporation, now has nearly 100 theaters, and recently sold about $6,000,000 of preferred stock for the purpose of acquiring additional theaters in the United States, Canada and abroad. The intention is to increase the number to around 1000 houses or more.

EXPANSION PLANNED

Loew's, Inc., the company controlling Metro-Goldwyn Pictures, is another unit in the industry well represented in the ownership of theaters. This company owns large houses in some of the principal cities of the country, and is planning the purchase and erection of additional theaters. The paid admissions to its theaters last year totaled 75,570,340.

Aside from the desire to control all phases of the business under one management, the profits and size of the picture theaters evidently justify the expenditures made for theater houses by the motion-picture companies. Recent figures show that the 20,100 motion-picture theaters in the United States have a weekly attendance of more than 55,000,000, and annual box-office receipts in excess of $700,000,000. With an invested capital of more than $1,500,000,000, the industry is the seventh largest in the country.

From a business standpoint, the ownership and operation of theaters has several important advantages. After the original investment, operating expenses are small. Inventory investment is not large, and capital is turned over rapidly. The business is on a cash basis, and there are no bad debts or credit losses.

Unlike most industries, the motion-picture theaters are not concerned by business depressions. Theater executives have observed that, if anything, the tendency is for box-office receipts to increase in such times.

Toberman Added to Directorate of Commercial

C. E. Toberman, leading real estate operator and builder of Hollywood, was yesterday elected a director of the Commercial National Trust and Savings Bank, it was announced by L. M. MacDonald, senior executive vice-president. Mr. Toberman is the chairman of the board of the Federal Trust and Savings Bank of Hollywood.

Mr. Toberman has been identified with much of the business development of the Hollywood section, having built several commercial buildings in recent months and marketed important land holdings. Joseph M. Schenck is president of the bank.

The Commercial National board now numbers thirty-five members.

ELECTRICAL TRADE PACE SLACKENING

Sales of Motors for Industrial Plants in Best Volume

Business is reported as somewhat quiet in the electrical industry as a whole, states Electrical World, New York, but sales of motors to industrial plants are in good volume. Manufacturers state that many inquries are being received, especially from industrial plants, and there are no indications that any of the projects on which quotations are requested will be abandoned. Central-station companies are not purchasing as heavily as a year ago, but it is believed that there is more general activity among companies.

On the Pacific Coast many inquiries are reported as received by manufacturers, but comparatively few orders were placed. In the Puget Sound district some interesting sales were made to lumber mills, including one for 810,000 worth of motors and another for 450-kilowatt turbine unit. Many other orders are anticipated and will include material for proposed pulp and paper mills.

Beverly Hills Improvement Liens Awarded

An issue of $130,000 Beverly Hills Municipal Improvement District No. 4 bonds was awarded Monday evening to the Security Company and the Mercantile Securities Company, in joint account, for a premium of $59 for 5 per cent bonds.

RUBBER MARKET

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, April 13.—Another reaction was in evidence throughout the crude rubber market today, when spot prices were quoted at 50c in New York. For the last two weeks crude prices were fluctuating between 53c and 60c, due in excess activity by speculators and shorts, but today the market crashed, with most leading grades falling below 53c. The Rubber Exchange of New York reflected active sales in contrast to the slump in prices, listing 370 lots of crude rubber at 2 o'clock.

A similar recession was in evidence in the London market, where spot sheets sold at 24½d, down 1¼d from Monday's level.

CUBAN BANK FLURRY SHORT

Brief Run Regarded Only an Incident and Lacking Significance as No New Problem Is Presented

BY PAUL WILLARD GARRETT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, 1926, by New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, April 13.—Highly interesting though it has been as an episode, the run on Cuban banks does not, apparently portend new difficulties for the future.

As in a squall those near at hand took fright, but no sooner was the condition reported than it was corrected and now presumably the trouble has blown over.

What happened in Cuba does not throw new light on our general trade position, but the incident may draw more general attention to a situation well known among the sugar and banking authorities.

At bottom Cuban prosperity depends on sugar; that is on the size of the crop, the price of the raw commodity and the profits in the business.

In years when the world has more sugar than it needs business in Cuba suffers temporarily, and in periods of shortages they prosper greatly. It so happens that the world just now has a large stock of the commodity on hand and in sight. Notwithstanding the enormous consumption of sugar, the price had, to the Cuban producer, dropped below the actual cost of production. That is not new information. It has been known for a long time and, in fact, the price has risen substantially from the low point of last year to a position that denotes improvement.

A report that the bankers were finding it difficult to collect fully on some obligations, baseless though they were, was enough late last week to frighten Cuban depositors and they began to draw out their money.

A call for funds from the Federal Reserve Bank at Atlanta was immediately answered by the shipment of currency and that is about all that need be said.

Of course operators for the decline in the market were not passing up any arguments in favor of the down side and when call money rose to 5 1-2 per cent they pointed to the flurry and sold stocks. Unquestionably the rise in the call rate may be traced to the sudden withdrawal of money for Cuban credit, but the significance of the event and the amount of the withdrawals appear to have been somewhat exaggerated. It is doubtful whether the amount drawn upon the bank here by Atlanta to meet the emergency totaled more than $40,000,000 or perhaps $50,000,000.

Certainly the incident reveals nothing new in the sugar situation that had not been discounted long ago in well-informed circles and a slight tightening in the call rate, for reasons perfectly clear and temporary, should not be taken too seriously.

TRADE INDEX TURNS UP IN LOCAL FIELD

Economic Service Notes Good Gain During Week in Check Transactions

Business activity in Los Angeles increased again during the week ended the 7th inst., the two weeks moving average rising from 17 per cent above normal to 20 per cent, according to the weekly business summary of the Ebsele & Stillman Economic Service just released. Check transactions, the excellent barometer of business conditioning, gained 14.1 per cent during the week, as compared with the same period in 1925, it is pointed out.

WOOL UNCHANGED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BOSTON, April 13.—The wool market in general shows no material change from the recent trend. Pulled wools suitable for woolen manufacture are showing a better tone. Activity in these lines is broadening. Several houses have experienced more demand. Both the number of mills operating and the volume taken by some of them have shown an increase. Prices remain unchanged but the improved interest being shown is an encouraging factor.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 13.—Renewal of selling pressure unsettled today's curb market in the early trading. But a sharp rally took place during the afternoon after it became apparent that bear traders were not dislodging much long stock. Closing quotations were irregularly higher, with numerous gains of one to four points.

Chief speculative interest centered in the baking shares because of the dissension arising among General Baking stockholders in regard to stocks purchased by that company from the Ward Securities Corporation. General Baking "A" was depressed to a new low level at 44½ but snapped back to 50½ for a net gain of about four points. Continental Baking "B" closed ½ point higher at 14 1-4 after having sold down to 12 1-4. Purity Baking "B" advanced one point to 27 on a small turnover.

To expedite transmission the closing price is omitted when same as the low, and both low and close when same as the high. Sales are in hundreds.

Brisk Rally in Afternoon Routs Bears

Substantial Gains General at Closing

Easier Money aRte, Wheat Advance Aids

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 13.—Stock prices displayed a complete reversal of form in today's market, falling off sharply during the morning when pressure was renewed against the speculative industrials, then rallying briskly during the afternoon. Closing quotations were generally higher, net gains of one to nearly six points being spread over a long list.

A softening of money rates and a sudden unturn of over 4 cents a bushel in May wheat stimulated the demand for stocks, which came largely from the short interest, while bear traders succeeded in uncovering a number of new weak spots during the morning, there were indications that many issues, particularly in the motor and merchandising groups, had been oversold, at least temporarily.

Standard industrials displayed good recuperative power. United States Steel common showed a net gain of over 1 point at 119 3-4, after selling down to within a small fraction of the year's low at 118, and Baldwin rallied from 99¾ to 102¾, where it was up 1 1-4 on the day. General Electric rallied from 287½ to 295 3-4, up 3 3-4 net.

TRACTIONS STRONG

Local tractions showed outstanding strength on buying based on the belief that an agreement, regarding new subway construction will shortly be reached between the city and transit officials. Interborough Rapid Transit scored nearly six points to 38 1-4 and Brooklyn Manhattan Transit, Third Avenue Railway and Manhattan Modified Guaranteed closed 2 to 3 points higher.

Publication of unusually favorable 1925 earning statements by several of the leading railroad systems brought fresh buying into the railroad shares. This was particularly apparent in such issues as Atchison, New York Central, Southern Railway and Union Pacific, all of which closed half to 2½ points higher. Erie issues also registered moderate improvement despite the slim hope held out by President Underwood for an early resumption of dividends on the first preferred stock. Secretary Mellon's advocacy of lower interest rates on railroad indebtedness to the Federal government was a sustaining influence.

MOTORS RALLY

The short interest in the motors was quick to retreat on the first sign of strong buying power. Hudson rallied from a low of 64 to 68 3-4, General Motors from 156½ to 158 7-8 and Mack Trucks from 107 to 109 7-8, all closing near the top.

Oils received better supprot on reports of a decrease in the daily average of gross crude oil production last week. Sharp recoveries also were recorded by Allied Chemical, the American Agricultural chemical issues, American Water Works, California Packing, Coca Cola, Columbia Carbon, Famous Players, Foundation Company, S. S. Kresge, Postum Cereal, Pullman, Sloss Sheffield, Stewart Warner, Tobacco Products, Union Bag and Paper, United States Cast Iron Pipe, United Cigar Stores, United States Rubber and Woolworth, all up 2 to 5 points.

The sharp rally in wheat, inspired by Broomhall's estimate of a shortage in the world's supply, featured the commodity markets. May wheat closed at $1.62 7-8 a bushel, a net gain of 4 5-8 cents on the day, with more moderate advances in the other options. The cotton market was dull with closing prices showing net declines of 3 to 12 points. Raw sugar was unchanged, but futures closed 3 to 5 points net lower. Coffee advanced 3 to 15 points on buying influenced by reports of a scarcity of the product for contract delivery.

Call money renewed at 5 per cent and then dropped to 4½. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges moved within rather narrow and irregular limits. Demand sterling dropped 1-8 of a cent to around $4.85 11-16 and French francs were slightly firmer around 3.44¼ cents. Spanish pesetas rallied over 7 points to around 14.30 cents on the prospect of an early peace in Morocco. The Canadian dollar was quoted at a premium of 1-16 of a cent.

NEW YORK BONDS

Market Quiet

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 13.—The temporary strain on the credit system imposed by the withdrawal of funds to relieve the Cuban bank emergency continued to retard the buying of bonds today, and prices drifted irregularly lower. Trading turned extremely dull on the reaction, with no traces of concerted selling pressure.

Local traction bonds were virtually the only issues to extend the improvement which was general throughout the market last week. Reports that agreements between the city and the operating companies regarding new subway construction were near, stimulated buying of Interborough, Third Avenue and New York railways' obligations, resulting in advances of 1 to 3 points. Moderate gains were recorded by some of the gas and electric issues.

Railroad liens failed to retain the interest of buyers despite favorable earnings reports made public by several large systems and optimistic predictions made at annual meetings. Most of the offerings of both high-grade and semispeculative issues were taken up only at concessions, the decline embracing "Big Four" 5's, Iowa Central 5's, Erie Convertible 4's, Minneapolis and St. Louis 5's, Missouri Pacific 5's, New York Central refunding 4½'s, Northern Pacific 4's, St. Louis Southwestern first 5's, Southern Pacific refunding 4's, Wheeling and Lake Erie 4½'s and the Seaboard bonds.

Realizing sales wiped out some of the recent gains of oil, copper and other industrial liens. Granby Mining 7's and Chile Copper 6's were heavy, while Virginia-Carolina Chemical 7½ per cent certificates sagged almost 5 points.

Public offering will be made tomorrow through a syndicate, headed by Blair & Co., of $6,000,000 Department of Antioquia, Columbia, twenty-year 7 per cent bonds priced at 19¼ to yield 7.87 per cent or better to maturity. Under plans for redemption at par, some of the bonds will yield as high as 11.08 per cent on early retirement dates. The issue represents the second step in a $20,000,000 financing program.

An early offering is expected of £7,500,000 6 per cent bonds and notes of the Minnesota and Ontario Paper Company, which will be sold through Halsey, Stuart & Co., to finance an expansion and building program.

Following are yesterday's high, low and closing prices of bonds on the New York Stock Exchange and the bond sales at each board.

Comienza el Consejo de Guerra del Coronel Williams

APOSTADERO NAVAL (San Diego,) Abril 12.—Virtualmente solo, pero sin vacilaciones de ningún género, el general brigadier Smedley Butler ha comenzado esta tarde su tan anunciada ofensiva contra el famoso cocktail de Coronado, y, según últimas noticias del frente, se encuentra firmemente atrincherado para esta noche. En su despiadado ataque contra el cocktail durante su declaración de unos sesenta minutos, como testigo principal de la acusación contra el coronel Alexander Williams, el general Butler no se dejó nada en el tintero.

"No hay nada que ocultar," dijo, y procedió inmediatamente a sacar a luz todo, exponiendo cuanto secreto conocía acerca de la famosa fiesta de estreno de casa en Coronado, dada por el coronel Williams el 6 de Marzo, día de la llegada del general Butler a San Diego.

Casi nada dijo Butler sobre este palpitante asunto, que no sea ya del dominio público, por haberlo expuesto la prensa, sea como noticia, sea como rumor; pero ratificó muchas de las cosas que se han contado o asegurado sobre la reunión de marras.

Puede haber habido dudas, y aun quizá queden algunas en el ánimo de algunos testigos, respecto de lo que se sirvieran en la casa del coronel Williams, y que haya dado lugar a la pretendida embriaguez de éste; pero ninguna duda de ese género existe en el ánimo del general Butler, "quien rotundamente afirma que fueron cocktails. Sin distinción de ninguna clase, sin posible error, sin "camouflage", lo servido en casa del coronel Williams fueron cocktails.

Bandido que Asalta Solo a un Banco

A las 4 p.m. de ayer, un bandido robó un banco sucursal del Pacific National Bank, sito en la avenida Melrose, 5784, y se llevó $300. Para lograr su fin amenazó con un revólver a los tres empleados que se hallaban en el establecimiento. Dejó por no haberla visto, una suma que se estima en $5000 a $14,000, y que acababa de ser puesta en la bóveda cuando entró el salteador.

Dorothy Flanagan, tenedora de libros de 20 años de edad, iba saliendo por la puerta que cae a la calle de Arden, cuando se le encaró un individuo con aspecto de griego. Dícese que este hombre llevaba ya varias horas de andar vagando por esa vecindad. Al ver salir a la contadora, la encañonó con su pistola, y le ordenó que volviera a entrar en el banco.

La señorita Flanagan obedeció, y el bandido entonces dirigió su arma contra Walter Meek, gerente del banco, que vive en la calle de Berendo, 1826½, y luego contra R. De Crewe, gerente ayudante, que acababa de depositar en la bóveda una cantidad de dinero. El bandido, que daba muestras de hallarse nerviosísimo, se dirigió a la ventanilla del cajero pagador y se apoderó de $250 en billetes y de $50 en plata.

Cuando hizo saber a sus tres cautivos que tenía el propósito de encerrarlos en la bóveda, Meek puso tranquilamente la combinación. De pronto, el bandido se precipitó hacia la puerta que da a la calle de Arden y atravesó la calle corriendo.

Un individuo que estaba esperando allí en un auto, probablemente cómplice del ladrón, puso en marcha el vehículo, y según se dice, el bandido tuvo que correr tras el auto como una cuadra antes de poder brincar adentro. De Crewe lo persiguió algún trecho y le disparó un tiro.

"¡Mira, Max," exclamó el relojero, "qué agradecido está este pajarito por su libertad! ("See, Max," the clock-maker cried, "how thankful this little bird is for her freedom!) ¡Y qué contentos estamos nosotros de dejarlo salir a tiempo! Si hubiera perdido la vida en nuestras manos, ¿nos lo habríamos perdonado nunca?" (And how glad we are that we let her out in time! If she had lost her life at our hands, could we ever have forgiven ourselves?) ¿No nos habríamos quedado muy tristes, pensando que había un canto de pájaro menos en el mundo, por haber sido nosotros egoístas y crueles? Gun Running to Mexico Said to be Profitable

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) April 13. Canadian customs officials have been giving more attention to the sailing of rum carriers recently on the ground that numerous reports are seeping through from Mexico of the arrival there of machine guns and ammunition to feed a projected revolution.

Several small boats that run between mother ships and the California coast, but which have been in here recently report that there is more money running guns from lumber carriers that halt long enough off the coast of Mexico to take off their cargoes of ammunition, than they get for carrying liquor. Western ports of Mexico are shallow and the little boats used are reported to have been very successful in landing guns and ammunition without detection.

Competition of Auto Bus Cuts Rail Earnings

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, April 13.—The Rock Island lines are carrying fewer passengers today than in 1911 because of motor vehicle competition President Gorman told stockholders in an annual report, which showed that the carrier earned $4.54 on its common stock in 1925, as compared with $4.86 in 1924.

The railroad is developing its long houl traffic, with which the motor bus cannot compete, and entering competition on short hauls by trying out a motor rail car, Mr. Gorman said.

The report showed that balance of income available for dividends amounted to $6,966,132, an increase of nearly $131,000. After payment of preferred dividends, the balance, $3,395,947 was added to surplus.

INSPECTION FORCES TANKER TO DRY DOCK

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) April 13. Steamboat-Inspection regulations in British Columbia are so severe that it will be necessary for the Union Oil tanker Olinda to discharge her entire cargo of 4000 barrels of gasoline and go on dry dock for inspection before she will be allowed to distribute the gasoline to the company's new bunkers between here and Alaska. Recently the Union Oil Company established ten bunkering stations at intervals along the coast, and to feed these stations the American tanker Olinda was bought and arrangement made to transfer her to Canadian registry, that she may ply between Canadian ports.

USE GLOVES AS DUELLING EQUIPMENT

Paris Adversaries Adopt New Method for Settling Differences

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, April 13.—For the first time in the history of French dueling an affair of honor has been settled with four-ounce gloves for weapons. The adversaries were M. Terzieff and M. Schapira, the former a Rumanian, the latter a Swiss, both well-known residents of Paris and members of the fashionable club, Cercle De Lescrime et Des Arts. It must also be added that both formerly were amateur boxers, M. Terzieff having at one time held the amateur championship of Rumania.

A recent quarrel between the two clubmen having led to words which were considered insulting, a duel became inevitable. When the second met a surprise was sprung by the representatives of the insulted party, who named gloves for their choice of arms. The weapon had not been included in the rules and regulations of the French duelling code, but nevertheless the proposal, after slight hesitation, was accepted.

The meeting took place in the club gymnasium. Two-minute rounds were fought in the presence of the seconds and a few sportsmen. Both were badly out of training and condition, but they exchanged lusty blows. In the third round the referee stopped the fight, M. Schapira being declared an easy victor. M. Terzieff was only saved from a knockout by the intervention of the referee.

ARIZONA LAMB CROP ESTIMATED AT 35,000

SHEARING COMPLETED BUT WOOL HELD IN EXPECTATION OF BETTER MARKET

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, April 13.—The Arizona lamb crop, for spring delivery, is estimated at 35,000, salable at $10 a head. This is in addition to heavy lambing of Arizona sheep in California pastures, to which the ewes were shipped for cheaper feed than was available in Arizona, where drought continued through the winter. More than half the lambs shipped thus far have gone to Los Angeles packing houses, the carcasses to be shipped East.

Very little Arizona wool has been marketed to date, though most of the shearing has been completed. Early offers were at 35 cents, lately ranging up to 41 cents for the cleaner grades. There is expectation of an ample market soon at around 47 cents.

This year has been noted a disposition to clean up the flocks, with disposal of all culls and of aged ewes at prices that have given the feeders large profits.

REUNION OF PIONEERS ON IN ARIZONA

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, April 13. — The sixth annual reunion of the Arizona Pioneers' Association opened today in Phoenix, and will continue tomorrow. As is usual, on the first day the host was the Arizona Republican, which in past years has had from 1200 to 1500 guests annually. The idea is one that has met with a large degree of popularity, bringing pioneers here from every part of the State, while scores come from Southern California, where so many of the early day Arizonans now make their homes.

Heretofore the qualification for entrance has been an Arizona residence of thirty-five years, but this is to be altered. It is expected to establish three classes of membership, with especial honor to those who have had their names here for fifty years, while the native sons and daughters may be placed under a separate classification.

First president of the organization was John P. Orme, one of the earliest farmers of the Salt River Valley and once president of the Salt River Valley Water Users' Association. After two years he was succeeded by Charles M. Clark of Globe, who came to Phoenix about 1872 as the first employed operator of the military telegraph line, that year extended from San Diego to Tucson and Prescott. Mr. Clark made announcement that he will not accept re-election, after his three terms of office.

Among the oldest members is T. C. Barkley of Phoenix, still mentally alive though his 100th birthday will come in August. Senior in point of length of Arizona residence is Billy Fourr of Cochise county, an active cattleman, who came to the Southwest in 1861 and who fought Apaches from the Agua Caliente ranch in company with the noted King Woolsey.

Among the women precedence is given Mrs. Columbus H. Gray, the first American of her sex to make a home in the Salt River Valley, now living where she and her husband settled in 1868. From California there is Mrs. John Y. T. Smith, one of the first teachers of the village school in Phoenix, and widow of the post trader at Fort McDowell, which now is in ruins. In evidence also is to be Sol Barth, noted freighter and Indian trader of very early times, and founder of St. Johns, where he still has his family home.

TYPEWRITER FOR CHINESE PERFECTED

New Device Includes 5000 of Most Ordinary Symbols of Oriental Language

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 13.—From out of the Orient with its mysteries and ancient lore, has come an invention worthy of Occidental genius in the form of a typewriter capable of transcribing the thousands of ideographic crypts of old China. It is being marketed here.

The machine, first of its kind, was designed by Tse Quon, a native of Shanghai. It is the product of years of toil and experiments with various machines of foreign make, in which was involved the tedious task of collecting nearly all of the common-use characters needed for the expression of the Chinese language of commerce.

There are 5000 characters on the machine. These are transcribed to paper through the medium of the familiar rubber roller-line shifting apparatus and inked ribbon.

Instead of each character being mounted on an individual arm as is the case with American and European machines, however, the characters rest on a sliding table and a single key rod drops down, picks up the letter wished and after it is used drops the type back into its respective slot. The entire apparatus weighs about forty pounds.

It is asserted the ordinarily educated Chinese, with two months' practice can acquire a speed of 3000 characters an hour, which equals speed possible on European machines as each sign or character may represent several words.

PRESERVING FLAGS OF ILLINOIS TROOPS

RESTORING STANDARDS CARRIED AT CHAPULTEPEC AND CHATEAU THIERRY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SPRINGFIELD (Ill.) April 13. Preserving the flags under which the sons of Illinois have gone forth to battle, from Chapultepec to Chateau Thierry, is the work now of a corps of thirty Springfield women under the direction of Miss Julia A. Reckford.

There are seven distinct operations in the process, and in the case of flags tattered by bullet and shell holes, the work occupies several months.

The first is to straighten the edges of the tatters so that they will fray no further. However, no part of the torn standards is replaced by any new material. A net of transparent black silk, imported from England, is prepared for each flag, and after its restoration, the net is put over the flag and stitched to it so that the net supports the weight of the time-worn material, which might otherwise pull apart.

More than 100 of the war-time emblems of Illinois have been thus prepared. Flags of the Mexican War were treated first. When the Civil War flags were taken up, it was found that much of the work of the Springfield women of 1865-66 would have to be undone. They sewed the flags to tarletan. This backing is being removed in the new process.

Trio Tells Victim That They Mistook Him for Bootlegger

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PORTLAND (Or.) April 13.—Three armed, but apologetic, bandits who believed they were robbing the home of a bootlegger, held up Fred Small and his wife in their home at 205 East Thirty-First street. From Small they took $60 and a watch. In a bedroom they found $38 more.

One of the bandits told Small they thought he was another man whom they understood was a bootlegger. The three seemed provoked at their mistake but told Small they would have to go through with the deal.

Competition of Auto Bus Cuts Rail Earnings

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, April 13.—The Rock Island lines are carrying fewer passengers today than in 1911 because of motor vehicle competition President Gorman told stockholders in an annual report, which showed that the carrier earned $4.54 on its common stock in 1925, as compared with $4.86 in 1924.

The railroad is developing its long houl traffic, with which the motor bus cannot compete, and entering competition on short hauls by trying out a motor rail car, Mr. Gorman said.

The report showed that balance of income available for dividends amounted to $6,966,132, an increase of nearly $131,000. After payment of preferred dividends, the balance, $3,395,947 was added to surplus.

INSPECTION FORCES TANKER TO DRY DOCK

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) April 13. Steamboat-Inspection regulations in British Columbia are so severe that it will be necessary for the Union Oil tanker Olinda to discharge her entire cargo of 4000 barrels of gasoline and go on dry dock for inspection before she will be allowed to distribute the gasoline to the company's new bunkers between here and Alaska. Recently the Union Oil Company established ten bunkering stations at intervals along the coast, and to feed these stations the American tanker Olinda was bought and arrangement made to transfer her to Canadian registry, that she may ply between Canadian ports.

USE GLOVES AS DUELLING EQUIPMENT

Paris Adversaries Adopt New Method for Settling Differences

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, April 13.—For the first time in the history of French dueling an affair of honor has been settled with four-ounce gloves for weapons. The adversaries were M. Terzieff and M. Schapira, the former a Rumanian, the latter a Swiss, both well-known residents of Paris and members of the fashionable club, Cercle De Lescrime et Des Arts. It must also be added that both formerly were amateur boxers, M. Terzieff having at one time held the amateur championship of Rumania.

A recent quarrel between the two clubmen having led to words which were considered insulting, a duel became inevitable. When the second met a surprise was sprung by the representatives of the insulted party, who named gloves for their choice of arms. The weapon had not been included in the rules and regulations of the French duelling code, but nevertheless the proposal, after slight hesitation, was accepted.

The meeting took place in the club gymnasium. Two-minute rounds were fought in the presence of the seconds and a few sportsmen. Both were badly out of training and condition, but they exchanged lusty blows. In the third round the referee stopped the fight, M. Schapira being declared an easy victor. M. Terzieff was only saved from a knockout by the intervention of the referee.

ARIZONA LAMB CROP ESTIMATED AT 35,000

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, April 13.—The Arizona lamb crop, for spring delivery, is estimated at 35,000, salable at $10 a head. This is in addition to heavy lambing of Arizona sheep in California pastures, to which the ewes were shipped for cheaper feed than was available in Arizona, where drought continued through the winter. More than half the lambs shipped thus far have gone to Los Angeles packing houses, the carcasses to be shipped East.

Very little Arizona wool has been marketed to date, though most of the shearing has been completed. Early offers were at 35 cents, lately ranging up to 41 cents for the cleaner grades. There is expectation of an ample market soon at around 47 cents.

This year has been noted a disposition to clean up the flocks, with disposal of all culls and of aged ewes at prices that have given the feeders large profits.

Heretofore the qualification for entrance has been an Arizona residence of thirty-five years, but this is to be altered. It is expected to establish three classes of membership, with especial honor to those who have had their

CAR RUNS DOWN SCHOOL PUPILS

Plows Through Group at Racing Speed

Killed, Second May Die, Five Others Hurt

Driver, Said to be Drunk, With Lynching

Car driven at racing speed on wrong side of the road by a man said to be drunk to control it, according to police, plowed through a group of seven school children on San Fernando yesterday, killing four of them almost instantly, fatally injuring another so seriously that it is expected to die. The remaining five boys and girls also were injured but none seriously.

Those killed were Jose Leon, 11 years of age, struck by the machine, was taken to the County Jail by San Fernando police officers immediately after the accident to frustrate any possible attempt to lynch the infuriated citizens and parents.

CAR JUMPS CURB

Jose Leon, 11 years of age, of Hewitt street, was pinned under a tree by the car and died a few minutes later en route to the San Fernando Hospital.

Ramon Vasquez, 7, of 1119 Pico street, San Fernando, was struck by the car with such force that his skull was fractured. The boy was hurried to the General Hospital but physicians stated that he had a slight chance for life.

LYNCHING THREATENED

A crowd of men and women, some of the latter almost hysterical, gathered about the spot and threatened to lynch the driver. Officers and police fought their way out of the mob with their prisoner and removed him to the County Jail for safekeeping.

Chief of Police Fairfield Bert Williams of San Fernando investigated the accident and said that Leon was sodden drunk at the time they took him into custody and that he kept his balance by great effort.

Another children injured are Jose Rosales, 11, who suffered a fractured arm; Manuel Vasquez, 8, suffered injuries to his head; Jose Luis, possible internal injuries; Bernardo Hernandez, 8, head injuries; Jose Hernandez, 8, head injuries. All were all treated at the San Fernando Hospital.

STATE HIGHWAY ACTION PLANNED

Auto Club Sponsors Move to Reorganize System

Propose to Oust Politics in Department Control

Petitions Circulated to Put Initiative on Ballot

With the object of taking the State highway system out of politics and placing it directly in the hands of the people, petitions will be circulated today designed to place on the ballot an initiative reorganizing the present status of highway administration in the State. The initiative is sponsored by the Automobile Club of Southern California and is the result of many years of careful study, thorough investigation and frequent conferences with organizations and individuals actively interested in State highway development.

The primary object, it is declared, is to advance the highway program of the future and to place it on a sound, economic and engineering basis remote from the "legislative log rolling" of the past.

OBJECTS OUTLINED

The initiative petition provides for the creation of a definite system of State highways; classification of all State highways as primary or secondary; that no additions may be made to the primary highways except upon vote by all the people; that no additions may be made to the secondary highways except by two-thirds vote of the legislature or by majority vote of the people of the district in which the proposed addition lies; the creation of two county groups, one composed of the thirteen southern counties; the appropriation of $5,000,000 a year for twelve years for highway construction; allocation of 75 per cent of this appropriation for expenditure upon primary highways in the county group in proportion to the mileage of the primary highways in the respective groups; allocation of 25 per cent of the appropriation to the construction of secondary highways to be expended in the respective groups in proportion to the land area therein; to allocate maintenance money between the two groups, one-third on the basis of primary highway mileage in the respective group and two-thirds on the basis of the number of vehicles registered in the respective groups; permitting voters of either group to incur bonded indebtedness or be otherwise taxed for any construction purposes within the district, and permitting the contribution to specific projects by counties and other bodies.

In commenting on the action of the Automobile Club and the necessity for such a program, President Henry W. Keller said:

"When the State highway system was originally created in 1909 its inspiration and purpose was to connect all of the counties of the State by two trunk-line highways running north and south, traversing the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys and along the Pacific Coast, connecting the county seats of the various counties.

"This system of roads constituted some 3052 miles and, notwithstanding the seventeen years that have elapsed since the passage of the original act, 835 miles of this original system remain untouched.

"The Automobile Club of Southern California has endeavored to bring about the completion of these primary roads, which include the essential inter-State and transcontinental highway connections, but the constant and indiscriminate addition of roads to the State highway system at each succeeding session of the Legislature has diverted funds that should have been used for the construction of those roads, which are recognized as of Statewide importance.

"Southern California contributes more than half of the funds provided for State highway purposes, both for construction and maintenance. Yet this section of the State has received but slightly more than one-third of the expenditures, due to political control of the State Legislature being maintained by the north.

"The Automobile Club of Southern California, therefore, is submitting this issue to the voters of the State, through which the abuses of the past can be eliminated and a comprehensive development of our highway system be attained along progressive and economic lines."

MILK FAT PRODUCTION TOTAL SET TOO HIGH

A mistake was made in the listing of the figures of the milk fat produced in California, according to word received by Howard A. Miller of the agricultural department of the Chamber of Commerce, from the State Department of Agriculture. Instead of 18,403,155 pounds of fat being produced as the report stated, 11,878,295 pounds was the actual production. Los Angeles county still heads the list of milk-fat producing counties of the State despite the change in the figures.

Coolidge Presents Sittel's Appointment to Federal Post Here

The name of Albert C. Sittel, incumbent, was presented to Congress yesterday by President Coolidge for appointment as United States marshal for the southern district of California.

Albert C. Sittel.

So far unopposed, Marshal Sittel is virtually assured of reappointment, as predicted exclusive... six weeks ago in The Times.

He has been in the United States marshal's office in varying capacities for nearly a quarter of a century, and, with P. P. O'Brien, is the only other Federal official to claim his home in the tenth district.

Only one other government official, Louis H. Schwaebe, Collector of Customs, remains to be appointed under the new term. While some opposition has developed toward his candidacy, this is reported to have been swept aside and his nomination is now being expected daily.

AID SOUGHT FOR COLONY IN PALESTINE

Maurice Samuel Tells Aims of Movement to Colonize Ancient Jewish Land

Promoters of the Zionist movement hope to assist 40,000 Jews to emigrate from Europe to Palestine during the year, according to Maurice Samuel of New York, now in Los Angeles to interest local Jews in the Palestine colonization project.

Mr. Samuel, who is at the Ambassador, said the success of the plan to build up a Jewish nation in the Holy Land depends largely on the financial support of American Jews.

"We are at work to raise a fund of $5,000,000 to carry on colonization and are relying on contributions of $100,000 from Los Angeles," he said. "The ultimate aim of the movement is to enable all Jews in the anti-Semitic countries to find a home in Palestine."

Last year some 33,000 Jews emigrated to the land of their forefathers and the development of Palestine is well under way.

Referring to the probable relations that will develop between the incoming Jewish immigrants and the native Arab population of Palestine, numbering 650,000, Mr. Samuel stated the the Zionist promoters look for no difficulties in this respect.

The Jews now colonizing Palestine are developing a culture of their own based on ancient Jewish tradition but sufficiently modern to meet conditions of today, Mr. Samuel said.

PLANES TEST NEW ROUTE

Four Craft Leave for Utah Over Mail Service Path; Cryer Signs Letter to New York Mayor

Hopping off in a test flight to Salt Lake City over the route to be followed in future mail deliveries between Los Angeles and the Utah metropolis, four planes of the Western Air Express left the landing grounds at Griffith Park yesterday.

The plans reached Salt Lake City safely yesterday afternoon after having bucked strong head winds all the way from Las Vegas, Nev. They will double back to Los Angeles today to prepare for the first official mail flight over the new route next Saturday.

While the pilots of the Western Air Express are making final preparations for the inauguration of the new mail line, Mayor Cryer has prepared his contribution to the dignity of the occasion with the signing yesterday of a letter of greeting to be delivered to the Mayor of New York.

Mayor Cryer's letter will be the first missive of what is expected to be the largest shipment of first-class mail ever sent by air, preparations of the air mail company calling for handling of more than 100,000 letters.

Los Angeles' greeting from her mayor will be contained in a letter more than a yard long and proportionately wide. It is stamped with a replica of one of the original Pony Express stamps with a mammoth duplicate of the official cancellation mark authorized by the Post office Department for the occasion.

The huge letter when presented by Miss Marian Voss, private secretary to Mayor Cryer, for his signature, created quite a stir of interest in his office, as did the fountain pen, a foot in length, with which His Honor signed his name. It was canceled at the postoffice by Postmaster O'Brien and turned over the air mail for special accommodations Saturday.

New Smallpox Cases Tuesday Come to Three

Three new cases of smallpox and no deaths were reported in Los Angeles between midnight Monday and 5 p.m. yesterday, according to City Health Officer Parrish. The corrected report for Monday was five cases and two deaths. Health department records show that three cases were reported Sunday.

The total for the month to date is sixty-seven cases, making the total for the year to date 855 cases. Last week's total was thirty-one cases. Totals for preceding weeks were eighty-two, fifty-four, thirty-eight and fifty-five cases, respectively. March's total was 263 cases, compared to 329 reported during February.

SEES NEED FOR MORAL LEADERSHIP

Vanderlip Says Church Has Made Failure in Not Doing All It Can Do

The church in America has failed to live up to its opportunities, Frank A. Vanderlip told 100 members of the Brotherhood of the First Presbyterian Church of San Pedro last night. Mr. Vanderlip declared the church has "made a failure, not to do good, but to do all that it is possible to do," and that outside organizations are doing work the church should do.

The great need of the world today, said Mr. Vanderlip, is for moral leadership.

"I am not a church member," he said. "Why not? Well, there are two types of minds in this world. One believes in authority, precedent and the sayings of the fathers with a trend toward the miraculous. The other takes nothing on authority and wants facts and proof. The first type is apt to be in the church. I am of the other type.

"But I have the deepest respect for the work of the church and its profound effect upon human life. The whole history of the church for fifteen centuries shows a demand for authority to govern the thinking people and discourage scientific investigation.

"What is right and what is wrong? I do not believe that a thing is wrong just because a church says it is wrong. A thing is wrong that hurts others or harms a race. One of the greatest blessings that have come to us are the teachings of Jesus Christ, but we have not made as much progress in 2000 years in moral law as we have in 200 years unraveling physical laws. There is just as much ahead of us in clearer understanding of moral law as there is in physical law. The laws governing what is right have really not yet been formulated.

"What is lacking? Science has gone ahead of morals. We are not morally ready to receive what science has unfolded to us. Take our railroad situation with its dishonesty and recriminations. Service has outstripped our moral grasp. We are moral children playing with dangerous tools we do not know how to use. The great need is for moral leadership. At the end of the World War the whole world stood ready for America to accept leadership and we were not equal to the task."

PLAZA STATION WILL BE GRAND ARMY TOPIC

Cabrillo Chapter, Grand Army of the Republic, will meet at the Women's University Club, 943 South Hoover street, at 3:00 p.m. today. Samuel Storrow will discuss the question of building a union station on the Plaza site, and a brief talk on the problems confronting Venice will be given by W. W. Casselberry.

STEPHENS TALKS ON DEPOT

The proved advantages of the Plaza district for a union railroad station for Los Angeles were set forth yesterday by City Attorney Stephens in addresses in which he urged the members of the Hollywood Exchange Club and the Parent-Teacher Association of the Arlington Heights school to vote "Yes" on Propositions 8 (union station) and 9 (Plaza site) at the April 30 special city election.

"I am convinced that the people of Los Angeles," said the City Attorney, "will have no hesitancy in choosing a union railroad depot for Los Angeles in preference to the permanent use of the Arcade depot and a separate Santa Fe depot with a chain of noisy elevated structures. The people's engineers, the Railroad Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission have all definitely rejected the railroads' grade crossing elimination and the providing of needed terminal facilities by the construction of a union depot in the Plaza district.

WHY OF SITE

"Now why did these commissions and engineers select the Plaza district? First, because it is at the point where all of the tracks of all of the steam roads now come together. Obviously needed unification of rail facilities can be more easily obtained at a terminal located where the tracks are already unified than at a site to which the steam road tracks must be brought together at great expense to the railroads.

"The Railroad Commission engineers have proved the greater accessibility by automobile and street car of the Plaza district than either the Santa Fe or Arcade site for a great majority of the people of Los Angeles. Next, the Interstate Commerce Commission in issuing an order rejecting the railroad's plan and declaring in favor of the Plaza district union depot pointed out that the union station will face the civic center across the beautiful historic Plaza, and said that the Plaza district union depot would fit in with the city's civic center plans.

"The creation of the great and beautiful civic center is now under way, as anyone can see who stands at First and Spring streets and views the tearing down of buildings to make way for the new 100-foot Spring street to the north and for the new $5,000,000 City Hall.

DEBATE SUBJECT

"These are a few of the reasons that have caused all of the people's engineers and commissions to declare that the union depot should be located in the Plaza district. Then, too, there is the fact that the Southern Pacific already owns two-thirds of the Plaza union district union depot site, which adds another strong argument in favor of the railroads' ceasing their ten-year battle against the people in an effort to block the construction of the Plaza union depot and to retain their railroad monopoly from behind their network of elevated structures."

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

IN TIME we may get around to trifles like the World War, former Ambassador Morgenthau predicts.

But something serious now confronts us.

Bobbed hair.

BEAUTY HINTS—AHEM!

If long tresses come back, it is to be hoped that they come back with more success than they departed.

Not one woman in a hundred knew what to do with her crowning glory. As a usual thing, they used their hair as a device to destroy whatever beauty had been given to them.

There is one article of wear that is frequently becoming to all women—a tight rubber bathing cap. Under it they conceal years of old age. The reason is that one of the high points of many a woman's beauty is the shape of her head . . . a point concealed under a mop of hair; but revealed by "boyish bobs" and bathing caps.

"AMERICANIZED!" WELL!

No doubt it will be a relief to the amazed Zitkala Sa, the Indian literary light, to learn from a Washington dispatch to The Times that she is "thoroughly Americanized."

The lady in question is a Sioux whose people were age-old Americans when Columbus discovered America.

No doubt she has been thoroughly Americanized through association with the Norwegian immigrants of her Dakota prairies.

A HERO'S REWARD

The appointment of Gen. Allenby as Governor-General of Canada would delight every soldier's heart. He was the one flashing hero of the World War.

However unjust the picture may be, the soldiers of the late war think of their generals as sitting in luxurious French chateaus; interrupting we-shall-die-in-the-last-ditch messages to inform the mess sergeant that if he buys any more punk cigars he will be sent back to the trenches.

Allenby made the most incredible marches with his troops in Palestine. He was one of those damn-the-torpedoes commanders who charged infantry trenches on horseback.

He called upon his soldiers for hardships without parallel in the history of wars; and they adored him because he went with them.

FOOLISH WIVES

Another rich grass widow has come back from Europe sadder and wiser.

Another of those vain simpletons who are willing to pay the money their husbands dug and slaved for to buy attentions from the handsome, sneering young lounge lizards.

There is nothing so ghastly or contemptible as an old woman trying to play with love after the curtain has gone down on her youth. An old man flirting is merely silly, but an old woman is tragedy gone sour.

VOTE DELEGATE FUND

The Council yesterday voted down the Mayor's disapproval of a request for $100 to send a member of the Board of Mechanical Engineers to San Francisco to attend a convention and appropriated the money.

The mileage and carfare account of the engineering department went $13.003 "in the red" during the month of March, according to a report transmitted to the Council yesterday. The report was referred to the Mayor.

PAYMENT FOR PEACH GROWERS

Fresno Association to Send Out Checks

Members Get Good Prices for Fruit

Crop Said to Have Been of High Quality

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, April 13.—Payment to peach growers of a second installment on the 1925 crop, amounting to from 2 cents to 4¼ cents a pound, according to grade, was announced today by the California Peach and Fig Growers, at a joint meeting of the growers' advisory council with directors of the two association corporations.

While no announcement was made of the aggregate of the checks that are being mailed to growers tonight, the total will run well into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, adding to the economic improvement noticeable since the announcement a week ago of a raisin payment of $1,350,000 by the Sun-Maid Raisin Growers.

The payment rate per pound of peaches delivered to the association by growers was announced as follows:

With final distribution of the 1925 crop additional payment will be made to the growers, which will bring their total revenue per pound to the following approximate figures, according to the association announcement: Standard, 6½ cents; choice, 8½ cents; extra choice, 10 cents; fancy, 13 cents; extra fancy, 16 cents.

The crop delivered to the association was of exceptionally high quality, the greater part being of extra grading out as extra choice and fancy quality.

In an official statement the association said that the figures given out today indicate a substantial premium to members of the association who produced approximately one-half of the State's drying-peach crop in 1925. The return is the highest that has been made to peach growers for several years.

In connection with the payment announced, President Ward B. Minturn said that the satisfactory prices for the dried peach crop are a direct reflection of what can be done through whole-hearted support of the membership in a co-operative effort to solve the marketing problem.

"We are a 100 per cent co-operative marketing organization as far as member morale is concerned," he said, "and this confidence has been reflected in accomplishment of our directors in carrying on our business. We are a competitive concern, and while at the same time we are purely co-operative, we have achieved an enviable competitive position."

'Chief' Fails to Convince Court Officers Erred

Police officers who arrested H. L. Hansen, 65 years of age, on a charge of disturbing the peace, got a good bawling out from "The Chief" yesterday.

"The Chief" looked at Hansen, and sympathy was in his eye. Then he turned his gaze upon the officers. It was an indignant gaze.

"This man should never have been taken into custody," thundered former Chief of Police Heath, now Attorney Heath, representing the defendant.

Attorney Heath grinned back.

"It was after I quit. I was careful to look that up," he responded.

JAIL TERM IN LA HABRA RIOT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA ANA, April 13.—R. A. Ross, 43 years of age, one of the five men arrested as a result of the La Habra election riot Monday night, in which one man was shot and several injured, entered a plea of guilty here late today when arraigned on charges of carrying a concealed weapon, and was sentenced by Justice Morrison to serve six months in the County Jail here. The four other accused men will be arraigned tomorrow.

The complaints were sworn to by City Marshal Martin of La Habra and his assistant, Dorsey Ellis.

Those named in the complaints and the charges are: William Noable, 51, carrying a concealed weapon, assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder and rioting; R. A. Ross, carrying a concealed weapon, disturbing the peace and rioting; John Bradford, 50, carrying a concealed weapon, disturbing the peace, resisting an officer and rioting; his son, Frank, 21, inciting a riot, and Carl Miller, 30, assault with intent to do bodily harm and rioting.

According to the facts laid before Mosley by Martin, Ellis and Deputy Sheriffs McClelland and Smith of Orange county, the election trouble started following the arrest Monday afternoon of John Bradford, a deputy constable, on a charge of violation of the election laws in the distribution of campaign material.

Late Monday night, according to Martin's story, Noble led a crowd to a polling place and dared Martin and his two deputies, Rolley and Roscoe Bennett, to come out and fight. They went out and a riot started. Noble, it is asserted, put a gun on Martin and a fight started in which Noble was injured and Martin hurt in the struggle for the gun. Roscoe Bennett pulled a gun and it went off, wounding him in the leg, when one of the mob hit the gun. The arrests followed.

It was said at the Orange County Jail that Noble may have to be removed to a hospital because of his injuries. He was hit on the head by a club in the hands of Martin.

AUDITORIUM URGED

Long Beach City Manager Proposes Use for Oil Revenue

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, April 13.—The building of a new municipal auditorium for Long Beach, out of moneys derived from oil revenues was declared today to be one of the chief ambitions of City Manager Henderson, who hopes to see the project completed during his administration. Mr. Henderson declared today that Long Beach should have a permanent monument erected from the proceeds of the oil that has been produced during the last four years on municipally owned land on Signal Hill. If the city saves $750,000 of its expected oil revenues during the next fiscal year the new auditorium can be assured, he pointed out.

Rigid adherence to his declared policy of operating the city with the ordinary revenues derived from taxes, fees, fines and miscellaneous revenue, will make it possible to retain $750,000 of oil funds intact for auditorium purposes, he said.

England has twenty-three women who make a living by cleaning chimneys.

JURY TO SEE "ELMS" PLAY

Special Matinee of Unexpurgated Version Today; Witnesses Call Theme Highly Moral

A chance to judge the play, "Desire Under the Elms," on its unexpurgated merits from first-hand observance will be given court and jury tomorrow afternoon at a special matinee, it was announced yesterday at the trial of the seventeen members of the cast in Municipal Judge Frederickson's court.

The announcement that the court and jury will be given an opportunity to see the play as it was presented before the members of the cast were arrested on charges of presenting an indecent performance came after a succession of defense witnesses had taken the stand and showered praise on the players individually and the play itself.

It was stated that every member of the cast will be sworn to enact his or her role in the original without a single change so that the jury will have ample opportunity to judge whether the performance is indecent or not.

Defense Attorney A. W. Green placed five witnesses on the stand during the day and vouched for them as being far more familiar with the theater and the drama than the ordinary individual who goes to a theater merely for entertainment.

FOUND PLAY MORAL

The first witness was Dr. Dorothy Moore, wife of Dr. E. C. Moore, director of the University of California, Southern Branch. Her testimony was brief but pointed. She stated that she saw the play as originally written in New York and found absolutely nothing objectionable in it. The play, as a fact, was highly moral and drew a sharp lesson, she stated.

Mabel Castle, a member of the drama board of the Friday Morning Club, was the second witness. She was even more emphatic in her defense of the play than the preceding witness and her testimony drew round after round of applause from the members of the cast after she left the stand. Judge Frederickson and the bailiff pounded hard before they were able to restore quiet.

The feminine witness declared the play represented the "most wonderful sermon" she had ever seen. She admitted that some of the language used might be considered crude or vulgar in itself but judged as matter in the play there could be no objection to it.

DRAMA TEACHER DISMISSED

Maurice Brown, dramatic instructor and a leader in the little theater movement, was called to the stand, but admitted that he did not see the play until after the arrest of the cast so his testimony was not allowed.

The views of a housewife were presented by Mrs. Morris Clary. She stated she was in the theater on the night that the cast was arrested, but saw nothing and heard nothing to arouse the ire of the law. She added she was not a bit shocked by the language, which did not appeal to her as vulgar when used in the play.

Frequent clashes between Defense Attorney Green and Deputy City Prosecutor Reams again marked the hearing and the court finally intervened with a request that they adhere more closely to court formalities.

LOCAL NEWS FLASHES

Edward B. Warman of Los Angeles, whose name was the first ever sent over a telephone in public demonstration, and Mrs. Estelle Haines Fennell, who assisted in the first public demonstration of a telephone in Los Angeles, were among those who participated in a remarkable gathering held under the auspices of the Electric Club at the Biltmore. Jackson A. Graves, pioneer banker, who recalled the names of the first ten telephone subscribers in Los Angeles, was also a guest. The evening was devoted largely to reminiscences concerning the introduction of the telephone into Los Angeles.

SCHOOL RULE FACES FIGHT

The health department is justified in requiring schoolchildren to obtain readmittance cards after an unexplained absence of three days and, if necessary, the department will appeal to the United States Public Health Service to bring about enforcement of the rule, Dr. Parrish informed the Board of Education in a communication Monday. The board will attempt to bring about a modification of the ruling to permit the return of such pupils without readmittance cards at the discretion of the principal of the school at which they are in attendance. Parents of children have objected to the ruling.

APPOINTMENT UP TO BOARD

If the Civil Service Commission will consent to make an exception in the case and waive the rule requiring that an applicant for the position as supervisor of playgrounds and community centers in Los Angeles be a resident of a year's standing in the district, J. C. Henderson, manager of the Greater Portland (Or.) Association, will be officially named for the position, George Hjeltje, superintendent of city playgrounds, announces. It is expected the Civil Service Board will take action at once on the matter, and that the appointment will be confirmed this week.

SEWAGE TUNNEL PROPOSED

Los Angeles Harbor and kindred residential communities would be freed of any sewage contamination by location of the county sewer outfall 4000 or more feet southeast of Point Firmin, according to a suggestion by X. H. Goodnough, Boston sanitation expert, recently employed by A. K. Warren, Los Angeles County Sanitation Engineer. The Goodnough proposal calls for tunneling under solid rock a distance of a mile and locating the outfall at a point where a depth of ninety to 100 feet may be obtained in favorable currents. The board of directors of the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce will call a meeting of engineers and representatives of the communities affected for the purpose of seeking an agreement before the issue comes up late this month before the State Health Board for final action.

RAINFALL VALUE SET

If the farmers of the eight Southern California counties were compelled to purchase the water which fell over the area during the recent rainstorm, at the present price of $5 an acre foot, the total cost would reach $296,000,000, Dr. George P. Clements, head of the agricultural department of the Chamber of Commerce, told the Realty Board at its luncheon at the Biltmore Monday. According to Dr. Clements, the rainfall totaled 37,000,000 acre feet. The city water department has approximately 29,500 acre feet of water in storage, and all of the local reservoirs are as full as the department wishes them to be at this time. Both the Little Rock reservoir in Antelope Valley and the Palmdale reservoir are well filled with water.

Two Women in Custody Facing Robbery Charge

Mrs. Gene Blain, 25 years of age, whose real name is said to be Blair, and Miss Davidia De Jardin, 22, were lodged in the County Jail yesterday by Detective Lieutenants Kalimeyer and Barr, as suspected burglars. Mrs. Blain, according to the detectives, is the wife of Grenville Blair, who is serving a sentence in San Quentin for robbery of a Sun Drug cashier about two years ago.

Part of the proceeds of a $15,000 clothing burglary at Halbritter's, 632 South Olive street, was disposed of by Miss De Jardin, the detectives declare, and she is said to assert Mrs. Blain furnished her the clothing to sell. Mrs. Blain denied all knowledge of it. The detectives say the two women were found together at 828 South Bonnie Brae. The burglary took place the 4th inst.

Firemen Rescue Girl Overcome in Home Blaze

Overcome by smoke in a bungalow fire at 2734 West Eleventh street, Miss Haselle Richmond, 22 years of age, lay unconscious on the floor till firemen found her yesterday, before the flames reached her. About $1000 damage was done, it was estimated.

Miss Richmond was asleep in a bedroom of the bungalow, when fire started in a clothes closet in another bedroom. In attempting to climb out through a window, she broke the pane and cut her hand, then fainted. She was rescued by members of Engine Company No. 50.

Miller Grilled in Bribery Case on His Evidence

Herman Miller, indicted with Bernard Schwars on charges of bribery and attempting to influence a juror, was subjected to a searching cross-examination yesterday in Judge McLucas's court by attorneys for Schwars, who sought to impeach testimony given by Miller as principal witness for the State in the prosecution of Schwars.

Miller, who, it was indicated, will be entitled to a plea for leniency in return for his testimony against Schwars, had testified that he and Schwars had planned and executed the bribery of Austin C. Doan, a juror at Schwars's first trial on a charge of violating the Corporate Securities Act. Schwars and Miller are asserted to have induced Doan to hang the jury at Schwars's first trial, necessitating a retrial. This resulted in a conviction of Schwars.

Chain Seeks to Loose Fetters of Marital Link

Tiring of being chained to Helen K. Chain when links in the chain seemed loose, John Chain of 1040 Cory street, Beverly Hills, yesterday filed a legal request to have the chains of matrimony sundered.

The complaint, prepared by Attorney S. S. Hahn, declared that Mrs. Chain left her husband's home last November and took an apartment in Hollywood under the name of Oleta Otis. When Chain, assuming he was still her husband, went to visit her, he said she told him to get out; that she "couldn't afford to have him around because motion-picture directors wouldn't star her if they knew she was married."

ACT ON IMPROVEMENTS

La Cienaga Boulevard Project Referred to Committee

The tentative assessment district map for the improvement of La Cienaga Boulevard from Sunset Boulevard to Beverley Boulevard was submitted to the Council yesterday by the City Engineer and referred to the Public Works Committee.

The plea for the opening of Pueblo avenue across the Pacific Electric tracks on Huntington Drive, filed with the Council by the El Sereno Farmdale Improvement Association, was referred to the City Engineer and the Street Opening and Widening Committee. The petition stated that the fire station on the north side of Huntington Drive was isolated from the south side of the artery, and that at present there exists only two crossings available to the fire department apparatus in seven blocks.

The Reach of the Spoken Word

WHEN the small family group of primitive man expanded into the cave community, a means of communicating beyond the normal range of the voice became imperative. Then someone discovered that by making a speaking-trumpet of his hands, he could increase the reach of the spoken word, could add new effectiveness to the human voice.

Other means of transmitting intelligence, in their turn, were found to serve the needs of man: the signal drum and the beacon fire; the written message, carried by runner, by rider, by water or by rail; and finally, the telegraph.

But these messages, however carried, lacked the direct and personal qualities of conversation. They were but symbols of speech, the shadows of the spoken word.

Then, fifty years ago, came the telephone. A half-century of scientific research has extended the reach of man's voice to thousands of miles. The Bell System's vast network of lines provides a service nationwide in scope. The American continent today is no larger, from a communication standpoint, than was the prehistoric community in which the cavemen shouted from cliff to cliff.

FOX FARMER'S ARREST PENDS

Mrs. Wallace Reid Swears Out Warrant

Accuses R. L. Williams of Check Frauds

Says He Sold Her Animals He Did Not Own

R. L. Williams was named in a complaint by Dep. Dist. Atty. Fisher yesterday, charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses from Mrs. Wallace Reid, widow of the former film star, in the sale of silver foxes which he asserted never to have owned.

The complaint, which was sworn to by Mrs. Reid, declares that Williams obtained $425 from Mrs. Reid last February as part payment for two silver foxes he is said to have told her he was having shipped from Canada to his fox farm at Big Bear, said also to be worth. On March 16, last, Mrs. Reid is said to have paid an additional $300 on the purchase price of $1100.

Lester Williams, according to the complaint, went to Mrs. Reid, told her he had another fine pair of foxes at his ranch and received her check for $1100 and a note for $150. Recently he obtained $100 on the note, she charges.

"ONCE-IN-A-WHILE WIFE" BALKS

Gets Divorce From Half-Loaf Mate

Mrs. Edith Jean Blau

BEING a "once-in-a-while wife" is a lot of blah, according to Edith Jean Blau, who yesterday obtained a divorce through Judge Summerfield from Fred C. Blau.

Mrs. Blau, represented by Attorney Llewellyn Marsh, declared her husband told her he wanted merely to call on her occasionally and take her out for a good time. She refused to believe that "half a loaf is better than no bread," in so far as it may apply to husbands, and decided to seek a divorce when Mr. Blau's visits grew fewer and more far between.

ROWLAND, FILM HEAD, GOES EAST

First National Manager Presented With Trowel; Many in Party

RICHARD A. ROWLAND.

Rowland was presented with a beautiful silver trowel at the station by John McCormick general manager of production for the First National Company. The gift was a token of faith expressed in the executive by those with whom he is associated in the film world.

On the train with Rowland were A. H. Blank, a First National official, Jack Allcotte, a film trade paper publisher, Pat O'Malley, Jack Pickford, Buster Collier, Jr., Jack White and others. A special car was needed for the party.

Rowland has been on the Coast for a week, conferring with McCormick. It is one of his semi-annual visits from the East, where he has his headquarters. Among those at the station to bid the chief good-by, were John McCormick, M. C. Levee, Dave Thompson, C. P. Butler, B. P. Fineman, Charles Rogers and others associated with the First National organization.

Stillwell collection was completed yesterday at a meeting held at the committee's headquarters, Room 18, Biltmore Arcade. Mrs. Arthur Wright heads the committee as chairman. Mrs. Samuel Storrow is treasurer, and Miss Antonette Sabel will act as secretary in addition to her duties as assistant secretary of the general committee.

In accepting the chairmanship Mrs. Wright emphasized the particular interest which the women of Los Angeles have in obtaining an adequate museum for the community.

GUARD AGAINST TONG WARFARE

Missing Belle Beloved by Bing Kong Member

Society's Cash Gone, Too; Extra Police on Job

Squads of police officers, led by detectives trained in the workings of the celestial mind, were sent into Chinatown yesterday to guard against the outbreak of a tong war, as a result of the strange disappearance of Lily Lee, belle of the Chinese district, and Wong Jung, assistant treasurer of the Hip Sing Tong. At the same time, high officials of the Hip Sings have offered $100 reward for the arrest of Jung, who is accused of taking with him $1163 of the society's money.

Rumors of an elopement between Lily Lee and Jung were entangled with stories that Jung had kidnaped the beautiful 18-year-old Chinese girl. Lily Lee is known throughout Chinatown as the sweetheart of a member of the Bing Kong Tong, and bitter feeling between the two rival societies has spread through Chinatown since the girl and the Hip Sing cash custodian vanished.

According to Detective Lieutenant McCarron, who was on duty with the Chinatown squad for years, Lily Lee is considered the prettiest Chinese girl in Los Angeles and one over whom several perfectly good masculine Chinese hearts have been broken in the last two years. Her disappearance was reported to the police by her uncle, Frank Ung of 808 Juan street, who called attention to the fact that the girl lived at 515½ August Alley while the now-missing Wong Jung had made his home at 516½.

Friends of the Bing Kong sweetheart of Lily Lee, it is reported, are taking official action through the society in the firm belief that the missing Hip Sing man has kidnaped her. Members of the Hip Sing Tong, on the other hand, enraged by the sudden loss of the society's funds, also are ready and willing to knock any chips from Bing Kong shoulders.

RUBBER FOR PHILIPPINES AS SOLUTION

Sumatra Planter Tells Farming Students How to Abolish Monopoly

American production of 224,000,000 pounds of rubber in the Philippine Islands would break the present foreign monopoly on this commodity and effectively stabilize its condition on the market, John R. Greenwood, expert rubber planter of Sumatra in the Dutch East Indies, told members of the agricultural department of the University of California, Southern Branch, in a lecture before the students in Monroe Auditorium last night.

The speaker gave his audience of future agriculturists an interesting discourse on the planting and care of the rubber tree and explained how the sap or latex, from which rubber is made, is produced in the tree.

VOTE RETURNS COMPLETED

Final Ballots From Several Scattered Communities Show Only Change Recorded at Burbank

Final returns in Monday's election were received in Los Angeles yesterday from several scattered communities. But one change in the final returns over incomplete results issued Monday night was noted. This was at Burbank, where early reports indicated the water and fire bond issues had been defeated.

Yesterday, however, a legal opinion changed the result, and backers of the two propositions were conceded victory after having given up hope. The complete returns on the enlarged water system was 1217 for, and 412 against. For increased fire protection 1184 for, and 439 against. As the total vote cast was 1940, the count for each proposition shows a two-thirds majority demanded by law.

Other Burbank returns showed the following had been chosen as a charter commission of fifteen freeholders: W. A. Blanchard, A. C. Fillbach, J. D. Radcliff, C. A. Thompson, L. F. Collins, O. Leuser, J. H. Barnum, A. Sence, W. E. Lawrence, E. L. White, J. E. Luttge, R. G. Ludlow, R. Campbell, G. R. Pendell and L. M. Rothenberg.

WHITTIER ELECTION QUIET

Whittier's biennial municipal election was comparatively quiet. Three trustees and a city clerk were elected. They were: Paul Gilmore, incumbent, re-elected city clerk, and the following elected trustees: A. N. Chamness and E. C. Stewart, four-year term, and W. D. Stockdale, two-year term. J. H. Linkletter and W. D. Cooper were the holdovers.

KERN COUNTY

Returns from throughout the county indicate but little change from the old regimes in Tehachapi, Delano, Maricopa and McKittrick. The old administration in Taft, however, was wiped out by an overwhelming vote. C. A. Williams, Lester Graff and W. B. Finley were elected. David J. Gribben and A. M. Kidd, incumbents, were defeated by more than 300 votes each, and R. E. Wing trailed with a total of 321 votes. A referendum vote for a city managership form of government for Taft was crushed by a vote of 364 for and 731 against.

SIGNAL HILL

Incumbents were returned to office by an overwhelming vote at Signal Hill. The successful candidates were: Trustees W. E. Hinshaw, Vernon Vore, William Shephard, Howard P. Mitchell and J. A. Edmundson; City Clerk George H. Cooper and City Treasurer Mrs. Anna L. Goodyear. Shepard received the highest number of votes and the only proposition on the ballot, a proposition to pay Trustees $10 per meeting with a monthly limit of $20 each, was carried.

UPLAND

The election at Upland was exceedingly quiet. Mayor A. H. Johnson, L. E. Moser and C. K. Francisco, incumbents, being returned to places on the City Council. Johnson received 223 votes, Moser 236, and Francisco, 195. A fourth candidate, Henry H. Blohm, former postmaster, received 143 votes.

ONTARIO

In one of the most warmly contested municipal elections held at Ontario, Arthur H. Dillen, attorney, and Dr. Calvert L. Emmons, city health officer, were elected to the City Council to fill vacancies caused by expiration of the terms of Mayor Willard D. Hall and Councilman Isaac Jones. They won from a field of four candidates.

Body of Apparent Suicide Found in Deserted Region

The lifeless body of Thomas C. Morris, 43 years of age, who disappeared from his home at 859 North Gower street last Thursday, was discovered yesterday in an abandoned wagon on a vacant lot near 2215 East Ninth street. Morris apparently had committed suicide by slashing his wrists and arms with a safety razor blade. In a pocket of his coat Detective Lieutenants Stevens and McDuff found the following cryptic note:

"God have mercy on Jack Lloyd."

BETTER GO 'ROUND

POOR EXCUSE
We wouldn't so often hear the excuse, "Accidents will happen," if we never said it without adding: "But they must be paid for."

JAILBIRD AUTHORS
Jailbirds really ought to be restrained from writing books or newspaper articles. With so many people ready to do almost anything to break into literature there's no telling what may happen.

NO BLEACHED BLONDE
Touching some offers that have been made to her by some of the promoters on this side of the pond Suzanne Lenglen scornfully says that the Americans will never make a Red Grange out of her. Perhaps Suzanne means that she does not intend to henna her hair.

WOMEN AND YEARS
According to figures of the London health department of 382 deaths of persons over 90 years of age 278 were women. Of these 182 were unmarried and twelve had passed the century mark. Single women make the best risks for the life-insurance companies, at any rate in London.

REGULAR HABITS
An Ohio woman has four sons who have the same birthday anniversary—although they are just two years apart. This mother is a wonder at standardizing the American family. A lady who can synchronize the household anniversaries to this extent should get a medal from Secretary Hoover.

UP IN THE WORLD
The telephone company has a new building in San Francisco which rises to the magnificent height of 485 feet and carries thirty full stories. The Bay City does not propose to have its flights impaired by any earthquake imaginings. Proponents of a towered City Hall in Los Angeles will here find some new matter on which to hang their arguments.

FOOD ECONOMY
Hash made from cottonseed "meat" is the latest. It is said to taste just as if it had real meat in it and is heralded as a new aid to those who wish to reduce the cost of living. By regularly using such substitute foods a thrifty family may save almost enough in a few years to pay for the operations and substitute-stomachs which then will be necessary.

SILENCE IS GOLDEN
Congress is considered to be a great group of gossips and orators, but the talking is done by a very small percentage of the total membership. Some of them speak only on their hobbies and some are never heard. Congressman Blanton has the reputation of talking more and saying less than any man in the House. Some efficient members have never peeped.

PREACHERS' SONS
Being the son of a preacher doesn't impair the prospect of a lad gaining fame in other lines. Cecil Rhodes and E. H. Harriman were the sons of clergymen. So were Presidents Cleveland, Arthur and Wilson. Among writers and poets Emerson, Addison, Coleridge and Tennyson were from ministerial stock. Preachers' sons often run wild, but they average very well.

NO AUTOS WANTED
Princeton University doesn't want its student body running on wheels. Parents are requested to call back their motor cars and let the boy travel on his own power. It is found that a flock of students running around in high-powered cars do not build up the morale of the university. The pupil who drives hither and yon in his own auto may not only be neglecting his own studies, but impairing the efficiency of others. Also such ownership creates jealousies that are likely to damage the college spirit.

DANCE MADNESS
There must be millions in the dance. About four-fifths of the vaudeville acts appear to be dancing numbers or at least have a bit of hoof-shaking in them. The contests in the movie theaters furnish a lot of youngsters with an opportunity to get into the money. One youth of 19, who left school because of his hopping engagements, is said to have made over $2200 in a few months. He jumped from one theater to another in a taxi and managed to garner most of the first prizes. There are girls who are also cleaning up $100 or more a week without having a regular job. They are being bidden into many private residences to do their stuff and being well paid for it in the bargain. The dance madness seems to have lodged in all classes of society.

BURBANK, A CREATOR
Luther Burbank will be remembered as a modern miracle man. His genius may be called truly creative, for he created forms of life that never before existed on this earth. Not fantastic floral forms, calculated to demonstrate a theory, but practical species of plants that are now working hard for mankind, such as Quality Wheat and Burbank Potato. One of his nearest approaches to the miraculous was the ten-year-old walnut tree into which he put 100 years of growth. How did he do it? "I did not do it by waiting for the tree to happen," he explained at the time, "nor did I do it by planting a great number of seedlings and waiting to see if one of them would not grow into a miracle tree. What I did was to cross a California walnut with an English walnut. The California walnut tree is fitted to extract the maximum of moisture from the depths of the ground. The English walnut is equipped to get water near the surface. By crossing the two types I combined the best qualities of the two."

Herein he makes plain the method he used with such startling success: crossing and selection. He selected two types of trees, each of which lacked something the other had, and blended them into a new type possessing the best qualities of both. The way he crossed the two types is well understood. He simply placed the pollen from one upon the ovules of the other. Then something akin to a creative explosion occurred and a great variety of seedlings resulted. Some very tall, some very short. "Some grew more than six feet the first year and some less than an inch. By breeding from those that grew most rapidly in three generations I had the tree, now ten years old, that is nearly three feet through at the ground and more than sixty feet tall." These are his own words.

He created new types by bringing old types together. But between the old types there had to be an affinity. Had one been a banana tree, crossing would have been impossible. Fundamentally different kinds of plants and animals cannot be crossed. On the other hand, the explosions that create new species do not occur when both parent plants belong to the same variety. Differences as well as similarities must be present.

Not only did he carefully select the types to be crossed, but he also selected from the seedlings only those that revealed the desired excellence. "I have often produced 1,000,000 types," he said, "to find one or two that were superlatively good." Then he repeatedly crossed the good with the good in order to "fix" the new character. Otherwise, any new excellence is liable to fade away in the second generation. But once it becomes fixed it stays, and thereafter the new type breeds true.

Burbank's method differed from nature's only in one respect: he had always a definite aim in view, whereas nature works blindly. The wind that scatters pollen does not care where the pollen falls. It crosses plants promiscuously, without striving to build up special characteristics. It is neither good nor bad, neither trying to help nor to hurt anything. It is unconcerned. If we had depended upon nature we should never have had our farms, orchards and gardens. "In human breeding, as in plant breeding, there is no substitute for intelligent selection and crossing," he declared. "Inferior human beings cannot, of course, be treated as if they were inferior plants and destroyed. But if what we call civilization is to endure, some way must be found to produce more of the fit and fewer of the unfit. Otherwise we shall be overwhelmed. We shall sink from the weight of our own insufficiencies."

Burbank believed in the religion of nature. He believed that plants are our distant relatives. "Whoever believes there is a great gulf between plant life and human life is wrong. I have seen a water plant that is half plant and half animal. I hated to cut into it, because, when I did so, it seemed to have vitals."

He believed plants can feel. "It is quite probable that a wave of pain goes through a forest when a fire sweeps through it. I know plants have minds. The plant mind is subconscious, but it is there. What is mind, anyway? Is it not the ability to respond to environment? Plants can do that, though they cannot reason. Some plants can do more. There are plants that will permit only a certain type of insect to take away their pollen. The hop vine, because of something in its subconscious mind, will wind around a pole only in one direction. You may reverse it as much as you please and it will go right back to its old path." He believed the expansion and contraction of certain cells in trees are equivalent to heart-beats. Fourteen times a minute the cells are said to contract and expand, pumping sap from the roots to the topmost twigs, just as human hearts pump blood. He believed that the protoplasm in plants and the protoplasm in animals is the same living substance—the only known substance that lives and dies. He believed plants have learned how to do some things which no Nobel prize winner understands—manufacturing sugar and starch, for example. A plant takes ingredients found in the soil, raises them in sap up to little factories in the green leaves and there mixes them with sunshine and turns out sugar and starch—the basic foods for the whole animal kingdom.

"PADLOCKS AND ROCK PILES"
A "Facing the Facts" conference of the wets was recently held in Washington. Almost simultaneously Congressman John W. Summers delivered a speech in the House of Representatives on "Padlocks and Rock Piles." The one is a good antidote for the other.

"We slipped up on the blind side of nobody" is one of the terse statements of Mr. Summers. For seventy-five years the propaganda has been put on. It was not put on in a corner. It was put on in the schools.

Nor were all the boys who went abroad to the war wets. The surgeons weeded out most of the wets.

No other amendment was so long before the country. No other proposed amendment was tried out in so many towns and counties and even States before hand. No other amendment was sponsored by so many citizens. No other amendment was so overwhelmingly approved by Congress and State legislatures.

"One hundred and seventy-seven thousand licensed saloons have disappeared." Two billion dollars that once went over the bars now feed hungry mouths. The government has gone out of legalized debauchery.

"Twelve hundred breweries no longer brew 100 gallons of beer annually for every male adult in the United States." "Five hundred distilleries no longer produce ten gallons" of spirits for every man in the country.

"The health of the people in the United States was in all probability better in 1924 than ever before," says the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

"The alcoholic death rate in the United States has been reduced from 5800 per 100,000 annually to 2000 for every 100,000," continues Mr. Summers.

The cradle and not the coffin is now holding our attention. American standards of living are at least 19 per cent higher than when prohibition first arrived, says Secretary Hoover.

Boys and girls in England throng dance clubs at all hours of the night with flasks upon their hips just as the wets say American youths are doing. Evidently prohibition is not the cause of the jazz age.

Secretary Mellon was asked by Mr. Britt whether prohibition is responsible for the prevailing disregard of law. He replied, "I think not. I believe it to be due in part to the general let-down and disorganization following the war."

It is the maxim of Amos Cummings that if a dog bites a man it is not news; but if a man bites a dog it is the liveliest news. That law-breaking is so widely published now shows that it is news, and, therefore, the unusual.

Only about 1 per cent of the people in the country is criminal. That so many prohibition officers become law-breakers is a commentary upon the selection of them. A wet makes a poor prohibition officer.

The nationally known business man, Richard H. Scott, tells us, "Prohibition is business." The better the observance of prohibition the better business we have. "The balance sheet is never fanatical."

America adopted prohibition at the psychological time. It saved her from a panic after the war. Her credit is good. She is liquidating her war debt. She is the richest country in the world. And yet the wets forecasted financial ruin. Prohibition was the stabilizing force, says Mr. Scott.

Labor is getting more kick out of the auto than out of the beer mug. Men do not need the flowing bowl to drown their sorrows. The largest sorrow factories have shut down.

While that conference in Washington was "facing the facts" Congressman Summers has furnished some other facts to face! He recommends padlocks and rock piles for law-breakers, high and low.

SELF-STARTERS
"Nobody showed Marshall Field how to do business. Nobody was responsible for the fame that came to Frances E. Willard or Sarah Bernhardt except themselves. Nobody cranked up Charles Schwab or Lloyd George. They had self-starters," says an exchange.

Most folks have gasoline enough—what they want is a start. They moon over their fate and wait for something to turn up. But about the only way to turn anything up is to put a self-starter on them and away they go with a whir and a snort.

Likely ditch-digging always will be a chronic job for the plodder. Yet a restless soul did grow tired of even that and invented a machine.

The highway is snaked by trailers without any power in themselves. They never seem to aspire to the divine fire in their own hearts.

However, self-starters will put them out of commission in the end. If a man intend to stay in business in this age he must be able to jump up with a rush of his own initiative. Success offers few handicaps.

It may be tragedy for the trailer, but a car without a starter is so much junk cluttering up the big road. The man who is off with a bang brings home the bacon.

John Jacob Astor had nobody twisting at his vitals to get him to go—he went himself. Most people have enough trouble getting their own cars started to bother about yours.

Nobody showed John D. Rockefeller how to start Standard Oil. Up to that time there were no standards in oil. He started them himself.

Nobody cranked up Henry Ford. He was the first—the original. The roadside is jammed with people parked for somebody to come along and crank them up. However the number of benevolent souls going about bothering over others is limited.

Your troubles may have self-starters on them; but you have to crank success along.

RUSSIAN LITERATURE
Of the last 1500 books published in Russia more than 1000 were works translated from other languages—largely from American writers. There is no copyright or royalty and the Russian publishers can do better by stealing the brains of other lands than by rewarding their own writers. It costs less than $100 to translate an ordinary volume and after that the only expense is in the printing and binding. Of course, the books are made to fit their national madness, but there are a great many works in the sciences and industries that need no change and are useful to their own workers and thinkers.

THE GENTLEMAN FROM BRAZIL
By James J. Montague.

We cannot recall—just at present—his name,
We only are sure that he dwells
In the country which owes a great deal of its fame
To the fact that its fruit grows in shells.
But we're bound to admit that the fellow has nerve
And his name will go down through the years,
While the writers of history pause to observe

When half of the statesmen of half of the world
Watched the wheels turn, well oiled and serene,
This person walked up and disdainfully hurled
His implement in the machine.
In spite of their protests, in spite of their pleas
And of all the importance of them,
He tossed in his wrench with a workmanlike ease
And the cogs ceased revolving— pro tem.

Not for us to descant of the rights or the wrongs
Or the pros and the cons of the case;
Discussion of national ethics belongs
In a totally different place.
The League may be good, or the League may be bad—
It may be a whizz or a bust—
We only contend that this personage had
A most unaccountable crust.

One man and alone—an obscure man at that—
In the mist of the wise and the great
Unheard, in his dim little corner he sat
Till the momentous minute of fate.
Then he rose with his wrench, as we've mentioned before,
Unafraid, unperturbed, unconcerned,
Did the cute little trick they had sent him there for,
And the League, for the time, stood adjourned!

BURBANK AS I KNEW HIM

BY BAILEY MILLARD

Knowing Luther Burbank as well as I did and having had a relationship with him of friend, editor and, in a certain sense, pupil and disciple, his death is a grievous personal loss to me. In our walks and talks in garden, field, office and home; in all our changes of thought and in correspondence, he was ever a revelation to me, as he has been to many others. Few men have had more friends than he and none was more deserving of true friendship and good will.

Burbank's love of nature was deep, but it was no deeper than his love of man. He was the soul of good-fellowship, hospitality and tolerance. Rarely did I hear him speak a word of censure to or of anybody. Whenever he did one might rest assured that the person under criticism fully merited his disparagement.

To watch him work among his plants, trees or flowers while conducting one of his many experiments in pollenization or hybridization was like having a front seat in the temple of nature and getting a close view of her as under a lifted veil.

Burbank pulled himself up from the depths of poverty and youthful toil for others to a high and independent place among our natural scientists—some say to the highest. He told me that when he was a young man, in order to save money and to be near growing plants, he slept in a nursery. In this way he was able to study early and late the development of plant life to good advantage. He loved to watch every phase of the evolution of vegetation and to assist in that evolution, to the end that it might serve the needs of mankind. In this way the efforts of his loving work during a period of fifty years ennobled not only the plebeian potato, but also the patrician races of fruit and flower.

Hale, alert and incredibly industrious, this small, spare man was capable of exertion that would have wearied one of much greater physique. I have seen him swing an eighty-pound bag of seed from his granary floor to his shoulder in recent years, in fact, after he had reached 70. Unremitting toil was a pleasure to him, because he was always visioning its perfect fruition. Disappointment in a cherished experiment meant little to him. It was simply a point of departure from which he could essay another branch of evolution.

One day we were discussing what some naturalists have called the perversity of plant life in its evolutionary stages.

"Yes," he said quite seriously, "it seems like perversity sometimes when you note the strange results of some experiment in hybridization, but, as a matter of fact, nature never lies. I have been assured by plant breeders that they had caught her lying. But I always have told them they were mistaken—that, while some of her manifestations were baffling to us, it was best to accept her conclusions and act accordingly. The eugenists should have found that out long ago, but they haven't done so."

He was not much enamored of the idea of heredity. Sometimes he scoffed at it.

"Certain characteristics, traits and habits may be handed down in families," he said, "but as to the transmission of disease, for example, about all we know is that one inherits a tendency and, generally speaking, not the disease itself."

He had small respect for the Mendelian theory, so sacred to the eugenist. Mendel found that the second generation of tall and dwarf hybrid pease will be composed of three tall plants, or dominants, to each dwarf or recessive, and that in subsequent generations the dwarfs always breed true, as do one out of every three talls. One would have thought that Burbank might have learned something from Mendel, whose theory is so generally accepted; but when I asked the plant wizard what benefits he had derived from Mendelism his amazing reply was. "None whatever. Galton and other eugenists think a lot of it, but there is little of value to the naturalist in all this eugenic talk. Eugenics is far from being an exact science. What it chiefly lacks to make it so is proof. I have an idea that a very close study of it will drive a man insane."

He was driving his car along a Sonoma road while he talked, and I was sitting by his side.

"A disciple of Mendel," he said, "would take that stake fence there and try to show you how animal and plant life might be reproduced in some such regular order as a man would rebuild that fence. But by close observation you might find from two to a million manifestations of dissimilarity of characteristics. No; you can't make cut-and-dried rules for nature."

In a small way this illustrates the towering genius of the man. Mendel's achievement, or that of any other celebrated biologist in his line, when compared with that of Luther Burbank, is like an ant heap to an Alp.

Burbank loved children. To hear him talk to a group of them was a good lesson in child culture. Love was always his text. He used to tell them that they should love everybody and everything—people, trees, flowers, grass, hills, mountains and all that the great unseen Power had created. He was religious in the sense that Emerson and all other great nature-lovers were and are religious, but he could not accept the ecclesiastical idea of creation.

He told me that he himself was a faith healer. He said that he had touched the shoulder of a man who told him he had to give up woodsawing because of a weak heart.

"I touched him," he said, "and he picked up his saw and sawed the rest of the day and for long after that, showing no more heart symptoms. I have healed people of rheumatism and other diseases in the same way. But please don't publish anything about that until after I am gone." He must have told other writers the same story, but perhaps forgot to give them the injunction he gave me. At any rate, it came out in print a few months ago, whether authorized or unauthorized. When I

"Nobody," was his quiet reply—"that is, no particular person. The government will preserve and reproduce all my plants. As for my unfinished experiments, the government hardly could be expected to carry them on as I have been doing, for, with all its work in that line at its many experimental stations, it never has originated a single plant."

LETTERS TO The Times

Clover Field

SANTA MONICA, April 13.—[To the Editor of The Times:] It was with regret, mingled with surprise, that I read in The Times real estate section a partisan and antagonistic account of the proposed bond issue for the purchase of Clover Field, Santa Monica, in order to afford a local plane manufacturing company the use of a flying field adjacent to their proposed new factory.

The surprise was occasioned by the fact that a Los Angeles paper should recommend the assumption of nearly $1,000,000 indebtedness for this purpose (including the development of a golf links on the side.) It would seem that Los Angeles, bearing in mind the possible future annexation of Santa Monica, would not recommend a needed indebtedness for a flying field when already ample facilities exist at Griffith Park, while on the other hand Los Angeles would be most favorably interested in the further protection and development of the free beach of Santa Monica. Above all, it appears as if Los Angeles should be vitally concerned in protecting Santa Monica from a transformation in its character as a beautiful, high-class residential suburb to that of a factory and industrial center. Los Angeles surely has room at her east side for all the factories that may come this way. But the business men will need many more fine homes at Santa Monica if it remains unspoiled.

AN OLD READER OF THE TIMES.

Wages and Taxes

SAWTELLE, April 5.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In the increase asked by the police, firemen and other city employes, I am a property holder and find that all my taxes, water rates, power rates and other overhead have been increased in the past two years, but rents have been raised to 35 per cent. The wages of employees in some of the city have department-stores, building and manufacturing firms have been from 25 to 30 per cent. If the city is going to pay out any more money in wages, instead of increasing present salaries and wages, do not take the money and put more help, thus giving employment to a greater number of people.

Several years ago, when times hit a certain section, one of the railroads put it up to the employees whether to lay off a part ly number of men and only have a few employed at full time or keep a greater number on short working hours. The men voted to keep as many men employed as they could at shorter hours.

The firemen and police, as well as other folks in Los Angeles are working under better working conditions, no snow, frosts, etc., to contend with and living costs better than other cities of the same size, so, under all circumstances, we should all agree to get less wages and keep a greater number of folks employed here. This is not writing in the claim of the demands of the employees as much as it is written in a spirit of fairness to the taxpayers and citizens of Los Angeles.

Los Felix

LOS ANGELES, April 8.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Recently a resident in the Los Felix district asked me the meaning of the Spanish name.

I am a native of this State, understand some Spanish and have Spanish acquaintances who tell me that the name as it now stands is an incorrect construction. "Felix" is the singular form of the word "happiness." The word in the plural masculine is "felices," the "the." "El Felix" would be correct if the word "happiness" remains singular.

It is probably a phrase not used but even then I don't understand the construction. Others who may have been the name of a ranch. Will some one help me out through your very helpful columns?

AN OLD-TIMER.

[According to City Clerk Dimmings, the "Los" which precedes is the result of common usage and is incorrect. The district was named from the northwest corner of the Pueblo Grant, along the line including the Silver Lake reservoir Park, Hollywood Hills region, in an irregular shape. It was known as Felis Rancho and the name of the Felis family. It was also used in the early days as the name of "The Felis Rancho," but in recent stances the region is known as Felis on the maps, as the United States patents, confirming Spanish grants, use that spelling.]

KHJ HAS BIRTHDAY PARTY

BY PAUL SHEEDY

Proof of the sincere affection that the Southwest bears for KHJ as one of its greatest institutions of good will was never better exemplified than last night when the tower studio of The Times celebrated its fourth anniversary in the world of broadcast. From all points within the range of the station poured congratulations, felicitating Uncle John and the host of studio attaches and artists on the completion of another year of work in culture and education.

The big visitors' gallery and the studio quarters were jammed with the constantly changing throng of guests and friends. From the beginning of the children's hour until the celebration was ended at midnight, the microphone sent out a continuous flow of greetings, instrumental and vocal compositions to Radioland, where an audience of thousands was joining in the festivities.

James W. Foley, beloved poet of Pasadena, who was one of the outstanding figures when KHJ first went on the air four years ago with its original small broadcasting outfit, was again present in the studio last night, appearing before the microphone.

Different departments of The Times also extended their good wishes to the patrons of the air. Paul Lowry, the sporting editor, and Burton Smith, State editor, spoke briefly when they made their nightly radio visits. Later, Myra Nye of the society department; Jack Taylor of The Times Resort and Information Bureau, and others appeared.

Amid the festivities an unusually warm welcome was extended to the widely known Columbian trio, who are the Hernandez brothers, just arrived after a five-months' absence in San Francisco, where they were a sensational success. They gave a group of their splendid musical numbers on their unique instruments.

So large was the number of participating artists that two assistants were kept busy filling the impromptu programs for Uncle John's announcements. Starting after the news and sport items at 8 p.m., there was never a minute that some singer or player or group of players wasn't broadcasting.

Uncle John and "Eek" Barnes both gave their personal greetings to KHJ patrons during the evening. During the program special messengers brought in a big birthday cake, decorated with KHJ symbols and bearing four candles, sent by the "Fairy Godmother" of the studio, who wrote a poem especially for the occasion.

The children's hour earlier in the evening was filled with the same festive spirit when little Charles Leslie Hill, the "Honey Boy;" Henrietta Poland, the "Little Forget-Me-Not;" Lenore Killian, the "Lullaby Lady;" Louis F. Klein, the "Court Musician," made their bows prior to the weekly appearance of Queen Titania and her Sandman, which was followed by the weekly talk on dogs by H. M. Robertson, and then the nightly Scripture lesson given by Rev. A. J. Roelter, district superintendent of the Evangelical church.

At dusk, while the court musician was playing his "Queen Titania March," Uncle John began to feel drowsy, and as the last notes sounded his head sank to the microphone table and he was asleep! Softly then came the sound of the Sandman's whistle as he and the Fairy Queen appeared in the studio.

Cautioning her Sandman not to awaken Uncle John, Queen Titania called her thought fairies to her and, through their power, the three friends were quickly transported to the deck of the wishing ship, which was sailing on Slumber Sea. Here Uncle John was awakened and in a few moments they reached Dreamland's shore. Disembarking from the ship they crossed the snow-white sands and entered a marvelous grotto in the rocks. Inside here it was found that a long table had been set, upon one end of which was placed a large cake with four tapers on it, burning. This, said the Fairy Queen, was in preparation for Fairyland's KHJ birthday party, which would be attended by artists who had broadcast from the tower studio during the past four years.

Uncle John was greatly interested as Queen Titania pointed out the places set for these different artists. This finished, the Fairy Queen led the way through an archway into the studio, where good nights were said.

Yesterday's noon program was given by remote control from the Biltmore after the news items, being featured by the address before the Advertising Club of Edward Dale, vice-president of Safeway Stores, on "Sales, the Life Blood of Business." A. I. Stewart spoke on "Business Building in Southern California." Vocal numbers were given by the talented Optimist Male Quartet.

KHJ'S only midafternoon broadcast under the new weekly schedule is today's regular talk on gardening by Fred C. McNabb, recognized authority. From 2:30 until 3:30 p.m. he will discuss many of the seasonal problems and answer the flood of special queries addressed to him.

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Woodhead of 1972 North Edgemont street, Hollywood, have been enjoying renewing old traveling friendship with the Hon. Sir Francis Bell of Wellington, N. Z., who is touring the United States accompanied by Bernard Ferguson, son of the late Premier of New Zealand, and Mr. Hunter, also of New Zealand. Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Woodhead and Miss Woodhead motored their guests to a number of the studios, and then on to the beach cities stopping at the Edgewater Beach Club in Santa Monica for luncheon.

The afternoon was full of sight seeing through the foothills and about Pasadena and its environs, and they returned to the Woodhead home for a 7 o'clock dinner to which they had invited a coterie of intimate friends.

Sir Francis Bell is en route to Geneva to represent New Zealand at the League of Nations, and with his party left Sunday morning on the Sunset Limited by way of New Orleans planning to visit many cities on their way to New York as well as Europe and will reach Geneva in the early fall for the world's conference.

The Woodheads traveled with Sir Francis on their trip to the South Seas in 1922, and were entertained by him in Wellington and it was a great pleasure to all concerned to meet again.

Delightful Affair.

One of the most charmingly appointed affairs of the week was the bridge tea with which Mrs. Albert Sidney Johnson and Mrs. Hughes Garr of Eagle Rock entertained yesterday afternoon at the home of the former in Chickasaw avenue, forty guests being bidden.

Great baskets filled with spring flowers in a riot of color, combined with ferns and tulle, adorned the living rooms while in the dining-room and tea table the same fragrant blossoms were also used, candles in silver and crystal holders lighting the tea table. The hostesses were assisted by Mrs. Mary Marshall Wiley, Mrs. Godfrey Edwards, Mrs. Clyde Hilliard, Mrs. Mary Hixon and Miss Frances B. Roberts.

At Country Club

One of the lovely affairs of last week was the bridge luncheon with which Mrs. Albert J. Sherer of Arapahoe street, entertained at the Sunset Canyon Country Club honoring Mrs. Jennie Hamburger Marx, who has been enjoying a delightful visit with her daughter, Mrs. Irving H. DRIVE FOR PHONE RATE FUND BEGUN

Business Men Asked for $25,000 to Renew Fight Before State Board

A campaign to raise $25,000 among Los Angeles business men and subscribers to complete the $75,000 budget to carry on the fight against the rates charged by the Southern California Telephone Company was launched yesterday by the Mayor's Telephone Committee. The drive for funds was announced at a luncheon at the Alexandria called by Louis B. Mayer, chairman of the committee, which was attended by more than fifty representative business men of the city.

As soon as $25,000 is raised, plans for a renewal of the rate fight before the State Railroad Commission will be started and it was predicted by John R. Richards, chairman of the executive committee, who made a preliminary survey, a complaint prepared by the committee will be filed within three or four months. This amount must be raised among business men and subscribers before $25,000 each from the city and county governments is available.

It is hoped by the committee, Richards stated, to obtain the services of Charles K. Robinson of Pittsburgh, who has had seventeen years' experience in telephone rate fights, as legal director.

Talks were made at the luncheon by Mr. Mayer and Mr. Richards, Mayor Cryer and by Kemper Campbell, attorney. Mr. Mayer outlined the situation to the business men and his connection with the committee, while Mr. Richards told the result of a survey he made and stressed the fact "subscribers have a case," and that evidence will be presented when the time comes, to determine the three fundamental principals in rate fixing, investment, operation and maintenance costs and depreciation.

STANDARDS IN BUSINESS PROFFERED

Advertising Club Speaker Says Benefit to Community Should be Chief Aim

"A business should be judged by no other standard than the degree of its benefit to the community in which it operates and to humanity at large," A. I. Stewart, superintendent of the Safeway Stores, said yesterday in an address before the Advertising Club at the Biltmore.

"Success is generally easy of accomplishment when the members of a business firm adhere to sound business principles which include honesty, loyalty, courtesy and cooperation," said Mr. Stewart. "It is as natural for a customer to continue his patronage of an establishment that has given him honest, courteous service or merchandise as it is for water to run down hill."

Stressing the value of loyalty, the speaker declared that no factor of business, not even capital, management or system, is so important an asset as the fealty of employees.

The meeting was presided over by Irving Smith, president of the Advertising Club, with L. S. Hollensbe as chairman. A musical program was provided by the Optimists' quartet. Don Thomas, secretary of the club, announced that the speaker next Tuesday at noon will be James H. Collins, writer. The round table of the club will meet at the Alexandria at noon Friday.

DRIVE PLANS FOR MISSION PERFECTED

Doheny and Aides Discuss Campaign as Prelude to Conference Tonight

In preparation for a dinner conference this evening at the Alexandria in behalf of the permanent restoration of Santa Barbara Mission, twelve committee captains were guests of E. L. Doheny at lunch yesterday noon. Reports were made of a brief survey that has evidenced enthusiasm for the restoration movement, and ideas were formulated for discussion at the evening dinner, at which Mr. Doheny will be host to a large number of leading men from Los Angeles, Pasadena, Hollywood and Long Beach.

Present at the luncheon were Bernal Dyas, Patrick H. O'Neil, D. F. McGarry, J. C. Haggerty, L. J. Christopher, Alphonso E. Bell, George I. Cochran, Frank P. Flint, C. C. Ganahl, John G. Mott, Joseph Scott and Henry W. Keilar.

The needs of the mission total less than $400,000 and it is expected to raise this sum in one day. Los Angeles and adjacent cities are expected to contribute $150,000; San Francisco, $100,000, and Santa Barbara has pledged $98,500.

SPECIAL TRAIN BRINGS THEATER OWNERS HERE

A special train has been chartered by the Illinois Associated Theater Owners over the Chicago and Northwestern Railway to bring them to Los Angeles for the national convention of theater owners from June 1 to 5, according to announcement by railroad officials yesterday.

Methods Veiling Placing of City Insurance Aired

A corner of the veil which conceals the operations of the administration was lifted in the Council yesterday by Councilman Allan when the Council was discussing a request by City Clerk Domingues for the files of all insurance on municipally owned buildings, to be given the Board of Public Works.

"That insurance is placed by the City Purchasing Agent," said President Workman.

"Guernsey Frazer," replied Mr. Allan.

PATROLMAN HONORED

Veteran Officer Made Council's Sergeant-at-Arms

Patrolman George Daniels, who maintains the peace and dignity of the Council chamber, is now sergeant-at-arms, both by common usage and by act of the City Council. Councilman Ash yesterday introduced a resolution declaring that Daniels should receive this honor because of his twenty-four years' service for the city and his sixteen years of duty in the Council chamber. Councilman Criswell pointed out that, according to the rules of the Council, Daniels already was sergeant-at-arms.

Diet and Health

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

SIMPLE GOITER

K.—A goiter is an enlargement of the thyroid gland—that gland in the neck which has a great deal to do with both mental and physical development. It has been thoroughly proved that when there is a simple goiter enlargement of the thyroid—or what we know as simple goiter—there has been a long deficiency of the normal amount of iodin taken in the foods and water; or an unbalanced diet, especially one containing too much fat, which apparently can upset the iodin absorption.

The thyroid gland acts as a storehouse for the iodin of the system. When enough is not supplied, the gland apparently tries to make up for the deficiency by doing more work, and in this way it gradually enlarges. This enlargement is most likely to occur when there is an unusual strain placed upon the system, as happens during adolescence and pregnancy.

In localities known as goiter regions, here in the United States (especially Michigan and other States in the Great Lakes region,) apparently the iodin supply has been washed out of the earth, so that the vegetables and water do not contain it.

Crude salt has a small percentage of iodin in it, but when it is purified the iodin is removed. In Michigan and some other States now this tiny amount of iodin is put back into the purified salt. It is only 1-200ths of 1 per cent. This does not affect the taste, nor does it change its appearance, but small as it is, it is apparently effective in preventing simple goiter in Michigan, according to the report of Dr. R. M. Olin, commissioner of health there.

There is no law in Michigan that requires that all salt contain this iodin but the grocers are now carrying it and apparently it is in pretty general use. The price is not much higher than that of ordinary salt.

A simple goiter has no symptoms other than enlargement. A goiter that does have symptoms of disease is another thing, although there is some indication that this type, too, is due to some trouble with the iodin absorption. Naturally, if you have a goiter, you should see your physician.

(We have an article on the subject, which can be obtained by the request accompanied by a self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

GUM BOILS

R.—Gum boils are abscesses on the gums from decayed teeth. The treatment is to have the teeth attended to; otherwise the boils will continue to form.

Sometimes infections at the roots of the teeth will not form pus, but will settle down to chronic inflammations. As a rule these cause no pain and the person is aware of them only when they are discovered by X-ray. However, such chronic inflammations at the roots of the teeth contain disease production organisms which may settle in the heart and other organs and cause trouble there.

These root end infections do not occur in teeth having live and healthy pulps, so if we wish to save ourselves from gum boils and chronic infections at the roots, tooth decay must be prevented. This can be done by keeping the teeth very clean so that the food does not form acids, and by a diet that furnishes the mineral salts which the teeth need even in adulthood. Milk and milk dishes are the foods which will safeguard.

BESEECHES ALUMNI TO AID HARVARD

J. R. Hamlen Tells Local Graduates of Need for Unrestricted Funds

Harvard alumni of Southern California were appealed to yesterday by Joseph R. Hamlen of Cambridge, Mass., chairman of the executive committee of the Harvard Fund Council, to support their alma mater with unrestricted funds for the "intellectual upkeep" of the university.

Mr. Hamlen, who has been touring the nation in the interest of the new Harvard fund, spoke at a luncheon meeting of the Harvard Club of Los Angeles at the University Club.

COUNCIL WILL REFUND BUILDING PERMIT FEE

The Council voted yesterday to refund $171 to the Board of Education for a duplicate building permit fee for a school building in Van Nuys, the permit having expired before it was used. Councilman Criswell opposed this action because the policy of the Council, in the case of private individuals, was not to refund the money.

Never Look 40

that's a needless folly

By NORMA TALMADGE

Copyrighted 1926 by P. O. Beauty Features.

This simple rule in skin care has largely made the "middle-aged woman" a tragedy of the past—try it, for one week

KEEPING youth is something more than merely the fervent wish of every woman. It is a duty that she owes herself and others.

Look everywhere today. Note how women are retaining youthful charm through the thirties, into and well beyond the forties.

Don't believe it is due to costly "youth" methods in skin care. Most of the time you'll find it the simple result of natural, common-sense ways in preserving youthful skin texture and suppleness.

The following rule, carefully followed, will do much toward women keeping their priceless youth. It has probably done so far more than any other method known . . . just the softening olive and palm lather of Palmolive, used this way:

THE RULE IN SKIN CARE URGED BY EXPERTS

Wash your face gently with soothing Palmolive Soap, massaging it softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream.

Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening. Use powder and rouge if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away.

Follow these rules day in, day out. Do not use ordinary soaps in the treatment given above. Do not think any green soap, or represented as of palm and olive oils, is the same.

Remember that before Palmolive came, women were told, "use no soap on your faces." Soaps then were judged too harsh. Palmolive is a beauty soap made for one purpose only: to safeguard your complexion. 60 years of soap study stand behind it. Millions of pretty skins prove its effectiveness beyond doubt.

BE SURE YOU GET THE REAL PALMOLIVE

It costs but 10c the cake!—so little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain Palmolive today. Note what one week of its use brings you. The Palmolive Company (Del. Corp.), Chicago, Illinois. 2200

"Too Tired to Move"

HOW often we hear a woman use this expression! She is in a weakened and run-down condition, not fit to do her work. Bravely she struggles on. She becomes nervous and discouraged.

Whether she lives in a luxurious apartment, a cozy bungalow or a crowded city flat, every woman can understand the handicap of poor health. The woman in moderate circumstances suffers more, of course, than her well-to-do friend because she cannot afford to hire help.

Health! That's the answer to so many of our problems. Without health, a woman cannot make her home the happy haven she dreams of.

MRS. GOLDIE SHOUP of May View, Illinois, is one of the many women who have improved their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was in a run down condition which caused her much unhappiness.

MRS. SHOUP says, "I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I think it is the most wonderful medicine I ever tried." She declares that she is now in better health than ever before.

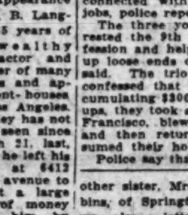
CLEWS SOUGHT TO MISSING MAN

H. B. Langley Disappeared on March 21, Last

Contractor Recently Built Bungalow Courts

On Way to Collect Large Sum When Last Seen

An investigation was launched yesterday by Highland Park police into the mysterious disappearance of H. B. Langley, 55 years of age, wealthy contractor and builder of many homes and apartment houses in Los Angeles. Langley has not been seen since March 21, last, when he left his home at 6413 Elgin avenue to collect a large sum of money owed him by two men in Riverside.



H.B. LANGLEY

The missing contractor only recently completed construction of a series of bungalow courts at the Elgin-avenue address, and was living alone in one while furnishing the others preparatory to renting. Detective Lieutenants Lloyd and Kopytek, assigned to the case when T. D. Keefe, of 1119 Helman avenue, reported Langley missing, went to Langley's court yesterday and found the door ajar and all the contractor's personal effects untouched. Several thousand dollars worth of valuable jewelry as well as clothing and many other articles were in the apartment.

Letters found among Langley's effects show he has a nephew, Stanley Langley, and a married sister living in Taylorville, Ill., and another sister, Mrs. Fannie D. Robbins, of Springfield, Mass. There was also a letter from a woman, apparently a friend of long standing, whose first name is Anna, living at 649 East Sixth street, San Bernardino. Police in the latter city have been asked to check on this address in the hope some light may be thrown on Langley's strange disappearance.

Langley owned many trust deeds and mortgages, according to his friend, Keefe, who told the investigating detectives that the wealthy contractor stated to neighbors on March 21 that he was going to Riverside to collect several thousand dollars with which to settle bills on the new bungalow courts.

BANDITS IDENTIFY VICTIMS

Trio Turns Tables at Police Line-up and Connect Selves With Twenty-five Jobs

Frank Reis, Leslie Jackson and Edward Casey, trio accused of robbery, had a good time while their luck lasted, and apparently they see no reason for being downhearted now. So when fifty hold-up victims went to headquarters yesterday morning to see if they could identify the prisoners the latter reversed the proceedings, according to the police.

Before the robbery victims could pass on them, the three flung out such remarks as "Hey, there's the guy I stuck up at Ninth and Union streets," and did a rushing business in identifying victims, police said. The session ended with them being connected with about twenty-five jobs, police reported.

The three young men were arrested the 9th inst., made a confession and helped police to clean up loose ends of the case, officers said. The trio are said to have confessed that recently, after accumulating $3000 to $4000 in hold-ups, they took a flying trip to San Francisco, blew in all they had, and then returned here and resumed their hold-up activities.

Police say that included in their jobs are the hold-ups of a half-dozen gasoline stations and of Dr. A. A. Gonsales, 845 South Highland avenue, March 18, when jewelry valued at $1000 was taken. The outfit worked in the Wilshire, Hollywood and University districts, it is said.

Police say that in Jackson's room at 125 South Fremont avenue they found a $400 diamond ring taken in the hold-up of H. L. Cox, 955 West Thirty-fifth Place. In the rooms of Reis and Casey at 1122 Georgia street officers reported finding two revolvers and several watches.

Reis is 27 years of age, Jackson 25 years of age, and Casey 28 years of age. The case is being handled by Detective Lieutenants Trosper and Taylor of the Hollywood division.

NAMED AS DELEGATE TO SAN BERNARDINO

Councilman Randall yesterday was appointed as a representative of the Council to a conference called for next Friday at San Bernardino concerning the proposal to establish a State University Farm at Sawtelle. The invitation came from the Riverside Chamber of Commerce which wishes to make sure that the new farm will not jeopardize the farm already established near Riverside.

FLORALPIECE BAN ASKED

A petition for an ordinance to prevent the resale or reuse of funeral pieces was received by the Council yesterday from Walter Armacost and others and referred to the Health Officer and Health and Sanitation Committee.

LEVEE WINS FILM STUDIO PROMOTION

Producer Named Business Manager at First National West Coast Plant

Announcement that M. C. Levee is to be general executive business manager of First National productions on the west coast, effective immediately, was made yesterday by John McCormack, general manager of production. The arrangement with Levee was made by Richard A. Rowland just prior to the latter's departure for New York.

M. C. LEVEE

Levee has been one of First National's producers and will stop his production activity with the release of "Sweet Daddies," which he completed recently. McCormack will continue to have charge of production at the studio and Levee will take over the business end.

"Levee has had an abundance of experience as a studio executive and his achievement in building up the United Studios was something to be proud of," said Rowland. "The sale by Levee of United Studios to Famous Players-Lasky left him open for our offer at a time when the increase of our activities made such an appointment necessary."

McGROARTY TO SPEAK

John Steven McGroarty and Dr. E. P. Ryland will be the speakers at a dinner of the Knife and Fork Club of Wilshire All Souls' Church at 6:30 p.m., on the 21st inst., at Temple Emmanu-El. All members of the church and their friends are invited.

The Japanese officials will participate in the ceremonies attending the start of the Chamber of Commerce trade tour to Japan on Thursday, which will feature the first sailing of a Japanese ship directly from Los Angeles to Japan.

"The Relation of the Supreme Court to the Business Man" will be the topic of an address by Chief Justice Waste of the Supreme Court of California, which will be broadcast over KHJ, The Times, at 1:15 p.m. today.

Willis Booth, past president of the Chamber of Commerce, vice-president of the Guarantee Trust Company of New York City and president of the International Chamber of Commerce, also will be a speaker on the program.

Date Set for Horsewhipping Case Hearing

With the filing of an answer and $25,000 damages brought by Gerard De Merveaux, fencing instructor, against J. Stuart Blackton, film director, the case has been set for trial in Judge Crail's court next January.

In his suit De Merveaux charged Blackton with horsewhipping him and asked $10,000 actual and $15,000 exemplary damages. Blackton has filed an answer and cross-complaint demanding $50,000 damages of De Merveaux, whom Blackton charged with attacking his wife. In reply to the cross-complaint, De Merveaux filed an answer denying Blackton's charges.

WOMEN'S GUILD TO MEET

The first formal luncheon of the Women's Guild of Wilshire All Souls' Church will be given at 1 p.m., today, in the social hall of Temple Emanu-El, according to Mrs. F. W. CITY CENTER COMMITTEE IN SESSION

Five Members Meet Mayor and Supervisor Bean in Vain Attempt to Function

Five of the six members of the Civic Center Committee met yesterday with Mayor Cryer and Supervisor Bean in a vain effort to begin functioning.

The committee met for the purpose, according to John C. Austin, one of Mayor Cryer's appointees on the committee, of receiving instructions from the Mayor and Supervisor Chairman McClellan concerning its duties, select a seventh member, elect a chairman and begin work.

"We did nothing," was the report of the meeting given by several of the committeemen.

Nearly five months ago it was reported that the Mayor then would appoint a committee to select a civic-center plan. Late in February he appointed three members and McClellan appointed three. It was announced that the six would select a seventh and begin to function.

Woman Seeks $100,000 for Death of Son

Declaring her son died as the result of injuries he received in an explosion on a boat in Los Angeles Harbor, Mrs. Marie Domico has filed suit for $100,000 damages against G. W. Sand and the H-10 Water Taxi Company.

The accident was said to have occurred December 8, 1924, when an explosion of gasoline on the boat Le Moyne was declared to have hurled Anthony Keck, the son of the plaintiff, into the water. His body was recovered two days later, according to the complaint.

"TO THE WORSHIPFUL COMPANY OF PLAISTERERS, Greetings: You are hereby granted the right to search, and try and make, and exercise due search as well in, upon, and of all manner of stuff, touching and concerning the art and mystery of pargetters, commonly known as plaisterers; and upon all work and workmen in the art of said mystery."—Charter of Henry VIII, A. D. 1501.

So important was plastering regarded in olden times that when King Henry VIII granted the Worshipful Company of Plasterers its first charter, he authorized the plasterers to appoint regular search days, when every job of plastering that had recently been completed was carefully examined. If poor materials or inferior workmanship were found, the plasterer was heavily fined.

TODAY every day is search day on a good job of plastering. No one is more anxious than your plasterer to give you good work. He wants to turn out a job he can be proud of, and which he can show as an example of how fine plastering can be.

Will you have such a job of plastering on your home? Will you have plastered walls so perfect that ten years from today you can still point to them with pride, as an example of good judgment on your part as well as good craftsmanship on the part of your plasterer?

You can have this kind of work, if you simply set aside from your building budget 10 or 12 per cent for your plastering, and then give a responsible plastering contractor the privilege of doing your work as he knows it should be done.

If, on the other hand, you try to "economize" on your plastering, you'll have evidences of skimping all over your house.

["You Get What You Pay for in Plastering"]

How do you know it is? Have you measured the walls of your new home? Do you know how many yards of plastering you have to do? Do you know how many yards of lath your contractor must buy, and nail on your walls—how many sacks of plaster he must buy—how many yards of sand?

Do you know how many plasterers your contractor will have to use on your work? Do you know how much your contractor pays in order to get good men? Do you know how many hours of skilled labor your job represents?

Do you know all the difficulties that your particular type of architecture represents, from a plastering standpoint?

Unless you can answer "Yes" to all of these questions, you have no right to question even the highest bid offered you by any capable, conscientious plastering contractor.

This is one of a series of advertisements on the importance of Good Plastering, published by The Blue Diamond Company solely in the interests of the building public. The entire story of Plastering—and what materials you should buy or whom you should hire—but "WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT PLASTERING"—has been made into an interesting illustrated booklet which will gladly be sent on request. Address THE BLUE DIAMOND COMPANY, 1610 Alameda Street, Los Angeles.

Will Base Film Production on Life of Sousa

Harry Askin, general manager for Lieut. Commander John Philip Sousa, has arrived here from New York for the purpose of making arrangements for a motion-picture to be based upon the life of the march king.

The picture probably will be entitled "The March King" or possibly "Stars and Stripes Forever" from the greatest of the Sousa compositions. The material largely will be drawn from the Sousa autobiography published as a serial several months ago in the Saturday Evening Post.

Askin said that the theme underlying the picture, aside from an exploitation of the Sousa personality, will be the growth of American music. He was among the first of the American conductor-composers.

As a director of the United States Marine Band, he served under five Presidents, from Hays to Harrison. During the World War, at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station he organized the United States Navy Band Battalion, probably the greatest military musical organization the world has known.

In addition Sousa is one of the few men who ever has enjoyed the distinction of service as an officer in all three branches of the American military forces,—the Army, Navy and Marine Corps. Sousa is now at his home at Port Washington, Long Island, resting from his thirty-fourth annual tour, one of the longest of his entire career, and incidentally, one of the most prosperous.

SEARCH LIBRARIES FOR UNDERSEA LORE

Every library in Southern California is being searched for literature and books describing and picturizing undersea plant and animal life.

Maurice Tourneur and a staff of technical assistants are engaged in this wide campaign for information to be used by the director in filming "The Mysterious Island," screen version of Jules Verne's story. Many sequences of the picture will be filmed on the ocean's bed.

J. G. Williamson, inventor of a new means of underwater photography, will co-operate with Tourneur on these scenes of the picture.

CALIFORNIA SINGER INTRODUCED TO L. A.

Julia Renison Musser, soprano, made her Los Angeles debut Monday night at the new Art Salon of the Birkel Music Company on West Seventh street, singing an interesting program to an appreciative audience.

Mrs. Musser is a Californian. She received her training from Emma Thursby, a musical descendant of Patti, and from Emma Eames. Her operatic coaching was done with Gennaro Curci.

The singer was assisted by Leo Ross, 'cellist, D. Reeves Boyd, flutist and Nola Hamler Hubbell, pianist.

BAGGOT HAS NEW PROBLEM

Building a railroad is one of the problems that will confront King Baggot in the producing of "Lovey Mary," for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer with Bessie Love as the star. The "cabbage patch," in which Alice Hegan Rice, the author, installed Mrs. Wiggs and Lovey Mary, is a squatter settlement near Louisville adjoining the L. and N. Railway tracks. Hence Baggot is faced with the problem of either building a railroad at the studio or building shacks along side of some railroad already built away from the studio.

INSTRUCTOR FOR LOWE

An agreement between the United States Army and the Fox studio has been reached whereby Top Sergeant T. Brady has been granted leave of absence to instruct Edmund Lowe, who has been selected to play Sergeant Quirt in "What Price Glory."

FLYNN'S NEXT IS DIFFERENT

William E. Wing's latest screen effort soon will go into production on the F.B.O. lot with "Lefty" Flynn as the star. It is an adaptation of Arthur Guy Empey's recent novel, "Glenister of the Mounted," in which the noble cop does not "get the man." Instead he gets his woman.

RETURNS FROM LA JOLLA

Alice Calhoun has just returned from La Jolla where she has been resting after her work in "The Hero of the Big Snows," Warner Brothers production in which Rin-Tin-Tin was featured.

CLIVE BROOK VS. VERNE BUCK

"What's in a name?"

Clive Brook says "forty-seven variations."

About two weeks ago, the actor had counted twenty-five different misuses of his name in the twisting and substitution of letters. Since, the count has almost doubled. The latest happened the other day when he ordered some new appliances for his radio. They arrived duly, but addressed to "Verne Buck!"

HATTON GOES TO MOJAVE

Raymond Hatton, dressed as an old sourdough, has joined the wild rush of prospectors to Mojave, but Ray's trip is not in quest of the highly profitable yellow dirt. He has gone to the desert town on location with the Paramount company filming "Born to the West." Ray plays the part of an old-time westerner in the production.

JOHN T. MURRAY ILL

John T. Murray, film comedian, is confined to his home with a case of tonsilitis. Fortunately John was able to stave off the illness until he had finished his role in King Vidor's "Bardelys the Magnificent."

Marjorie Goes a-Gunning

Marjorie Rambeau

As she will appear in a scene in "The Night Duel," a melodramatic comedy which opens at the Majestic Sunday night.

BOOM IN HOLY LAND

Jerusalem Now a Jewish City for First Time in Centuries

For the first time in many centuries Jerusalem has become a Jewish city, the various movements now drawing Jews back to the Holy Land having succeeded in bringing the ratio of the Jewish population in the Holy City up to 60 per cent of the total of 65,000. All around the Holy City the Jews have established thriving residential colonies and their aim is to encircle Jerusalem with their settlements.

Though this movement of the Jews to Palestine has had a marvelous effect upon the Holy City, it had an even stronger influence upon the life in Northern Palestine, where they have created an entirely new city called Tel-Aviv, with all modern improvements.

This remarkable city, which lies to the north of Jaffa on the coast, has been termed the "Los Angeles of the East," a very apt description. This first purely Jewish city to arise since the days of the Romans reminds one of a western American boom town. Its mayor, officials, police, and all its citizens are Jews. Where a few years ago there was nothing but sand dunes, there is now a busy, prosperous city of 35,000 souls, growing rapidly. Its thoroughfares are spacious, lined with trees and gardens and lit by electric light. There is nothing tawdry or mean about its residences, and its shops, cafes and hotels are modern and up-to-date.

Originally, I believe, Tel-Aviv was to have been a garden city, a place for the retired and well-to-do. When that stage was passed many began to wonder what its inhabitants would do for a livelihood. Cynics in Jerusalem assured me it was a case of taking in one another's washing for a living. But Tel-Aviv became a busy industrial center. More than seventy different enterprises have been founded within the last year or two for the manufacture of various textiles, shoes, hats, thread, stoves, corks, mirrors, electric batteries, leather goods, furniture, and a host of other products, all in demand.

Not far away, on the River Audjah, is Palestine's first modern water power station, another Jewish enterprise, and it is from this station that light and power are supplied to Tel-Aviv, Jaffa, and the surrounding district. When this power station was first built the Arabs would not avail themselves of its electricity. The station started with two engines of 500 horsepower each. Soon a third of 250 horsepower followed and now a fourth has been laid down of 1000 horsepower, and the cry is still "more power." It is a striking instance of what cheap power will do.—[Harold J. Shepstone in World's Work.

DINE ON EVIDENCE

It was Saturday night and the usual number of miscellaneous arrests for drunkenness, vagrancy, etc., were filtering into police headquarters. Three men, however, accompanied by two officers, came in to break the monotony. The white man was plainly inebriated, while one of the two colored men bore a burlap sack from which protruded the tail feathers of several Rhode Island Red chickens.

But he was wrong. The white man had been caught in the act of killing the chickens which belonged on the roost of one of the colored men. Both colored men came in to file charges.

"How about these hyah chickens, boss?" one of the black brethren asked. "Do we have to perduce them in cote for evidence?"

"Yassuh. They ain't bin daid thuty minutes."

"Well, take the evidence home and eat it for Sunday dinner," the clerk advised. They said they would.—[Columbus Dispatch.

Studio AND Stage

A recent purchase by the De Mille Studio of forty-two acres of land just adjoining its present site makes this producing plant the second largest in the world.

Marcel De Sano has been placed under a new long-term contract by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studio, according to an announcement by Louis B. Mayer. De Sano is at present engaged in production of Donn Byrne's famous prize-fight story "In praise of James Carabine."

Director William K. Howard is busily engaged with preliminary arrangements attendant to the filming of "Gigolo," Rod La Rocque's next starring picture.

Reginald Denny has returned from a well-earned rest after finishing "Rolling Home" and will start next week in "Take It From Me," to be directed by William A. Seiter. Blanche Mehaffey has been selected to play opposite Denny.

Carmel Myers again will play in a cast headed by Ramon Novarro. She has been added to the company working under Hobart Henley's direction in "Bellamy the Magnificent."

Filming of "The Clinging Vine" has started with Charles Emmett Mack featured opposite Leatrice Joy. Paul Sloane is directing the Zelda Sears story.

Mack Swain has become a "milkfed comedian." His physician has placed the huge comedian on a lacteal program because Mack was "losing weight." Swain currently is supporting Rudolph Valentino in "Son of the Sheik."

Rivalling "Merry-Go-Round," is the consensus of opinion of "Love Me and the World Is Mine," the next Universal super-production co-starring Mary Philbin and Norman Kerry. It is the first American picture to be made by Andre E. Dupont, celebrated UFA director now under contract to Universal, and all eyes are centered upon the German megaphone handler.

MEIGHAN FINDS NEW OLD GAME IN SOUTH

What is "The Old Grandmother Game?" Thomas Meighan found out down in Florida and introduced the idea as a sequence in his story of baseball and real estate, "The New Klondike" showing at the Metropolitan.

"The Old Grandmother Game" has been employed by crooks and swindlers for the last 100 centuries. Briefly, it consists in the use of a decoy, an old grandmother, to gain sympathy in order to sell something outside the law.

PIRATE SHIP SAILS OVER SCREEN OCEAN

Yo, ho, mates! "Our Gang" have a new craft. The strange ship, built by Hal Roach's rascals sails out over the blue Pacific and drifts over to Catalina Island in search of treasure in the latest "Our Gang," comedy, "Buried Treasure" which is causing the laughs this week at the Metropolitan.

The famous railroad train so often used in the gang's comedies is no longer nearest their hearts from a fun standpoint. The ship has taken its place.

"PATSY" CONTINUES ON ITS LILTING WAY

"Patsy" has become an institution of Los Angeles and will enter its seventh week at the Mason Sunday night.

This musical comedy has the distinction of being the first show produced in Los Angeles by local capital with the principals brought here from Broadway New York.

David Bennett who staged the dances and ensembles of "Patsy" stated that Los Angeles leads every city he has every produced in for its beautiful girls.

BARDSON BARD MAKES SCREEN DEBUT HERE

Bard was one of the highest salaried New York stage headliners at the time he came to Hollywood and due to his travels at various times over the country as a vaudeville star he is also a national favorite.

REED HOWES SIGNS

Reed Howes, who has been starred in fourteen pictures by Joe Brown has just been re-signed by that director for another series of eight pictures for Rayart release. Production will commence Thursday.

"BADGES" TO CLOSE SOON

"Badges" at the Morosco, will run another week after this and will then give way to "She Walked in Her Sleep."
